HOUSES OF PARLIAMENT.

RETURN to an Order of the Honourable The House of Commons,
dated 28 July 1868;—for,

COPY “of REPORT upon the Results of the Experimental Application of certain Compositions to the STONE of the HOUSES of PARLIAMENT.”

Chemical Department, Royal Arsenal, Woolwich,
23 July 1868.

Sir,

IN reply to your letter of the 14th instant, conveying the wish of the First Commissioner of Her Majesty's Works for a report upon the results of the experimental application of certain compositions to the stone of the Houses of Parliament, made under my direction in 1864, I have the honour to state, for his Lordship's information, that, with the view of complying with his request, I have recently inspected the localities to which the various processes have been applied, as described in my reports addressed to you on the 1st June and 10th October 1864.

1. I regret to have to report, as the results of this and of previous repeated inspections, that of the processes enumerated in my reports (each of which was applied with every care by its proposer), not one has proved successful in arresting or preventing the decay of the stone.

2. Inasmuch as the total period which has elapsed since the application of these processes is less than four years, it would be superfluous to discuss their relative merits or demerits; I may, however, observe that one-half that period of time had sufficed to demonstrate the utter inefficiency, as applied to Dolomite's, of the majority of the processes, and that the only one which, until comparatively recently, afforded promise of success was that proposed by Mr. John Spiller.

3. Another process, viz., that of Mr. Ransome, applied experimentally somewhat earlier to different portions of the stone in competition with Mr. Szerelmey's process, has proved scarcely superior to the worst of the processes above referred to.

4. On the other hand, careful and repeated inspection of the several portions of the Houses which have been operated upon by Mr. Szerelmey has led me to the conclusion that the process applied by that gentleman, the details of which have not been communicated to me, is greatly superior to any of the processes above referred to, though it cannot be regarded as a certain remedy or absolute protective against decay in such stone as has been in part employed in building the Houses of Parliament.

5. It should be stated that the larger proportion of the stone to which Mr. Szerelmey's process has been applied (more especially in the Inner Court referred to in your letter) was, at the time of application, in a perfectly sound condition, and would in all likelihood have remained so without application of the process in question. On the other hand, those portions of the building which were selected for trial of the experimental processes were all in a more or less decayed condition. At the same time, among those portions of the buildings operated upon by Mr. Szerelmey, either with a view to their protection, or experimentally in competition with Mr. F. Ransome's process, there were several portions of the stone in a more or less advanced condition of decay; and although the perishing and disintegration of those portions has by no means been in all instances arrested, it has been up to the present time completely or partly checked in several places, and it is only in a few of those particular localities where decay is specially favoured by circumstances of position that it has developed itself to any marked extent in those parts of the building which were submitted to Mr. Szerelmey's treatment.

6. There is one other process which has been submitted to trials of a more protracted, though not so extensive nature as that of Mr. Szerelmey's process, and which in my opinion has furnished results at least as favourable, namely, that of applying linseed oil to the surfaces of the stone. This treatment has the effect of more or less darkening the face of the stone, which may be considered objectionable; on the other hand, the character of the surface is also altered to some extent by Mr. Szerelmey's process, the prepared stone presenting the appearance of having been coated with a wash or thin paint.

7. In my recent examination of the stone of the Houses of Parliament, both in the original and prepared condition, I have been strongly confirmed in the conclusion at which I arrived when my attention was first directed to this subject, and which was also entertained by the Committee appointed in 1861, of which I was a member; namely, that the principal cause of decay of the stone is the lodgment of water, and its frequent retention for long periods by the exposed portions, and especially by those parts which are situated immediately beneath string-courses and other projecting surfaces.

8. I am convinced that if the recommendation of the above-named Committee, in paragraph 20 of their Report, had been acted upon, and such projecting surfaces had been protected, either with a light metallic covering or with some other sufficiently impervious coating, the most disfiguring portions of the decay, which has been proceeding since 1861, would have been arrested or prevented.

— No. 1. —

COPY of TREASURY MINUTE of 23 December 1865.

THE Financial Secretary states to the Board that a deputation from the Courts of Justice Commission waited on him to-day by appointment, and informed him that they were delegated by the Commission to ascertain the views of this Board as to the part which the Commission would be expected or authorised to take in the preparation of the plans of the new building.

By the 4th section of the Act 28 Vict. c. 48, the functions of the Commission in this respect appear to be limited to advising and concurring with the Treasury “in the determination of the plan upon which the said buildings shall be erected, and the necessary arrangements for the proper and convenient accommodation of all the courts and offices to be provided for therein, and for proper accesses thereto;” but it was suggested by the deputation, and it appeared to Mr. Childers desirable, that in the preliminary steps to be taken for preparing this plan, harmonious action between the Treasury and the Commission should be secured.

Mr. Childers adds, that he had consulted the first Commissioner of Works in the matter, and that he made the following proposal to the deputation, with Mr. Cowper’s concurrence.

1. That so soon as the instructions for the competing architects, now in course of preparation by Mr. Burnet, have been settled by the Commission and approved by the Treasury, a committee of five judges be formed, two being named by the Commission, two by the Treasury, and the fifth being the First Commissioner of Works, as Chairman.

2. That the question of limited or unlimited competition, and in the event of the former being adopted, the selection of the competing architects, should be decided by the committee of judges, the amount of the premiums to be awarded being fixed after reference to the Treasury.

3. That the notice or invitations to compete be issued by the committee of judges, and that their award should be final.

4. That the plans and drawings, having been prepared by the successful architect and approved by the Treasury, should receive the final confirmation of the Commission by the signature of the Chairman being attached to them when the contracts are entered into.

The deputation having expressed their concurrence in this proposal, Mr. Childers submits it for the consideration of their Lordships.

My Lords approve.

Send copies of this Minute to the Lord Chancellor, as Chairman of the Commission, and to the First Commissioner of Works.

Mr. Cowper to the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury.

My Lords,

Curzon-street, 30 July 1867.

I HAVE the honour to inform your Lordships that the Judges of Designs appointed to adjudicate on the competition for the Courts of Justice having carefully and anxiously considered the designs, and also the reports and correspondence communicated to them, have been unable to select any one of the designs as the best in all respects; but they are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry is the best in regard to plan and distribution of the interior, and that the design of Mr. Street is the best in regard to merit as an architectural composition; and they recommend that an offer be made to those two architects to act conjointly in the preparation of the final plan to be executed, Mr. Barry being chiefly responsible for the internal arrangements of the building, and Mr. Street for the elevations.

The Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

I have, &c.
(signed) William Cowper.

— No. 3. —

TREASURY MINUTE, dated 12 August 1867.

WRITE to the Chairman of the Judges of Designs for the New Courts of Justice, that my Lords have received his communication of the 30th ultimo, informing their lordships that the judges have been unable to select any one of the designs as the best in all respects, and recommending that an offer be made to Mr. Barry and Mr. Street to act conjointly in the preparation of the final plan to be executed.

My Lords have before them the instructions issued to the competing architects by the Courts of Justice Commission, and approved by this Board. They contain, in paragraph 56, a memorandum which commences as follows:—

“A payment of 800 l. to be made to each competitor, except the successful one, who is to be employed as the architect of the building.

“The architect employed shall receive 5 per cent. commission on the amount of the contract or contracts, and on any extras the amount of which shall have been distinctly and previously authorised by the Treasury.”

It appears to their Lordships that this memorandum contemplated the selection of one of the competitors as the architect to be employed, and that the expression of opinion on the part of the judges of designs, contained in Mr. Cowper's letter, “that the design of Mr. Barry is the best in regard to plan and distribution of the interior, and that the design of Mr. Street is the best in regard to merit as an architectural composition,” coupled with a recommendation that those gentlemen should be invited “to act conjointly in the preparation of the final plan,” is not such a selection as was indicated by the above-mentioned memorandum as intended to be made, nor such an award as their Lordships' predecessors, by Minute of 23rd December 1865, agreed should be considered as final.

My Lords would, moreover, invite the attention of the judges to the 54th section of the instructions to the competing architects, which contains the following intimation:—

“The estimate on which the Acts of Parliament relative to the new Courts have passed, has assumed that there will be 750,000 l. applicable to the erection of the building. The architect is requested, if possible, to design such a building as may be erected for that sum, and to state the cost at which he estimates his design could be carried out. An independent surveyor will be named to test the estimates so sent in, in concurrence with the several architects or their respective surveyors.

“The comparative cost of carrying out each design will be an important element in determining the competition.”

Mr.

Mr. Gardiner was subsequently appointed, with the approval of this Board, to test the estimates accordingly.

Since the receipt of Mr. Cowper's letter my Lords have received from the Secretary to the Commission a copy of Mr. Gardiner's Report upon the estimates, and by the date of that Report, namely the 3rd August, it would appear that when the judges of designs came to the conclusion that they were unable to select any one of the designs as the best in all respects, the result of Mr. Gardiner's examination of the estimates had not been before them.

My Lords are unable to say in what way, without the assistance of his Report, the judges dealt with the question of "the comparative cost of carrying out each design," which the Commissioners had intimated would be "an important element in determining the competition."

Adverting to these considerations, my Lords would venture to hope that the judges of designs will, after further deliberation and with the additional information that has been supplied by Mr. Gardiner's Report, now before them, be able to make such an award in favour of some one of the competing architects as may be taken as final.

Sir,

21 August 1867.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 13th instant, referring to my communication of the 30th July, and I beg to assure you that I will communicate it to the other Judges of Designs as soon as I have an opportunity of doing so.

Mr. Cowper to the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury.

My Lords,

Curzon-street, 28 November 1867.

THE Judges of Designs for the Courts of Justice have met for the consideration of your Lordships' letter of 28th August.

We regret that we could not agree to make such an award as was contemplated in the Treasury Minute, and the instructions to the architects, but having arrived at the conclusion that the design of Mr. Barry is the best in regard to plan, and that of Mr. Street in regard to elevation, we considered that the best course of procedure we could adopt under the circumstances was to tender our recommendations to your Lordships, that those two architects who were the first in the two branches of the competition should be entrusted conjointly with the preparation of that final design which it was understood, between the competitors and your Lordships, would be adopted subsequently to the exhibition of the competitive designs.

On reviewing our proceedings, no course appears to have been open to us better than that we have taken, but whether we judged rightly or not, it is clear that we have now no power to render further assistance in this matter.

With reference to Mr. Gardiner's report on the measurements and estimates of the competitors, I may observe that it does not contain anything to affect our previous decision.

I have, &c.

Sir,

I AM desired by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty to transmit to you, to be laid before the Courts of Justice Commissioners, the enclosed copy of a letter, dated 28th November last, from the Chairman of the Committee of Judges of Designs, stating their regret that they could not agree to make such an award as was contemplated in the Treasury Minute of 23rd December 1856 last, and the instructions to the architects.

The Secretary to the Courts of Justice Commission to the Secretary to the Treasury.

Courts of Justice Commission, 33, Lincoln's-inn Fields,
14 December 1867.

Sir,

By a resolution of the Courts of Justice Commission, at a meeting held yesterday, I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 10th instant, transmitting to me the copy of a communication from the Chairman of the Committee of Judges of Designs, in which the judges state their regret that they could not agree to make such an award as was contemplated in the Treasury Minute and the instructions to the architects.

You do not acquaint the Commission with what object (except that they may be informed of what has occurred in the matter) this communication is made to them; but their attention has been called to the reply given on the 29th November last, by their Lordships' Financial Secretary, to a question in the House of Commons, in which Mr. Hunt stated that in this matter "the Treasury propose to do what the Act of Parliament laid down, and to seek the advice of the Commission." The Commission accordingly conclude that the letter from the judges of designs is sent to them in order that they may advise the Treasury upon it.

The Commission desire me to observe that, in strictness, the Courts of Justice (Building) Act 1865, s. 4, only requires the advice of the Commission as to "the plan upon which the buildings shall be erected, and the necessary arrangements for the proper or convenient accommodation of all the courts, and offices to be provided for therein and for proper accesses thereto." The selection of the architect rests with Her Majesty's Government, and the arrangements under which the concurrence of the Commission with the Treasury, in this and other preliminary steps for preparing the plan, was ensured, are based on the Treasury Minute of the 23rd December 1865, adopted by the Commission on the 15th January 1866.

On advising, therefore, the Treasury at the present juncture, the Commission are not acting under their statutory powers.

I am, however, to state, that it appears to them most desirable that the selection of the architect should be made in accordance with the terms of the Memorandum which forms Section 56 of the instructions to the competing architects, signed by Lord Cranworth on the 17th April 1866; and that the opinion of the Attorney General, by whom all questions which may arise in the interpretation of that Memorandum are to be determined, should be taken, whether the decision of the seven judges should be recognised as naming Messrs.

Messrs. Barry and Street, the two equally successful competitors, so that they may be jointly employed accordingly, if prepared to accept such employment, and to share the architect's commission on the conditions already settled.

Sir,

I AM desired by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to transmit herewith, for the information of the Courts of Justice Commissioners with reference to previous correspondence, the enclosed copy of the opinion of the Attorney General on the decision of the Judges of Designs as to the selection of an architect for the New Courts of Justice.

I am at the same time to state that, having regard to the terms of that opinion, my Lords now consider themselves free to make any appointment they may think proper, and that they will forthwith proceed to consider what appointment should be made.

Sir,

As I observe that one or two very incorrect statements were made by Members of the House of Commons last night on the subject, may I bring before your notice the state of the case in regard to one most important portion of the subject, that of the comparative cost of the buildings shown in the various designs.

I observe that Mr. Pease asserted that I estimated the cost of my design at 300,000 l. less than the surveyor appointed by the Treasury. The real difference between our estimates was less than 200,000 l. But Mr. Pease omitted to notice, and I am particularly anxious to call your attention to the fact, that the surveyor appointed by the Treasury calculated the cost of my design at a price per cubic foot lower than the designs of all the other competitors, save Mr. Abraham and Mr. Garling.

I need hardly say that it is the price per cubic foot which is the real test of costliness in such a building. For, as not two competitors have proceeded exactly on the same data as to the important dimensions of the heights of rooms and offices, it is obvious that a comparison of the total cubical contents of the various schemes is not really a just comparison. For instance, I find that if I were to reduce the heights of the rooms used as offices throughout the building, from the height shown on my plan, to that which is shown on Mr. Waterhouse's plan, the cubical contents of my building would at once be so much reduced as to make the cost of my plan, according to the surveyor's estimate, less than that of Mr. Waterhouse's plan.

— No. 11. —

Mr. E. M. Barry to the Secretary to the Treasury.

21, Abingdon-street,
8 June 1868.

Sir,

I AM informed that Her Majesty's Government propose to disregard the award of the Judges of Designs for the New Law Courts, and to appoint Mr. Street sole architect of that important work, notwithstanding that they have been twice officially informed by the Right Honourable W. F. Cowper, the Chairman of the Judges of Designs, that the judges have decided that my design is the best in regard to plan, and that of Mr. Street in regard to elevation only.

The conditions of competition provide in the most stringent manner that excellence of plan and internal arrangement is to be preferred to all other considerations. The conditions state on page 11, "The chief points to be kept constantly in view, and to be treated as superseding, so far as they may conflict, all considerations of architectural effect, are the accommodation to be provided and the arrangements to be adopted, so as in the greatest degree to facilitate the dispatch and the accurate transaction of the law business of the country, and, in carrying out this design, the first object should be to provide ample uninterrupted communication and accommodation for those who have legitimate business in the new building." On page 7 we read, "The arrangement of the courts and offices is of vital moment, on it mainly depends the success or failure of their concentration, and its importance cannot be over-estimated." For the interior of such a building, and in such a locality, a requirement of the first magnitude, and one having a very important bearing on the question of arrangement, is abundant window light. It will be next to impossible to give too much to any of the offices. Almost every room throughout the building being devoted to purposes of writing or reading, will necessarily require the fullest extent of light which can be obtained." Again, on pages 8 and 9. "But whilst the question of a sufficiency of light is of very great importance, and must necessarily have influence in the arrangement of the rooms, a necessity of almost equal urgency is quiet. In short, the utmost precautions must be taken, and means provided, by which the quiet of the courts may be secured. The comparative degrees of quiet required for the different offices, are meant to be indicated in the schedules; thus, q¹, q², q³, signifying respectively quiet, quieter, and quietest." Again, on page 13, "The convenient working of the whole arrangement depends on the manner in which facilities of communication are afforded." The above extracts are but specimens of the spirit which pervades the the conditions throughout, laying down the principles to be followed in the selection of the architect, and their requirements are summed up in the general heading in the index, "Utility to be attended to before effect."

Few practical persons will fail to admit the good sense of these instructions, or the difficulty of complying with them, in respect of a building which is to be one of strict utility. Fewer still will be prepared to find that the result of the competition is to disregard them as if they had never been written, and to choose a design avowedly recommended by a preference for its elevation alone.

The Judges of Designs have twice officially recorded their judgment in their award, that "the design of Mr. Barry is the best in regard to plan and distribution of the interior." Two of their number, Messrs. Shaw and Pownall, who were specially appointed to advise the Royal Commission on points of professional detail, have recorded their opinion, seriatim, on the several points referred to in the instructions to the competing architects, and have reported in my favour under the following heads :

Light and Air.	Vice-Chancellor Wood's Court and rooms.
Quiet.	Spare Court of Equity.
Relative position of departments.	Registrars' Offices.
Accesses and staircases.	Enrolment Office.
Communication between different sets of offices.	Visitors in Lunacy.
Separation of traffic.	Queen's Bench Judges' Chambers.
Private road, Clement's Inn, Bell Yard and Strand.	Common Pleas Judges' Chambers.
Queen's Bench Court and rooms.	Exchequer Judges' Chambers.
Common Pleas Court and rooms.	Queen's Bench Master's Office.
Exchequer Court and rooms.	Common Pleas Master's Office.
Exchequer Chamber.	Queen's Bench Associate.
Spare Court.	Common Pleas Associate.
Lords Justices Court and rooms.	Exchequer Associate.
Vice-Chancellor Kinderley's Court, and rooms.	Circuit Associates.
Vice-Chancellor Stuart's Court and rooms.	Crown Officer's Rooms.
	Royal Commissions Offices.
	Spare rooms.
	Waterclosets and urinals.

By this report, a copy of which is annexed, my design is selected as the best for almost all the courts and most important offices, and is specially preferred in the all-important matters of light and air, quiet, accesses, general arrangements, &c., which are the vital points to be attended to, and for the neglect of which, no exterior, however attractive, will furnish compensation.

Mr. Street's design is only specially noticed four times, first, as to condition No. 5, as being inconsistent with the conditions, in the important matter of the size of the courts, which is stated to be deficient; secondly, and thirdly, as to area of site and tramways, on which points it is preferred; and fourthly, it is put on an equality with the designs of seven other competitors, in the provision made for the Receiver of Wills Department.

When the architects were invited to compete, they were informed by a Treasury Minute, dated 23rd December 1865, that "the notices or invitations to compete" should "be issued by the committee of judges, and that their award should be final"; and though I have been willing, in deference to the award, to waive my special claims, and to consent to act jointly with Mr. Street, I must, in justice to myself, maintain that, by the award of the judges, my claims were made superior to those of any other single competitor, and no other ought to have been preferred to me.

I write in no spirit of hostility to my friend Mr. Street, but it is impossible not to see that my design has been selected for what I have done, in respect of those important points which the competitors were told were of vital moment. The solid grounds of my selection are plainly and intelligibly recorded, so that all the world may judge of their importance; while Mr. Street is to be appointed from an æsthetic preference for his elevation alone, in defiance of the clearest statement that such preference was not to determine the competition. Moreover, as Mr. Street's elevation is altogether inconsistent with the plan approved, and cannot therefore be carried out, he is selected not for what he has done, but for what he may yet do, a ground, upon which he might as well have been chosen without any competition at all. I have every confidence in Mr. Street's ability to design and carry out a building worthy of the nation, but I regret to say, that I cannot acquiesce in the justice of the course proposed to be adopted, as it is directly at variance with the letter and the spirit of the conditions, on the faith of which, I, in common with the other competitors, agreed to devote my time and attention to this work.

Having conformed to the regulations of the Commission, having complied with the conditions, and having the award of the judges in my favour, I have a right, very respectfully but most urgently, to ask that the Government should, on their part, abide by their engagement formally recorded in a Treasury Minute, that the award of the judges should be final. I therefore most earnestly appeal to their Lordships, not to turn my hardy-earned success in this arduous competition into a serious loss and injury, by denying to me, after a long and trying suspense, my just reward, and excluding me from all connection with this great national work, with which they have allowed my name to be publicly associated during the last 12 months.

I have, &c.

COURTS OF JUSTICE COMMISSION.

REPORT of Mr. Shaw and Mr. Pownall on the COMPETITIVE DESIGNS for the NEW COURTS OF JUSTICE.

Courts of Justice Commission,
33, Lincoln's-Inn Fields, 13 May 1867.

My Lords and Gentlemen,
WE have now the honour to present the Report of our investigation of the competitive designs for the Courts of Justice on the several points contained in the instructions furnished to the competing architects.

We should have been glad to feel that this Report, made we believe in conformity with the instructions contained in your Minute of the 23rd day of March, would have enabled the Commissioners to determine "which of the designs upon the whole afforded the greatest advantages."

We fear, however, that this is not the case, and that although we have expressed a definite opinion on all the most important requisitions, the number of those requisitions is so considerable, and they vary so much in their relative importance, as to make it extremely difficult, if not impossible, for the Commissioners upon the Report alone to arrive at a satisfactory conclusion as to which of the designs does offer the greatest advantages, having reference as well to the relative compliance of the several competitors with the instructions in detail, as to the equally important points of the general arrangement and combination of the design as a whole.

We beg to submit the following observations for the consideration of the Commissioners :

We have been deeply impressed with the great talent exhibited in the designs, and with the unwearied application which must have been devoted to their preparation, and to the difficult task of compressing into the allotted space the large extent of accommodation called for by the instructions.

We are, however, decidedly of opinion that it is impossible properly to provide this extent of accommodation on the proposed site, and that, in order to obtain sufficient light and air to the numerous courts and offices, it is essential that the area of ground should be enlarged.

This enlargement, it appears to us, is further desirable as facilitating the placing the courts and some of the more frequented and important offices on a lower level than has been found practicable in any of the present designs.

We consider this change in the level important, both as regards the convenience of the judges as well as of the numerous persons attending the courts and offices in question.

On the subject of warming and ventilation, we beg to suggest, that while as regards the courts, halls, and corridors, some general system of hot air or hot water should be adopted, it would be desirable to warm and ventilate all the rooms by means of ordinary fire-places and sash-windows opening, not into covered courts, but directly to the external air.

The Commissioners will be fully aware that the opinions we have expressed in the Report have been formed entirely without reference to the relative merit of the designs as architectural compositions, that part of the subject not having been referred to us.

We have, &c.

George Pownall.

R E P O R T.

Accommodation.

As to No. 4, Public Hall.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Lockwood offers the greatest advantages.

As to No. 5, Area of Courts and Rooms.—The designs of Mr. Street and Mr. Waterhouse as regards the courts are not in accordance with the instructions, being deficient in the prescribed area on the floor level; the rest of the designs are in accordance with the instructions. Our opinion of the advantages they offer will be given in a latter part of the report under the head of each court.

As to No. 6, Height of Rooms.—The designs in our opinion offer equal advantages.

As to No. 7, Level of Floors.—This subject is referred to in the letter which accompanies our report.

As to No. 8, Shape of Courts.—No observation appears to us to be necessary.

As to Nos. 9, 10 and 11, Extra Courts and Offices.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Seddon offers the greatest advantages.

As to No. 12, Spare Rooms.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

As to No. 13, Housekeepers, Police and Firemen's Residences.—No observation appears to us to be necessary.

As to No. 14, Housekeepers' Accommodation in the Building, Lifts, &c.—The designs in our opinion offer equal advantages.

As to No. 15, Waterclosets and Urinals.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

As to No. 16, Refreshment Department.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Burges offers the greatest advantages.

As to No. 17, Block Plan of Site.—No observation appears to us to be necessary.

As to No. 18 (referring also to Minutes, pages 113, and 142), Area of Site.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Street offers the greatest advantages. Mr. Seddon's design is not in conformity with the instructions, by reason of its encroachment upon Carey-street.

As to No. 19, Extent of Excavation.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Scott offers the greatest advantages.

As to No. 20, Probate Court Tower.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Scott offers the greatest advantages.

Arrangement.

As to Nos. 21 and 22, Arrangement, Proximity, and Communication.—Having read the Reports of the heads of the several departments as to—

The Lord Chancellor's Court and Room.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Burges and Mr. Abraham offer equal advantages.

Lords Justices Court and Rooms.—We are of opinion that the designs of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

Master of the Rolls Court.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Deane offers the greatest advantages.

Vice Chancellor Kindersley's Court and Rooms.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

Vice Chancellor Stuart's Court and Rooms.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

Vice Chancellor Wood's Court and Rooms.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

Spare Court of Equity.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

Master of the Rolls' Chambers.—We are of opinion that Mr. Scott offers the greatest advantages.

Vice-Chancellor Malins' (late Kindersley) Chambers.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Lockwood offers the greatest advantages.

Vice-Chancellor Stuart's Chambers.—We are of opinion that Mr. Scott's design offers the greatest advantages.

Vice-Chancellor Wood's Chambers.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Brandon offers the greatest advantages.

Registrars' Offices.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

Taxing Masters' Offices.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Scott offers the greatest advantages.

Accountant General's Offices.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Scott offers the greatest advantages.

Record and Writ Office.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Scott offers the greatest advantages.

Petty Bag Office.—We are opinion that the design of Mr. Lockwood offers the greatest advantages.

Examiners' Office.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Lockwood offers the greatest advantages.

Enrolment Office.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

Masters in Lunacy.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Burges offers the greatest advantages.

Visitors in Lunacy.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

Registrar in Lunacy.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Lockwood offers the greatest advantages.

Solicitor to the Suitors' Fund.—We are of opinion that the designs offer equal advantages.

Queen's Bench Courts and Rooms.—We are of opinion that the designs of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

Common Pleas Courts and Rooms.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

Exchequer Courts and Rooms.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

Exchequer Chamber.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

Spare Court.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

Judges' Chambers, Queen's Bench.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

As to No. 25, Quiet.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

As to No. 26, Tramways.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Street offers the greatest advantages.

As to No. 27, Position of Courts.—We are of opinion that all the designs sufficiently conform to the instructions.

As to No. 28, Relative Position of Courts.—We are of opinion that all the design sufficiently conform to the instructions.

As to No. 29, Floor Level of Courts.—We are of opinion that Mr. Seddon's design offers the greatest advantages.

As to No. 30, Relative Position of Departments.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

As to No. 31, Probable Amalgamation of Offices.—We are of opinion that the designs offer equal advantages.

As to No. 32, Accesses and Staircases to Offices.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

As to No. 33, Communication between different Sets of Offices.—We are of opinion that Mr. Barry's design offers the greatest advantages.

As to No. 34, Speaking Tubes, &c.—No observation appears to us to be necessary.

As to No. 35, Telegraphic Communication.—No observation appears to us to be necessary.

As to No. 36, Intercommunication, &c.—We are of opinion that Mr. Barry's design offers the greatest advantages.

As regards Fireproof Separation, the report of Captain Shaw of the Metropolitan Fire Brigade will render any remark from us unnecessary.

As to No. 37, Subways for Public.—None of the designs appear to us adequately to meet this requirement.

As to No. 38, Separation of Traffic.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

As to Nos. 39 and 40, Private Road, Clement's Inn, Bell Yard, and Strand.—We are of opinion that the design of Mr. Barry offers the greatest advantages.

General Subjects.

As to No. 41, Chief point to be kept in view.—No further observation appears to us to be necessary.

As to No. 42, Ventilation and Acoustics.—As to Ventilation, the Report of Dr. Percy will render any remark from us unnecessary.

As to No. 43, Heating.—The designs of Mr. Brandon, Mr. Burges, Mr. Garling, Mr. Street, and Mr. Waterhouse, provide for conveying the smoke from the fireplaces in the several rooms by means of descending flues, culverts, and smoke towers; the rest of the designs provide for this object in the ordinary way by separate shafts, by which the smoke will ascend; but all the designs will admit of this arrangement.

As to No. 44, Fireproof Construction and Water Supply.—All the designs are capable of being constructed fireproof, and they provide for adequate water supply.

As to Nos. 45 and 46, Police Accommodation, &c.—We have no observations to make on these heads.

As to Nos. 47 to 53, inclusive, Illustration of Designs.—We are of opinion that the conditions have been most fully and satisfactorily complied with.

As to No. 54, Estimate.—We have no observation to make on this head.

Mr. G. E. Street to the Secretary to the Treasury.

51, Russell-square, London, W. C.,
22 June 1868.

Sir,

It seems to be necessary that I should say a few words in reply to the protest which Mr. E. M. Barry has published on the occasion of my appointment as architect to the New Courts of Justice, and I have accordingly prepared a memorandum, of which I enclose a copy herewith.

I have, &c.

Enclosure in No. 11.

THE NEW LAW COURTS.

SOME REMARKS on Mr. E. M. Barry's Protest against the Appointment of Mr. Street as Architect.

THE protest against the decision of the Treasury in the case of the New Law Courts' which has been prepared by Mr. E. M. Barry, is a most incomplete and very one-sided statement of facts.

In order to prove this, it is necessary to recapitulate what has passed. The instructions issued to the competing architects in April 1866, were very strict in three points, viz. (i.) extent of site, which was generally understood to be a block 700 feet $\times$ 510 feet, but as to which there was so much doubt, that Mr. Barry took a frontage of about 30 feet more than Mr. Street, to the very great advantage of his plan; (ii.) the arrangement of courts and offices, which was said to be of vital importance, and which was to be treated as "superseding, so far as they may conflict" [no further], "all considerations of architectural effect; and (iii.) cost, as to which the instructions said, "An independent surveyor will be named to test estimates," and "comparative cost of carrying out each design will be an important element in determining the competition."

The designs were sent in January 1867, and, in order to aid the judges of design in arriving at a conclusion, three separate investigations were carried on by direction of the Royal Commission:—

(a) A joint-committee of bar and solicitors was appointed to examine and report on the plans, and to prepare certain recommendations and resolutions which should be binding on the architect who was employed to prepare the final plan. This was the most important inquiry of all.

(b) The designs as to each department were laid before the judges and officers of that department, and their opinion was asked as to the comparative merits of the various plans in detail.

(c) In December 1866, two gentlemen (Messrs. Shaw and Pownall) were employed to make an independent investigation, and report upon all the plans. They examined the plans and reported on them; and a few days after they had reported they were added to the number of the judges of design, and the inevitable consequence was, that these two gentlemen stood apparently pledged to their report, which was mainly in Mr. Barry's favour, without having seen the report of the Barristers' and Solicitors' Committee, or the reports of the heads of departments, or the estimate of the comparative cost of the plans.

It is on this one preliminary report, to the entire exclusion of the others, that the whole of Mr. Barry's protest is founded; and he appears to consider that it has a special value and importance over and above that which attaches to the other reports which were presented to the judges of design, and indeed that it has so much force as to be binding both on the judges of design, and even now that the whole competition has come to an end upon the Government. In short, that the real decision in this competition was arrived at and announced by Messrs. Shaw and Pownall before they were even appointed judges of design, and without leaving to the other eminent men appointed to be judges of design any opportunity of exercising their powers.

Mr. Barry has rested his case on this preliminary report for the very obvious reason that it is, as he says, much in his favour. Yet it is to be observed that, to take one instance, even Messrs. Shaw and Pownall were unable to commend the extraordinary arrangement of the Probate Department proposed by Mr. Barry, and that if, as certainly must have been the case, he was compelled to move this enormous fireproof department from the centre of the building above the central hall where he had placed it, to some safer and more accessible position, he would have been compelled at once to alter the whole arrangement of his plan, and to reduce largely the spaces for light and air which he had obtained by stowing away in an impracticable place this large section of the building.

If Mr. Barry's plan is examined in connection with the recommendations of the Bar and Attorneys' Committee, and the resolutions founded on them and agreed to by the Commission, it will at once be found that it no longer stands in the position which he claims for it upon the strength of the other report. They expressly condemn in his case: (1). The level of the central hall; (2), its very complicated plan; (3), the position of the Courts of Chancery (Mr. Barry's is the only plan of the 11 condemned in this most important particular); (4), the lack of provision for ingress and egress from both sides of the courts; (5), the position of the bar rooms; (6), the position and the level of the rooms appropriated to attorneys; (7), the position of the offices of the Probate Court, which has been placed, they say, "by Mr. Barry, in the centre of the building, so as to increase the concourse of persons into that part to an extent which, in the opinion of the officers of the Probate Department, cannot but interfere with the general utility of the building."

Finally, the Commission protest warmly against the portion of Messrs. Shaw and Pownall's report, referred to in Mr. Barry's protest, which condemns the plan of the Courts in Mr. Street's and Mr. Waterhouse's schemes, and resolve that their arrangements are properly made in order to secure greater quiet in the courts, and that, so far from being defective, they are really better than the rest.

This important report and the resolutions founded on it, form the data on which the selected architect now has to proceed in preparing the final plan.

It need hardly be said that it is altogether unfavourable to Mr. Barry's plan (far more so than it is to Mr. Street's), and opposed, therefore, in toto to the spirit of the report of Messrs. Shaw and Pownall, which, in point of fact, is superseded.

It is necessary next to examine the report of the officers of the various courts and offices. They may be supposed to know what they require, and each office was furnished with a copy of so much of the plans as referred to it. The results of their report, when examined carefully, are startlingly different from those at which Messrs. Shaw and Pownall arrived. They report, in the case of Mr. Barry, on 37 offices; of these they consider the arrangement, &c., of nine to be good, those of 10 to be moderate, and those of 18 bad. In the case of Mr. Street's plan, they report 12 good, 12 moderate, and 11 bad. So that, judged by the reports of men who ought to have been able to form a very good opinion, Mr. Street's plan was more convenient than Mr. Barry's.

Finally, Mr. Barry has entirely ignored the surveyor's estimate of cost, and for a very obvious reason. Mr. Gardiner, the surveyor employed by the Treasury, reports that Mr. Street's design could be executed for 87,600*l.* less than Mr. Barry's, so that on this head, which was to be "an important element in determining the competition," Mr. Street possesses a great, clear, and incontestable superiority over Mr. Barry.

The judges of design bracketed the designs of Mr. Street and Mr. Barry as equal; they could not decide (so their Chairman said in the House of Commons) to which to give the preference. But this must have been because they sent in their award before they had received Mr. Gardiner's estimate as to cost; for as the merits of the two plans were, in their opinion, equal before that estimate was seen, it is clear that they ceased to be so after its presentation, and that Mr. Street was fairly entitled to the position which has now been accorded to him.

It remains to observe that when Mr. Barry asserts that his plan was selected "for what he had done," and Mr. Street's "for what he might yet do," he makes an entirely misleading statement. He knows, as indeed all the competing architects knew from the first, that after the competition was over, a "final plan" would have to be prepared, founded on the resolutions which the Commission came to after an examination of all the schemes. These resolutions were so entirely hostile to Mr. Barry's plan, that if he had been appointed architect he must have re-arranged every part of it from one end to the other.

Mr. Barry adopts the somewhat extraordinary assumption, that in a building of this magnitude and purpose, architectural merit is of comparatively little importance. On the contrary, he ought to know that whilst most men of intelligence and good ability, if they have definite instructions, can plan a fairly convenient building, it is given to comparatively few to be able to clothe their plans with really noble architectural features. If this can be done without extravagant outlay, so much the better; and it is worth remark, therefore, that Mr. Gardiner's estimate of the cost of Mr. Street's design is not only so much lower than that of Mr. Barry's, as has been stated, but that he estimates its cost per cubic foot at a lower rate than the designs of all the other competitors, except Mr. Abraham and Mr. Garling. So that Mr. Street has not only earned the judges' award for having produced the design which "has the greatest merit as an architectural composition," but he has done so, according to the Government surveyor, at a most moderate rate of cost.

J. SCLATER-BOOTH.

LETTER from the Judge of the Court of Probate to the Secretary of the Courts of Justice Commission.

Probate Court, Westminster Hill,
18 January 1868.

Sir,

I THINK it right to forward to you, to be laid before the Commission, the enclosed Memorial. I need hardly point out to the Commission the extreme importance to the department over which I preside of the subjects to which it refers.

The question is of nothing less than the permanent efficiency of the large staff of clerks there employed, and the reasonable economy of their time, and therefore of the public money.

I venture to hope that the Commission may think the subject worthy of their serious attention.

Courts of Justice Commission.

I am, &c.
(signed) James Wilde.

MEMORIAL from the Officers of the Court of Probate respecting the Position of the Registry of the Court of Probate in the New Buildings.

To the Right Honourable Sir James Plaisted Wilde, Knight, Judge of Her Majesty's Court of Probate, and Judge Ordinary of Her Majesty's Court for Divorce and Matrimonial Causes.

WE, the undersigned officers of the above-mentioned Courts, beg leave respectfully to present to your Lordship the following Memorial :—

1. We have been for nine years compelled to carry on the constantly increasing business devolving on the Registries of the above-mentioned Courts under circumstances of very great difficulty, arising from the want of proper accommodation.

2. To relieve us from these difficulties, the Legislature, in the year 1859, passed the 22 & 23 Vict. c. 16, but that Act has been allowed to remain a dead letter.

3. Had that Act been carried out we should for some years past have been properly provided for, but as it was not, we are to this day suffering severely from the apartments assigned us being too few in number, insufficient in size, and badly ventilated.

MEMORIAL RELATING TO THE

4. We were led to hope when the Commission for building the new Courts of Justice was appointed, that we might look forward to be placed in a building arranged so as to give us the best accommodation which the professional skill of the competing architects, aided by our own practical knowledge and experience, could devise.

5. To assist in effecting this object, we devoted as much of our time as we could spare to studying the several plans exhibited by the competing architects, more particularly with respect to our own particular departments.

6. We were given to understand that, as Government had purchased the whole of the plans exhibited, the final plan might have alterations and variations introduced into it from the others, so as to render it as perfect as possible.

7. The Court of Probate and its Registry will occupy nearly one-fifth of the whole proposed building, a space only slightly inferior to that required for the whole of the Courts of Law and their offices. The business transacted in the Court of Probate and its Registry is of the highest national importance, and will be able to furnish resources fully adequate to meet any expenditure which may be needed. We submit, therefore, that no objections ought to prevail against our having assigned to us such a portion of the new building, and in such a position, as will enable us the most effectually to discharge our duties.

8. Until we saw the plans we were unable, except as a mere matter of choice, to point out any position as better adapted for the Court of Probate than another, but after studying them we have arrived at the conclusion that the only position in which we can satisfactorily fulfil our public duties (due regard being had to the requirements of others) is one on the western side of the building. In this conclusion we are more or less supported by eight out of the eleven architects who exhibited plans. Of the other three, one placed us on the eastern side of the building, whilst Mr. Barry, the architect since selected for the interior of the building, and Mr. Abraham placed us in the centre. The latter position we cannot but consider the most detrimental to the due performance of our public duties which could easily have been selected.

9. We also regret to find that the position selected by Mr. Barry for our strong rooms is on the third or fourth storey, above the public reading and searching room. We are convinced such a position will tell severely upon the accuracy and dispatch of the business throughout the Registry.

10. We have also to point out that Mr. Barry's plan places the Registry of the Court of Probate in such a position as will throw the mass of persons attending it (frequently exceeding 1,000 a day) on the centre of the building. This we conceive cannot but seriously interfere with its general utility. If the building were to take fire, our records could not possibly escape injury, and would probably be entirely destroyed in the position Mr. Barry assigns them.

11. On either side of the main Strand entrance, Mr. Barry's plan places the Personal Application Department and the Inland Revenue Department. It will be impossible, in such a position, to prevent them from becoming more or less general inquiry offices, and this would be absolute destruction to the business transacted in the latter department.

12. On the west side of the inner block of building, Mr. Barry's plan places the public searching and reading rooms, the Record Keeper's assistants' room, the Accountant's room, the room to read wills, the room for literary inquiries, and the messengers' room. This disposition obliges the mass of the public who resort to the registry for the purpose of reading wills, to proceed to the very centre of the building, where they will have to wait until a clerk has ascended several storeys above them, and returned with the will required. Knowing this class of persons, we are convinced the business of the registry could not be successfully carried on under such an arrangement.

13. The only security against these obstructions to the public business from intrusion on the part of the above-mentioned persons, will consist in placing numerous porters or policemen so as to watch the door to every room they can readily approach. We are persuaded such a device can be only partially successful, and we deprecate the large and useless expense it will entail. Even were

were it entirely successful, we should still have to encounter the difficulty arising from the distant position of the strong rooms.

14. We regret exceedingly that the architect selected for the interior of the building should be one who has placed us in so unfortunate a position. It could not be expected that an architect, however eminent, would be able, in the first instance, to provide for the proper working of so complex a machine as the Registry of the Court of Probate. We were, therefore, prepared to find that whatever plan might be selected, it would be necessary to suggest alterations in it. We, however, did not anticipate that our objections could be such as would apparently involve the entire remodelling of the successful architect's interior plan. To our great regret we find this to be the case. We have, therefore, determined to present this Memorial to your Lordship.

And we pray that your Lordship will be pleased to exert your influence with the Commission to obtain for the Registry of the Court of Probate a suitable position on the western side of the building, and fire-proof buildings for its records, contiguous to the public reading and searching rooms.

And your Memorialists will ever pray, &c.

WESTMINSTER HALL.

RETURN to an Order of the Honourable The House of Commons,
dated 13 March 1868;—for,

COPY “of CORRESPONDENCE in July 1866 between the First Commissioner of Works and Edward Middleton Barry, Esq., R.A., respecting the Proposal to place the STATUES of BRITISH SOVEREIGNS in WESTMINSTER HALL.”

Mr. Alfred Austin to Mr. E. M. Barry, R.A.

Office of Works, &c., S. W.,
4 July 1866.

Sir,

I AM directed by the First Commissioner of Her Majesty's Works, &c., to inform you that he has under consideration the difficulties attending the execution of the scheme for placing Statues of British Sovereigns in the sites mentioned in the Report of the Committee which was appended to the Twelfth Report of the Commission on the Fine Arts, and that he is desirous of having your opinion as to the positions which those statues could occupy in the Queen's Robing Room, the Royal Gallery, and the Great Staircase.

I am, &c.
(signed) Alfred Austin,
Secretary.

E. M. Barry, Esq.

Mr. E. M. Barry, R.A., to Mr. Alfred Austin.

21, Abingdon-street, Westminster,
5 July 1866.

Sir,

In reply to your letter of yesterday's date, I have to say that I consider the scheme for placing Statues of British Sovereigns in the sites mentioned in the Report of the Commission of Fine Arts susceptible of modification with advantage.

The statues that have been prepared for the Royal Gallery have apparently been designed without reference to the architectural exigencies of the sites allotted to them. They are consequently too wide for the niches, and some of them would even extend over the margins at the sides of the niches, so as to interfere with the pictures in the large panels beyond. The result of placing these statues (although in themselves fine works of art) in the Royal Gallery, would, in my opinion, be very unsatisfactory, not only as regards the statues themselves but also the architectural effect of the Gallery.

The Queen's Robing Room is not well adapted, either by its dimensions, mode of lighting, or decoration, for the reception of statues, and I think a reconsideration of the question as regards this room is very desirable.

On the landing of the Grand Staircase pedestals are provided for the reception of statues, but these must be of small size, and were only introduced in order to allow of the completion of the whole series of English Sovereigns. The pedestals formed no part of the original design of the staircase, and were placed there unwillingly by my father. If an alteration could be made in the general scheme, I should strongly advise the removal of the pedestals, which are unsatisfactory in themselves and encumber unnecessarily a space already very limited.

It will be perceived, by reference to the Report of the Fine Arts Commission, that the scheme then recommended for the execution of the whole number of British Sovereigns contemplates placing 12 statues in the Royal Gallery, five in the Queen's Robing Room, 16 in the upper landing of the Staircase and porch adjoining, and four on the lower landing of Staircase.

British

The statues, under this arrangement, would necessarily differ in size and treatment, and the series would be broken up by the dispersion of its parts, so that the simplicity and continuity of the scheme would be injured if not destroyed.

Under these circumstances, I have to submit, for the consideration of the First Commissioner of Her Majesty's Works, &c., whether it is not desirable to abandon the idea of placing the statues in the Queen's Robing Room, Royal Gallery, and Grand Staircase.

I would also suggest that the scheme of executing a series of British Sovereigns should be carried out, and the statues placed against the end and side walls of Westminster Hall, where they will be well seen and lighted, and where they will confer an additional interest on that noble hall, connected as it is with reminiscences of British Royalty for centuries.

If this idea should meet with the approval of the First Commissioner, I would further suggest that designs should be prepared to ensure its execution in accordance with the architectural character of the Hall, which designs should serve as a guide to the sculptors to whom may be entrusted the execution of the statues.

Alfred Austin, Esq.

I am, &c.

FOREIGN CATTLE.

RETURN to an Address of the Honourable The House of Commons,
dated 13 March 1868;—for,

“COPY of PETITIONS and MEMORIALS presented to the Lords of the Privy Council, in relation to the CONVEYANCE of FOREIGN CATTLE from the PORT of SOUTHAMPTON to the METROPOLITAN CATTLE MARKET.”

PETITION of the London and South Western Railway Company and the Southampton Dock Company.

To the Lords of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council.

The Petition of the London and South Western Railway Company and the Southampton Dock Company,

Humbly Showeth,

THAT previous to the Orders in Council, of date the 23rd and 29th January 1867, memorials were presented to the Privy Council from breeders of cattle in Normandy and Brittany, and from salesmen in London, praying that cattle from those French Provinces might be permitted to be conveyed from Honfleur or Havre to the London Cattle Market, via Southampton, under proper regulations.

That the Honourable Privy Council received a deputation from the Southampton Chamber of Commerce, and from your petitioners, and after full and careful inquiry the Port of Southampton was in January last licensed for the importation of foreign cattle, and their conveyance to London under certain regulations, which have been most strictly obeyed and acted upon; these regulations are briefly set forth in the Copy Notice (No. 1.) herewith sent.

By an Order in Council, dated the 27th May 1867, these regulations were made more stringent, as set forth in the Copy Notice (No. 2.) herewith sent.

That your petitioners consequent upon, and on the faith of the Orders in Council of January 1867, have incurred considerable expense in fitting up steam ships for the convenient conveyance of French cattle, in setting apart sheds and lairs for the accommodation of cattle when landed, for their loading in the docks into railway wagons, and in preparing wagons for their conveyance to the London market and otherwise; and since January last the trade has been carried on not only without one single complaint from any quarter, but to the entire satisfaction of the Customs authorities, and all parties whatsoever.

That the high price of meat in France, in consequence partly of the Paris Exhibition, has up to this time prevented French cattle from being imported into England to the extent which was anticipated; but the trade is a growing one, and is likely in a short time largely to increase; and inasmuch as there has been no signs of rinderpest in France, and the regulations in France are most strict against cattle passing the frontiers, and as the particular breed of the Normandy and Brittany cattle is very suitable for the London market, your petitioners humbly submit that it would be greatly to the public advantage to continue to admit such cattle under proper regulations into the London Cattle Market, and your petitioners are prepared to prove that no evils can possibly result therefrom.

That your petitioners have learned with surprise and regret that it is the intention of your Most Honourable Council to revoke the Orders of 23rd and 29th January last, whereby fat foreign cattle landed at Southampton were allowed to be moved from the docks, in properly constructed trucks specially marked, direct by railway into the London Cattle Market.

Your petitioners humbly submit that there are special circumstances in the French cattle trade, vid Southampton, which, it is hoped, may induce your Lordships to reconsider the matter.

1st. The cattle are conveyed solely by the South Western Railway Company from the French Ports of Honfleur, Havre, and St. Malo by their own steam ships, and by railway direct to the London Cattle Market.

2nd. The Railway Company has already pledged itself, and now repeats the pledge, that upon the slightest signs of disease appearing, or any suspicion of disease, they will at once refuse to convey cattle, and report the matter to the Privy Council.

3rd. The cattle are landed in the Southampton Docks, the property of one of your petitioners, and are placed in convenient lairs in the docks where they can come into contact with no other cattle whatever.

4th. The cattle are loaded in the docks from those lairs direct into the railway wagons, and such wagons go by special train direct, without change, from the docks into the London Cattle Market.

5th. That certificates stating the origin of the cattle and their condition before shipment can be procured from the local authorities at the French Ports, and verified by the British vice consuls at those ports; on landing at Southampton the cattle are inspected by a competent inspector before being permitted to leave the docks.

Your petitioners respectfully and earnestly submit to the Most Honourable the Lords of the Privy Council that the importations of cattle from Normandy and Brittany, carried on in the manner above described, can in no way spread disease, while it must increase the supply of meat to the metropolis, and they humbly pray that the trade may be permitted to be carried on under the existing stringent regulations; and they are prepared to undertake that no other foreign cattle shall be so conveyed, and that on the slightest appearance of disease the trade shall be stopped.

(signed) Frederick Clarke,
Secretary to the London and South Western Company.

(signed) George Bolger,
Secretary to the Southampton Dock Company.

The Prayer of this Petition is supported by 74 Signatures.

No. 1.

(Circular No. 6, 1867.)

SOUTH WESTERN RAILWAY.

NOTICE and INSTRUCTIONS as to the Conveyance of FOREIGN CATTLE from SOUTHAMPTON DOCKS to the CATTLE MARKET, LONDON.

By an Order of Her Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, dated 29th January 1867, it is ordered as follows:—

1. THAT from and after that date, cattle brought by sea from any place out of the United Kingdom to and landed in the Southampton Docks may be removed by railway to the London Cattle Market for the purpose of being sold therein for immediate slaughter.

2. All such cattle shall be landed in the docks in such manner, at such times, and subject to such supervision and control as the Commissioners of Customs shall from time to time direct.

3. They shall be placed in the pens and sheds in the docks specially appropriated for foreign cattle intended for immediate slaughter, and taken from the same to the cattle loading loading bank in the docks, and there loaded into cattle trucks exclusively set apart and used for the purpose of carrying such foreign cattle, and marked with a red mark all round each truck to designate them as so appropriated.

4. All such cattle shall be conveyed in these trucks by railway only from the cattle loading bank in the docks to the Southampton Station, and thence without stopping, except for the purpose of feeding or being watered, to the London Cattle Market Station, viâ Nine Elms and Willesden.

5. As soon as the trucks conveying such cattle have been unloaded at the Cattle Market Station, they must be returned empty to Nine Elms Station, viâ Willesden, and on arrival at Nine Elms must be thoroughly cleansed and disinfected, and thereafter returned to the Southampton Docks.

6. Such trucks so marked and set apart for the conveyance of foreign cattle as above mentioned must not be used for any other purpose whatever, and must be used, cleansed and disinfected according to the above regulations under a penalty, and all parties concerned will be held strictly responsible for carrying out these regulations and instructions.

By order,
(signed) Archd. Scott,
Traffic Manager.

SOUTH WESTERN RAILWAY.

FOREIGN CATTLE arriving at SOUTHAMPTON.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

By an Order of Council, dated the 27th May 1867, it is ordered as follows:—

1. CATTLE brought by sea from any place out of the United Kingdom, except the Channel Islands, and landed at any place in England, shall not be moved from the landing place where landed for the period of 12 hours from the time of landing, but shall remain for that period in some lair or other proper place adjacent to such landing place to be provided for their reception, for the purpose of being inspected by a competent inspector.

2. If, upon inspection, any cattle so landed shall be found to be in such a state that, in the judgment of the inspector, it would be unsafe that such cattle should be moved from the port or place where they shall have been landed, such cattle shall, with all convenient speed, be slaughtered at the place where landed, or at the nearest slaughterhouse.

The above-mentioned Orders come into force on the 18th June 1867, and the previous instructions with reference to the conveyance of foreign cattle from Southampton to the Cattle Market Station, London, will, on and after that date, be altered to the extent above mentioned.

Despatch from Her Majesty's Ambassador at Constantinople, together with Documents therein alluded to, regarding the Conclusions arrived at by the Cholera Conference at Constantinople.

Mr. Elliot to Lord Stanley.—(Received February 26.)

My Lord,

Constantinople, November 15, 1867.

I RECEIVED last night your Lordship's telegram of the 13th instant, inquiring when the General Report of the Cholera Conference is likely to be published.

I have made inquiry into the matter from Dr. Dickson, and find that the "Relevé des Conclusions adoptées par la Conférence," sent home by Dr. Dickson on the 17th of last June, was substituted for a General Report, and that no further Report is now contemplated, the Conference being broken up and its members dispersed.

Drs. Goodeve and Dickson, perceiving, at the breaking up of the Conference, that the want of a General Report would be felt, tried to supply the deficiency by drawing up one by themselves, embodying in it all the work of the Conference; and this was forwarded to Her Majesty's Government in October 1866, anticipating by about eight months the "Relevé" subsequently published by the Conference in lieu of a General Report.

I have, &c.

(Signed) HENRY ELLIOT.

Annex 1.

Relevé des Conclusions adoptées par la Conférence Sanitaire Internationale en Réponse aux Questions de son Programme.

Précédé d'un Prologue.

Fait par une Commission composée de MM. le COMTE DE LALLEMAND, Président; DON A. M. SEGOVIA, COMTE DE NOIDANS, Drs. BARTOLETTI, FAUVEL, GOODEVE, MONLAU.

La Conférence Sanitaire Internationale, au moment de se séparer, croit devoir clore ses séances par un acte qui constate l'esprit dont elle s'est inspirée et qui offre tant aux hommes de Gouvernement et de science qu'au public, un moyen d'étudier plus aisément ses travaux et d'entrer pleinement dans l'intelligence de ses résolutions.

Inaugurée le 13 Février de cette année par son Altesse Aali Pacha, la Conférence est restée constamment fidèle à l'esprit qui a présidé à sa convocation et que ce Ministre définissait dans une allocution bienveillante, c'est-à-dire, à l'esprit de science et de philanthropie. Servir la science, et par elle servir les intérêts de l'humanité et de la santé publique en général, telle a été sa pensée unique et constante.

Aussitôt constituée sous la présidence de son Excellence Salih Effendi, premier Délégué de Turquie, et après avoir réglé le mode de votation et l'ordre des discussions, la Conférence a eu à délibérer sur une proposition qui lui était faite d'urgence par deux de ses membres, les Délégués de France, et qui avait pour but de prévenir, dès cette année, le danger d'une nouvelle importation du choléra Asiatique en Europe par l'Egypte. Elle n'a pas cru pouvoir demeurer indifférente à la pensée qu'au moment même où elle se consultait sur des mesures d'une efficacité ultérieure ou même éloignée, le choléra ferait peut-être une nouvelle irruption sur les rives de la Méditerranée à la suite des pèlerins Musulmans revenant de la Mecque. Elle a donc pris en considération la proposition qui lui était faite, et, après un examen qui a duré quatre séances, elle l'a adoptée à la majorité de 17 voix contre 8. (Voir les procès-verbaux Nos. 3, 4, 5, et 6.)

En même temps, la Conférence confiait à une Commission le soin de préparer le programme de ses travaux.

Cette Commission a déposé son rapport le 8 Mars à la septième séance, et la Conférence a adopté, sauf les additions et transpositions jugées nécessaires, le programme d'études qui lui était proposé avec sa division en quatre groupes de questions. Le quatrième, qui peut être ne mériterait pas ce nom, se compose d'une seule question qui se trouve résolue par le présent acte, celle de la forme à donner aux résolutions à prendre par l'Assemblée.

La Conférence se réfère à la table ci-annexé pour le relevé des conclusions adoptées en réponse aux questions portées au programme. Elle se borne pour le surplus à consigner ici le jugement qu'elle porte du résultat de ses travaux.

En ce qui touche la première partie de ses études, celle qui concerne l'origine, l'endémicité, la transmissibilité et la propagation du choléra, la Conférence n'a pas la prétention d'avoir résolu tous les problèmes qui se rattachent à ces sujets importants et difficiles; mais elle a conscience de n'en avoir négligé aucun, de n'avoir hasardé aucune conclusion téméraire, et enfin d'avoir indiqué exactement ce qui reste à faire après elle.

Pour ce qui est de la seconde partie de son travail, la Conférence est plus confiante. Elle pense que si les mesures qu'elle recommande sont exécutées non pas même dans leur totalité et avec un ensemble parfait, ce qu'elle n'ose espérer, mais dans ce qu'elles ont de principal et d'essentiel, le but qu'elle s'est proposé sera atteint, c'est-à-dire, que les chances d'importation et de propagation du choléra Indien seront réduites au minimum possible.

Dans cette confiance et en soumettant son œuvre aux Gouvernements qui l'ont réunie, la Conférence invoque leur haute protection sur cette œuvre qui est aussi la leur. Etrangère à toute préoccupation politique, ainsi qu'elle devait l'être, elle se croit fondée à espérer qu'aucun intérêt autre que celui de la santé publique ne s'opposera à un accord entre eux qui est à souhaiter dans un but de préservation commune. En conséquence et pleine de respect pour les Gouvernements, pour leurs lumières et pour leurs intentions philanthropiques, elle les convie à s'entendre dans une pensée de prévoyance et de salut pour les populations.

RELEVÉ DES CONCLUSIONS.

CONCLUSIONS.

“Le choléra Asiatique, celui qui à diverses reprises a parcouru le monde, a son origine dans l'Inde, où il a pris naissance et où il existe en permanence à l'état endémique.”

Adoptée à l'unanimité.—Procès-verbal No. 14, page 4.

“La Conférence considère comme démontré que le choléra Asiatique, envahissant, ne s'est jamais développé spontanément et n'a jamais été observé à l'état d'endémie,” (qu'il faut bien distinguer des foyers secondaires plus ou moins tenaces,) “dans aucun des pays qui viennent d'être énumérés (Europe, &c.), et qu'il y est toujours venu du dehors. Quant aux pays voisins de l'Inde, tout en admettant comme probable que le choléra n'y existe pas à l'état endémique, la Conférence ne se croit pas autorisée à conclure formellement à cet égard.”

“La Conférence, sans rejeter la possibilité que le choléra ne vienne à s'acclimater dans nos pays, regarde le fait comme problématique.”

Adoptée à l'unanimité.—Procès-verbal No. 16, page 11.

“Le choléra Asiatique ne paraît pas avoir dans le Hedjaz de foyer originel, mais il semble y avoir été jusqu'ici toujours importé du dehors.”

Adoptée par 19 voix contre 0. MM. Dickson, Goodeve et Monlau se sont abstenus. —Procès-verbal No. 17, page 9.

Relativement à l'endémicité du choléra dans l'Inde, la Conférence ne peut que répondre “qu'il y a dans l'Inde certaines localités, comprises principalement dans la vallée du Gange, où le choléra est endémique, sans qu'il soit possible de les préciser toutes, ni d'affirmer qu'elles aient le privilège exclusif de donner naissance à la maladie."

Relativement aux causes de l'endémie cholérique, la Conférence répond que " nous ne connaissons pas les conditions spéciales sous l'influence desquelles le choléra naît dans l'Inde, et y règne dans certaines localités à l'état endémique."

Adoptée à l'unanimité.—Procès-verbal No. 17, page 9.

Relativement aux circonstances qui concourent au développement et à la propagation des épidémies de choléra dans l'Inde, la Conférence conclut " que les pèlerinages sont, dans l'Inde, la plus puissante de toutes les causes qui concourent au développement et à la propagation des épidémies de choléra."

Adoptée à l'unanimité.—Procès-verbal No. 17, page 10.

Deuxième Groupe de Questions.—Transmissibilité et Propagation du Choléra.

1. Preuves de la transmissibilité tirées de la marche des épidémies de choléra considérées en général.

CONCLUSION.

"Tous les faits énoncés ne démontrent-ils pas jusqu'à la dernière évidence que le choléra est propagé par l'homme et avec une vitesse d'autant plus grande que ses propres migrations se sont activées et sont devenues plus rapides? La Conférence n'hésite pas à répondre affirmativement."

Adoptée à l'unanimité, moins M. Moniau, qui s'est abstenu.—Procès-verbal No. 18, page 7.

2. Preuves tirées de faits établissant la propagation du choléra par importation.
3. Preuves tirées de la progression des épidémies de choléra dans les localités atteintes.
4. Preuves tirées de l'efficacité de certaines mesures préventives.

Texte relatif à ces preuves adopté par 21 voix contre 0. MM. Segovia, Moniau, Malkom, Sawas, et Gomès se sont abstenus.—Procès-verbal No. 18, page 8.

CONCLUSION GÉNÉRALE DU CHAPITRE.

"La Conférence conclut que la transmissibilité du choléra Asiatique est une vérité incontestable, prouvée par des faits qui n'admettent aucune autre interprétation."

Adoptée à l'unanimité.—Procès-verbal No. 18, page 8.

Sur la possibilité de la propagation du choléra par l'atmosphère la Conférence répond "qu'aucun fait n'est venu prouver jusqu'ici que le choléra puisse se propager au loin, par l'atmosphère seule, dans quelque condition qu'elle soit; et qu'en outre c'est une loi, sans exception, que jamais une épidémie de choléra ne s'est propagée d'un point à un autre dans un temps plus court que celui nécessaire à l'homme pour s'y transporter."

Adoptée à l'unanimité.—Procès-verbal No. 18, page 18.

Comment s'opère l'Importation du Choléra, et quels sont les Agents de la Transmission.

"L'homme atteint de choléra est, par lui-même, le principal agent propagateur de cette maladie, et un seul cholérique pour donner lieu au développement d'une épidémie."

Adoptée à l'unanimité.—Procès-verbal No. 18, page 8.

La Conférence a été amenée à conclure que "certains faits tendent à prouver qu'un seul individu (à plus forte raison plusieurs) venant d'un lieu contaminé, et souffrant de diarrhée, peut suffire à donner lieu au développement d'une épidémie cholérique, ou, en d'autres termes, que la diarrhée dite prémonitoire peut transmettre le choléra."

Adoptée à l'unanimité, moins M. Millingen.—Procès-verbal No. 18, page 9.

Durée de l'Incubation.

Conclusion : " Dans presque tous les cas la période d'incubation, c'est-à-dire, le temps écoulé entre le moment où un individu a pu contracter l'intoxication cholérique et le début de la diarrhée prémonitoire ou du choléra confirmé, ne dépasse pas quelques jours. Tous les faits cités d'une incubation plus longue se rapportent à des cas qui ne sont pas concluants, ou bien parce que la diarrhée prémonitoire a été comprise dans la période d'incubation, ou bien parce que la contamination a pu avoir lieu après le départ du lieu infecté."

Adoptée à la majorité de 20 voix contre 1, celle de Salem Bey. Se sont abstenus de voter MM. Millingen, Malcom Khan, et Sawas.—Procès-verbal No. 18, page 10.

Sur la question de savoir si le choléra peut être importé et transmis par des animaux vivants, la Conférence a répondu : " Il n'y a aucun fait connu qui établisse que le choléra ait été importé par des animaux vivants ; mais il est rationnel cependant de les considérer, dans certains cas, comme étant des objets dits susceptibles."

La première partie de la conclusion a été adoptée à l'unanimité ; la seconde par 16 voix contre 8. Il y a eu 3 abstentions.—Procès-verbal No. 18, pages 14 et 15.

Sur la question de savoir si le choléra peut être importé et transmis par des linges, des hardes, &c., la Conférence a répondu que " le choléra peut être transmis par les effets à usage provenant d'un lieu infecté et spécialement par ceux qui ont servi aux cholériques ; et que même il résulte de certains faits que la maladie peut être importée au loin par ces mêmes effets renfermés à l'abri du contact de l'air libre."

Adoptée par 21 voix contre 2 (MM. Dickson et Stenersen, et 2 abstentions (MM. Keun et Lenz).—Procès-verbal No. 19, page 9.

Relativement aux marchandises, la Conférence, " tout en constatant à l'unanimité l'absence de preuves à l'appui de la transmission du choléra par des marchandises, a admis " (à la majorité du 16 voix contre 5 et 3 abstentions) " la possibilité du fait dans certaines conditions."

Résumant ce qui vient d'être dit dans les Articles précédents, la Conférence, jusqu'à plus ample informé, " croit qu'il sera sage de considérer comme suspecte, à moins de conditions particulières et déterminées, toute provenance d'un foyer cholérique."

Adoptée par 14 voix, 10 abstentions.—Procès-verbal No. 19, pages 12 et 13.

En ce qui concerne les cadavres de cholériques, la Conférence a répondu : " Bien qu'il ne soit pas prouvé par des faits concluants que les cadavres de cholériques puissent transmettre le choléra, il est prudent de les considérer comme dangereux."

Adoptée par 22 voix contre 0. M. Sawas s'est abstenu.—Procès-verbal No. 20, page 5.

De l'Influence des Moyens de Communications.

" La Conférence est d'avis que les communications maritimes sont, par leur nature, les plus dangereuses ; que ce sont elles qui propagent le plus sûrement au loin le choléra, et qu'ensuite viennent celles par chemins de fer qui, dans un temps très court, peuvent porter la maladie à grande distance,"

Quant à l'influence des déserts, la Conférence, " s'en tenant aux faits établis par l'expérience, conclut que les grands déserts sont une barrière très efficace contre la propagation du choléra, et elle reconnaît qu'il est sans exemple que cette maladie ait été importée en Egypte ou en Syrie, à travers le désert, par les caravanes parties de la Mecque."

Adoptée par 22 voix contre 0.—3 abstentions, MM. Polak, Monlau, Maccas.—Procès-verbal No. 20, page 13.

De l'Influence des Agglomérations.

La Conférence répond d'une manière générale que " toute agglomération d'hommes, parmi laquelle s'introduit le choléra, est une condition favorable à l'extension rapide de la maladie et, si cette agglomération se trouve dans de mauvaises conditions hygiéniques, à la violence de l'épidémie parmi elle ;

“ Qu'en pareil cas la rapidité de l'extension est proportionnée à la concentration de la masse agglomérée, tandis que la violence de l'épidémie est—toutes choses égales d'ailleurs—d'autant plus prononcée que les individus composant l'agglomération ont moins subi déjà l'influence cholérique, ou en sont restés vierges ; c'est-à-dire, en d'autres termes, que les individus qui ont déjà subi l'influence d'un foyer cholérique jouissent d'une sorte d'immunité relative et temporaire qui contre-balance les fâcheux effets de l'agglomération ;

“ Qu'enfin, dans une masse agglomérée, plus l'extension est rapide plus aussi la cessation de l'épidémie est prompte, à moins que de nouveaux arrivages sains ne viennent fournir un nouvel aliment à la maladie et ainsi l'entretenir.”

Adoptée par 20 voix contre 0.—2 abstentions, MM. Segovia et Monlau.—Procès-verbal No. 20, page 15.

En ce qui concerne les navires, la Conférence conclut “ que l'intensité des épidémies de choléra à bord des navires encombrés d'hommes est, en général, proportionnée à l'encombrement et est d'autant plus violente, toutes choses égales d'ailleurs, que ces hommes ne sortent pas d'un foyer cholérique où ils ont séjourné ; que sur les navires encombrés la marche des épidémies de choléra est d'ordinaire rapide ; enfin la Conférence ajoute que le danger d'importation par les navires et celui de donner lieu à une épidémie grave ne sont pas entièrement subordonnés à l'intensité, ni même à l'existence, des accidents cholériques constatés à bord pendant la traversée.”

Relativement aux lazarets la Conférence conclut, “ que l'agglomération d'individus provenant d'un lieu où règne le choléra, dans un lazaret, n'a pas pour effet de produire parmi les quarantenaires une grande extension de la maladie, mais qu'une telle agglomération n'en est pas moins très dangereuse pour le voisinage, en ce qu'elle est propre à y favoriser la propagation du choléra.”

Adoptée par 15 voix contre 0.—M. Monlau s'est abstenu. Les autres membres absents.—Procès-verbal No. 20, page 20.

Par rapport aux grandes agglomérations d'hommes la Conférence conclut, “ que les grandes agglomérations d'hommes (armées, foires, pèlerinages), sont un des plus sûrs moyens de propagation du choléra ; qu'elles constituent de grands foyers épidémiques qui, soit qu'ils marchent à la manière d'une armée, soit qu'ils se disséminent comme les foires et les pèlerins, importent la maladie dans les pays qu'ils traversent ; que ces agglomérations, après avoir subi, d'une manière ordinairement rapide, l'influence du choléra, y deviennent beaucoup moins sensibles, et que celle-ci y disparaît même très-promptement, à moins que de nouveaux arrivés ne viennent entretenir la maladie.”

Relativement à l'influence de la dissémination la Conférence conclut, “ que la dissémination d'une masse agglomérée, opérée en temps opportun, peut rendre moins violente une épidémie de choléra qui vient d'y apparaître et même en arrêter l'extension ; mais que cette dissémination ferait naître au contraire un grand danger de propagation, si elle était accomplie au sein de localités encore indemnes.”

Adoptée à l'unanimité (22 voix).—Procès-verbal No. 21, page 9.

Quant au rôle du pèlerinage de la Mecque, la Conférence conclut que “ le rôle du pèlerinage de la Mecque, comme agent propagateur du choléra par rapport aux contrées voisines de l'Europe (les seules à l'égard desquelles nous ayons des renseignements positifs), a été l'importation de cette maladie en Egypte, deux fois, à 34 ans d'intervalle, pendant la saison chaude.”

De l'Influence des Conditions Hygiéniques.

En conclusion, la Conférence reconnaît “ que les conditions hygiéniques et autres qui en général prédisposent une population à contracter le choléra et par suite favorisent l'intensité des épidémies, sont : la misère avec toutes ses conséquences, l'accumulation des individus, l'état maladif de ceux-ci, la saison chaude, le défaut d'aérage, les exhalaisons d'un sol poreux imprégné de matières organiques, surtout si ces matières proviennent de déjections cholériques.

“ En outre, la Conférence oit que, comme il paraît démontré par l'expérience que les déjections des cholériques renferment le principe générateur du choléra, il est légitime d'admettre que les égouts, les lieux d'aisance, et les eaux contaminées d'une ville peuvent devenir des agents de propagation de la maladie.

“La Conférence ajoute qu'il semble résulter de certains faits que le sol d'une localité, une fois imprégné de détritiques cholériques, a pu conserver pendant un temps assez long la propriété de dégager le principe de la maladie et d'entretenir ainsi une épidémie, ou même de la régénérer alors qu'elle était éteinte.”

Adoptée à l'unanimité (19 voix).—Procès-verbal No. 21, page 14.

De l'Immunité par Rapport au Choléra.

En conclusion, “l'immunité dont jouissent certaines localités, c'est-à-dire, la résistance permanente ou temporaire, générale ou partielle, opposée par ces localités au développement du choléra dans leur circonscription, est un fait qui n'exclut pas la transmissibilité, mais qui indique que certaines conditions locales, non encore toutes déterminées, sont un obstacle au développement de la maladie.

“De même l'immunité plus ou moins complète et plus ou moins durable dont jouissent le plus grand nombre des personnes placées au milieu d'un foyer cholérique, immunité qui atteste la résistance individuelle au principe toxique, est une circonstance dont il faut tenir le plus grand compte.

Adoptée à la majorité de 21 voix contre 1 (M. Sawas). Se sont abstenus MM. Monlau, Maccas, Sténersen.—Procès-verbal No. 22, page 15.

Déductions relatives aux Attributs du Principe Générateur du Choléra.

En résumé, selon la Conférence, “dans l'état actuel de la science, on ne peut émettre que des hypothèses sur la nature du principe générateur du choléra; nous savons seulement qu'il est originaire de certaines contrées de l'Inde et qu'il s'y maintient en permanence; que ce principe se régénère dans l'homme, et l'accompagne dans ses pérégrinations; qu'il peut ainsi être propagé au loin, de pays en pays, par des régénérations successives, sans jamais alors se reproduire spontanément en dehors de l'homme.”

Relativement aux véhicules du principe générateur du choléra, la Conférence conclut que “l'air ambiant est le véhicule principal de l'agent générateur du choléra; mais la transmission de la maladie par l'atmosphère reste, dans l'immense majorité des cas, limitée à une distance très-rapprochée du foyer d'émission. Quant aux faits cités de transport par l'atmosphère à un ou plusieurs milles de distance, ils ne sont pas suffisamment concluants.”

Adoptée à la majorité de 24 voix contre 0. M. Sawas s'est abstenu. M. Goodeve a fait une réserve quant à la distance.—Procès-verbal No. 22, page 16.

Selon la Conférence, “l'eau et certains ingesta peuvent aussi servir de véhicules à l'introduction dans l'organisme du principe générateur du choléra.”

Cela posé, il s'en suit pour ainsi dire nécessairement que “les voies par lesquelles l'agent toxique pénètre dans l'économie sont principalement les voies respiratoires et très probablement aussi les voies digestives. Quant à la pénétration par la peau, rien ne tend à l'établir.”

Adoptée à l'unanimité (26 voix).—Procès-verbal No. 22, page 17.

Quant aux principaux réceptacles du principe cholérique, la Conférence conclut que “la matière des déjections cholériques étant incontestablement le principal réceptacle de l'agent morbifique, il s'en suit que tout ce qui est contaminé par ces déjections devient aussi un réceptacle d'où le principe générateur du choléra peut se dégager, sous l'influence de conditions favorables; il s'en suit encore que la genèse du germe cholérique a lieu très probablement dans les voies digestives, à l'exclusion, peut-être, de tout autre appareil de l'organisme.”

Par rapport à la durée de l'activité morbifique du principe hors de l'organisme, la Conférence répond “qu'il résulte de l'étude des faits qu'à l'air libre le principe générateur du choléra perd rapidement son activité morbifique et que telle est la règle; mais que, dans certaines conditions particulières de confinement, cette activité peut se conserver pendant un temps indéterminé.”

Adoptée à l'unanimité (25 voix).—Procès-verbal No. 22, page 17.

Par rapport à la durée de la diarrhée cholérique, la Conférence déclare que “l'observation montre que la durée de la diarrhée cholérique, dite prémonitoire,—qu'il ne faut pas confondre avec toutes les diarrhées qui existent en temps de choléra,—ne dépasse pas quelques jours.

“Les faits cités comme exceptionnels ne prouvent pas que les cas de diarrhée qui se prolongent au delà appartiennent au choléra et soient susceptibles de transmettre la maladie, quand l'individu atteint a été soustrait à toute cause de contamination.”

Adoptée par 15 voix contre 4, MM. Monlau, Millingen, Gomès et Mühlig.—Se sont abstenus MM. Vernoni, Keun, Sawas.—MM. de Lallemant et Maccas ont fait une réserve sur la 2^{me} partie de la conclusion.

Rapport sur la Marche et le Mode de Propagation du Choléra en 1865.

CONCLUSIONS ADOPTÉES PAR LA CONFÉRENCE.

Des faits observés en 1865, il résulte: 1. “Que la propagation du choléra s'effectue par le mouvement des hommes, quels que soient d'ailleurs les moyens de locomotion dont ils se servent. 2. Que la propagation en est d'autant plus à craindre que les moyens de locomotion sont plus rapides et plus multipliés. 3. Que, toutes choses égales d'ailleurs, une grande masse infectée ou un seul individu malade peuvent propager le choléra à de grandes distances.”

Troisième Groupe de Questions.—Mesures Hygiéniques.

CONCLUSIONS.

Dans l'opinion de la Conférence, “nous ne connaissons pas des moyens directs pour éteindre les foyers endémiques du choléra, mais on peut espérer d'y parvenir par un ensemble de mesures parmi lesquelles le rôle le plus important reviendra aux mesures hygiéniques.”

Quant à l'hygiène navale, la Conférence est d'avis que l'on devrait:

“1. Ouvrir des concours, et décerner des prix aux auteurs des découvertes ou perfectionnements dont le résultat immédiat serait un progrès quelconque dans l'assainissement des navires, dans l'amélioration des conditions hygiéniques des équipages, ou dans le bien-être des passagers.

“2. Publier un manuel d'hygiène navale à l'usage de la marine marchande de chaque pays. L'exécution des prescriptions les plus importantes de ce manuel serait obligatoire pour les capitaines ou patrons.

“3. Encourager par des primes et des récompenses ceux des armateurs, capitaines, ou patrons de navire qui se seraient distingués dans le bon entretien de leurs bâtiments et de leurs équipages.”

Adoptée à l'unanimité. MM. Millingen, Testa, Mühlig, et Salem Bey se sont abstenus.—Procès-verbal No. 29, page 4.

Pendant le choléra, surtout “il faut éviter,” suivant la Conférence, “les inconvénients et les dangers provenant d'une mauvaise place de mouillage, de l'eau potable et des provisions mal choisies, de l'encombrement, de l'état sanitaire des hommes embarqués, de l'état des effets à usage, de la qualité des marchandises, du manque de séparation des malades, du défaut de ventilation du navire et de l'aération des effets à usage et surtout du manque de propreté des lieux d'aisance.”

La Conférence est d'avis que “l'assainissement des ports, avec défense d'y faire aboutir les égouts de la ville, leur dragage périodique, et leur bonne police sanitaire intérieure, sont des mesures hygiéniques de la plus haute importance pour la préservation des maladies transmissibles en général et du choléra en particulier.

Adoptée à l'unanimité.—Procès-verbal No. 25, page 8.

Dans l'opinion de la Conférence, “l'assainissement des villes est un moyen préventif de premier ordre pour s'opposer à la réception du choléra, et en mitiger les ravages.

“Cet assainissement doit être basé principalement sur un ensemble de mesures qui tendent à maintenir la pureté de l'air, à approvisionner les villes d'une eau saine et abondante, et à empêcher l'infection du sol par des matières organiques.

Suivant la Conférence, “une sage organisation de l'assistance publique,—les visites préventives générales, ou, à leur défaut, les visites médicales dans les maisons envahies,—les secours immédiats aux atteints,—la publication des instructions populaires,—l'encouragement qui naît de la confiance dans la promptitude et l'étendue des secours, et de la publication de l'état véritable de l'épidémie, ainsi que l'installation d'hôpitaux spéciaux et de maisons de refuge temporaire pour abriter les familles des malades pauvres, sont de mesures hygiéniques et administratives très efficaces pour entraver la propagation du choléra, et pour en diminuer les ravages, dans les localités envahies.”

Suivant la Conférence, “l'interruption temporaire des communications avec les lieux infectés, pourvu qu'elle puisse être absolue, est le préservatif le plus sûr contre la transmission du choléra.

“Le déplacement opportun et la dissémination méthodique des agglomérations mobiles (caravanes, corps de troupes, &c.) sont des mesures hygiéniques très efficaces pour prévenir le choléra d'éclater parmi elles, ainsi que pour en arrêter l'extension ou en adoucir la violence.

Adoptée à l'unanimité.—Procès-verbal No. 27, page 4.

La Conférence est d'avis que “la désinfection appliquée au choléra, d'après une méthode rationnelle et avec persévérance, s'offre comme un puissant auxiliaire :

“1. Pour diminuer la réceptivité d'une localité menacée par le choléra ;

“2. Pour détruire le germe de la maladie importé dans une localité ; et

“3. Pour limiter, dans certaines circonstances favorables, l'extension de l'épidémie.”

Adoptée à l'unanimité.—Procès-verbal No. 28, page 10.

II.—MESURES À PRENDRE EN ORIENT POUR PRÉVENIR DE NOUVELLES INVASIONS DU CHOLÉRA EN EUROPE.

Questions Préliminaires.

CONCLUSIONS.

La Conférence est d'avis “que les mesures restrictives, connues d'avance et appliquées convenablement, sont beaucoup moins préjudiciables pour le commerce et les relations internationales que la perturbation qui frappe l'industrie et les transactions commerciales à la suite d'une invasion de choléra.”

Adoptée par 20 voix contre 0. MM. Goodeve, Keun et Millingen se sont abstenus. —Procès-verbal No. 30, page 8.

La Conférence est d'avis “que plus les mesures de quarantaine et les autres moyens prophylactiques contre le choléra seront appliqués près du foyer originel de la maladie, moins ces mesures seraient onéreuses et plus on pourrait compter sur leur efficacité (en supposant une application convenable) au point de vue de la préservation de l'Europe.”

Adoptée à l'unanimité.—Procès-verbal No. 30, page 17.

Mesures à prendre dans l'Inde.

CONCLUSIONS.

La Conférence "ne considère pas comme impossible qu'on puisse parvenir à éteindre le choléra envahissant dans l'Inde, et elle croit qu'en tout cas on peut y restreindre son développement épidémique. Pour atteindre ce double but, elle admet la nécessité d'études suivies, ayant pour objet de déterminer les conditions spéciales qui produisent et entretiennent l'endémie cholérique, ainsi que les rapports existant entre cette endémie et les explosions épidémiques, tout en poursuivant les améliorations hygiéniques déjà commencées. Quant aux particularités sur lesquelles devraient porter ces études, la Conférence s'en réfère à ce qui a été dit précédemment à ce sujet."

Adoptée à l'unanimité.—Procès-verbal No. 30, page 19.

Relativement aux pèlerinages Indiens, la Conférence est d'avis "que pour combattre l'influence des pèlerinages Indiens sur le développement du choléra, il importerait :

"1. De s'appliquer à restreindre le nombre des pèlerins en les obligeant, s'il est possible, à se pourvoir, avant le départ, d'une autorisation qui ne serait délivrée qu'à celui qui aurait prouvé avoir les moyens de subvenir à ses besoins pendant le voyage ;

"2. D'instituer sur tous les lieux de pèlerinage une police sanitaire comprenant l'application des mesures d'hygiène déjà pratiquées et complétées selon les enseignements de l'expérience acquise ;

"3. En cas de choléra parmi les pèlerins, de n'autoriser le retour de la masse contaminée,—toutes les fois qu'une telle mesure serait praticable,—qu'après la cessation complète de l'épidémie dans cette masse, et une désinfection générale."

Adoptée à l'unanimité, moins M. Goodeve, pour la 1^{re} conclusion.—Procès-verbal No. 31, page 6.

Selon la Conférence, "il est de la plus haute importance de chercher à prévenir l'exportation maritime du choléra de l'Inde.

"Dans ce but, le règlement promulgué en 1858, sous le titre de 'Native Passenger Act,' serait un des moyens principaux, si l'application en était faite indistinctement à tous les pavillons et dans tous les pays, et s'il était complété au point de vue des précautions sanitaires.

"En outre, il importerait que tout navire partant d'un port Indien fût muni d'une patente de santé délivrée par une autorité sanitaire constituée ad hoc, qui serait en même temps chargée de veiller à l'exécution des règlements relatifs à l'embarquement des pèlerins.

"De plus, la Commission croit qu'il y a lieu d'examiner les questions de savoir si, en cas d'épidémie sur un point de l'Inde, il y aurait possibilité, soit de supprimer, soit de différer, soit de restreindre l'embarquement des pèlerins sur ce point ; et enfin si, à l'exemple du Gouvernement Hollandais pour ses possessions Indiennes, il n'y aurait pas, pour les autorités de l'Inde Anglaise, possibilité d'exiger de chaque pèlerin Musulman la preuve qu'il a les moyens de subvenir aux dépenses de son voyage, et à l'entretien de sa famille pendant son absence."

Adoptée à l'unanimité. M. Goodeve a fait des réserves sur certains points du texte.—Procès-verbal No. 31, page 11.

Mesures à prendre dans les pays intermédiaires entre l'Inde et l'Europe.

(A.)—Mesures contre l'Importation du Choléra de l'Inde par la Voie Maritime.

"1. Convenance d'un établissement sanitaire à l'entrée de la Mer Rouge."

Admise à l'unanimité, moins M. Goodeve.—Procès-verbal No. 31, page 14.

"2. Quel serait le caractère de cet établissement ?"

2. La Conférence croit "que le caractère international est une condition sine quâ non de l'établissement dont il s'agit. Resterait aux Gouvernements intéressés à s'entendre sur la forme et la mesure à donner à l'intervention de chacun. On conçoit très bien, par exemple, que la Porte ou le Gouvernement Egyptien pourrait avoir la direction, mais sous le contrôle et avec l'assistance de l'Europe."

Adoptée par 15 voix contre 3, celles de MM. Goodeve, Dickson et Bykow. MM. Keun et Millingen se sont abstenus.—Procès-verbal No. 32, page 10.

“ 3. Dans quels cas, comment, et par qui seraient appliquées les mesures ? ”

La Conférence conclut que “ les mesures seraient appliquées en vertu d'un règlement international qui spécifierait les cas, et par une autorité soumise au contrôle des Gouvernements intéressés.”

Adoptée par 17 voix contre 2, celles de MM. Goodeve et Dickson.—Procès-verbal No. 32, page 13.

Question du Pèlerinage de la Mecque.

“ 1. Organisation du service sanitaire sur le littoral de la Mer Rouge.”

Dans l'opinion de la Conférence, le service sanitaire à organiser sur le littoral de la Mer Rouge comprendrait, outre le projet d'un lazaret international avec arraisonnement obligatoire au Détroit de Bab-el-Mandeb :

“ (1.) De postes de médecins sanitaires, savoir : trois sur le littoral Africain, à Koséir, à Souakin, à Massowah, et deux, pour le moment, sur la côte Arabique, dont le principal serait à Djeddah et l'autre à Yambo ;

“ (2.) Deux lazarets, dont l'un, à El-Wesch, serait affecté exclusivement aux pèlerins, et l'autre, à Tor, serait destiné à la quarantaine des arrivages ordinaires atteints de choléra ;

“ (3.) Une direction, siégeant à Suez, assistée d'une Commission Internationale qui déciderait de toutes les questions concernant le service sanitaire de la Mer Rouge.”

Les deux premières conclusions ont été adoptées par 14 voix, dont 2, celles de MM. Goodeve et Dickson, avec réserve au sujet de Tor. A la séance suivante plusieurs membres absents ont adhéré à ces deux conclusions.

La 3^{me} conclusion a été adoptée par 18 voix contre 4, celles de MM. Goodeve, Dickson, Keun et Bykow. MM. Millingen, Malcom et Salih Effendi se sont abstenus.—Procès-verbaux No. 32, page 15, et No. 33, page 4.

“ 2. Conditions pour le départ et précautions relatives à l'embarquement des pèlerins.”

Adoptées à l'unanimité, avec quelques réserves par MM. Goodeve et Dickson.—Procès-verbal No. 33, pages 5 et 6.

“ 3. Mesures d'hygiène à mettre en pratique dans les lieux où s'accomplit le pèlerinage.”

Adoptée à l'unanimité.—Procès-verbal No. 33, page 6.

“ 4. Y aurait-il quelque mesure à prendre dans le Hedjaz contre l'importation du choléra par mer ou par terre ? ”

La Conférence “ ne compte aucunement sur les mesures de quarantaine qui seraient prises dans le Hedjaz contre l'importation du choléra parmi les pèlerins.”

“ 5. Mesures à prendre contre les provenances du Hedjaz, si le choléra s'y manifestait pendant le pèlerinage.”

La Conférence est d'avis que, “ dans le cas où le choléra se manifesterait dans le Hedjaz à l'époque du pèlerinage, il y aurait lieu d'interrompre temporairement, c'est-à-dire, pendant la durée de l'épidémie, toute communication maritime entre les ports Arabiques et le littoral Egyptien.”

L'application convenable de cette mesure suppose l'existence d'un service sanitaire organisé sur le littoral de la Mer Rouge, comme il a été exposé précédemment, et de plus la présence d'une force militaire suffisante, tant pour maintenir le bon ordre parmi les pèlerins que pour la police maritime. A ce dernier point de vue, il serait à désirer que les Gouvernements intéressés s'entendissent à l'effet d'assurer l'exécution des mesures prescrites.

Cela étant, la Conférence pense qu'il pourrait être procédé à l'exécution de la manière suivante, sauf les modifications qui, “ sans altérer le principe fondamental de la mesure,” seraient jugées, par la Commission Internationale siégeant à Suez, propres à en faciliter l'application :—

“ (1.) En cas de manifestation du choléra parmi les pèlerins, les médecins sanitaires du Hedjaz signaleraient le fait aux autorités locales, ainsi qu'aux navires de guerre stationnés à Djeddah et à Yambo. De plus, tout en mentionnant le fait sur la patente de santé, ils en expédieraient l'avis en Egypte et à El-Wesch.

“ (2.) Sur la déclaration des médecins susmentionnés, les autorités informeraient les pèlerins que ceux d'entr'eux qui voudraient s'embarquer pour l'Egypte auraient, avant d'y aborder, à faire quarantaine à El-Wesch, et les préviendraient en même temps qu'ils sont libres de suivre la voie de terre.

“(3.) Les embarquements se feraient sous la surveillance de l'autorité sanitaire, dans les conditions déterminées par elle, et dans les ports qu'elle aurait désignés.

“(4.) Les navires de guerre concourraient à assurer l'exécution des mesures prescrites ; ils feraient la police de mer, et exerceraient une surveillance aussi exacte que possible à l'effet d'empêcher tout départ clandestin.

“(6.) Les pèlerins transportés à El-Wesch y seraient tenus en quarantaine, et ils ne seraient autorisés à repartir pour l'Egypte que quinze jours pleins après la disparition du choléra parmi eux et après désinfection de leurs hardes et bagages. En quittant El-Wesch, les navires qui les transporteraient seraient—pour ceux qui se rendent à Suez—dans l'obligation de toucher à Tor, où ils seraient soumis à une observation de vingt-quatre heures et à une visite médicale dans le but de constater leur état sanitaire. La patente nette et l'autorisation de continuer leur route ne leur seraient délivrées que tout autant que l'état sanitaire du bord aurait été reconnu exempt de danger.

“(7.) Quant à la caravane pour l'Egypte, elle s'arrêterait selon l'usage dans l'endroit ordinaire de sa station, près d'El-Wesch ; elle y subirait une visite médicale, et elle ne recevrait l'autorisation de continuer sa route qu'après avoir été exempte de choléra depuis quinze jours.

“(8.) Relativement aux pèlerins à destination de l'Inde ou d'autres pays au delà de la Mer Rouge, ils seraient autorisés à s'embarquer pour retourner chez eux, mais en se soumettant aux règles prescrites par l'autorité sanitaire du port d'embarquement.

“(9.) Les communications maritimes entre le Hedjaz et l'Egypte ne pourraient être rétablies que quinze jours au moins après la cessation de tout indice de choléra dans le Hedjaz, déclarée officiellement par l'autorité sanitaire de Djeddah. Mais alors, et même en tout temps, les navires chargés de pèlerins à destination de Suez seraient toujours dans l'obligation de toucher à Tor, et d'y stationner vingt-quatre heures, pour y subir une visite médicale comme il a été dit plus haut. L'autorité sanitaire de Suez pourrait renvoyer à Tor tout navire qui n'aurait pas rempli cette formalité.

“(10.) Un règlement des pénalités encourues, pour toutes les infractions aux mesures prescrites, devrait être formulé par la Commission Internationale. Le règlement Anglais (Native Passenger Act) serait, sur ce point, un excellent modèle à suivre.”

Toutes ces conclusions ont été adoptées à l'unanimité, moins certaines réserves de MM. Goodeve et Dickson. M. Gomès a voté pour que la durée de la quarantaine fût de dix jours.—Procès-verbal No. 33, page 8.

“Dans le cas où une épidémie de choléra, venant par la Mer Rouge, se manifesterait en Egypte—l'Europe et la Turquie étant d'ailleurs indemnes—ne conviendrait-il pas d'interrompre temporairement les communications maritimes de l'Egypte avec tout le bassin de la Méditerranée ?”

La Conférence a répondu “affirmativement,” par 13 voix contre 3, celles de MM. Goodeve, Dickson et Salem Bey. Il y a eu 4 abstentions.—Procès-verbal No. 33, page 15.

III.—MESURES QUARANTENAIRES APPLICABLES AUX PROVENANCES CHOLÉRIQUES.

Considérations Générales sur la question de Mesures Restrictives.

CONCLUSIONS.

Relativement aux mesures restrictives employées jusqu'ici contre le choléra, la Conférence est d'avis "que les enseignements à tirer de l'expérience de cette première époque des quarantaines n'ont pas une valeur concluante."

Adoptée par 18 voix contre 2, MM. Testa et Mühlrig; 3 abstentions, MM. Sotto, Monlau et Keun.—Procès-verbal No. 37, page 12.

La Conférence conclut cependant, d'après les faits cités dans le rapport, "qu'il est incontestable que des quarantaines établies sur des bases rationnelles et conformes aux progrès de la science peuvent servir de barrière efficace contre l'envahissement du choléra."

Adoptée à l'unanimité.—Procès-verbal No. 37, page 13.

Les bases du système de prophylaxie devraient consister, suivant la Conférence :
"1. A combattre les germes de la maladie dans ses foyers primitifs, avant qu'ils ne se disséminent et ne se propagent au dehors. 2. A établir des quarantaines en accord avec les principes aujourd'hui admis sur la transmissibilité du choléra et son mode de propagation."

Adoptée à l'unanimité. M. Goodeve vote sous réserve.—Procès-verbal No. 38, page 12.

Cordons Sanitaires, Isolement, Interruption et Restriction des Communications.

CONCLUSIONS.

La Conférence est d'avis que "les cordons sanitaires, employés au milieu de populations nombreuses et serrées, sont d'un effet incertain et souvent sont dangereux; que par contre, employés dans des localités limitées ou des contrées dont la population est clair-semée, comme dans certains pays Asiatiques, les cordons sont appelés à rendre de grands services contre la propagation de la maladie."

Adoptée à l'unanimité, moins M. Goodeve, qui s'est abstenu.—Procès-verbal No. 38, page 17.

La Conférence opine : "1. Que l'isolement partout où il peut être appliqué aux premiers cas qui marquent le début d'une épidémie, est une mesure de prudence qu'aucun pays ne devrait négliger de prendre pour son salut. 2. Que l'isolement d'une localité atteinte de choléra est d'autant plus praticable et plus utile que la population du pays est plus clair-semée et que la séquestration a lieu plus près du début d'une épidémie. 3. Que l'isolement des foyers initiaux est la mesure capitale de prophylaxie contre les envahissements du choléra."

La Conférence est d'avis que "l'interruption est le meilleur moyen d'isoler les foyers cholériques; que, par conséquent, il y a lieu de l'employer toutes les fois que les circonstances se prêtent à une exécution rigoureuse: mais que cette mesure, applicable seulement à des points circonscrits, devient impraticable et inefficace lorsque l'épidémie s'est propagée sur un grand espace."

Adoptée à la majorité de 19 voix contre 2, celles de MM. Goodeve et Dickson. MM. le Comte de Lallemand, Fauvel, Mühlrig ont voté pour, sous réserves.—Procès-verbal No. 39, page 7.

La Conférence est d'opinion qu'il y a lieu : "1. De restreindre l'émigration dans la circonscription de la ville infectée: 2. De fixer par un règlement le nombre des personnes que chaque navire pourrait embarquer, proportionnellement à sa capacité: 3. De soumettre les personnes et leurs effets à des précautions préalables, telles qu'une visite médicale, la purification des hardes et effets, &c."

Adoptée à l'unanimité, moins une voix, celle de M. Millingen, qui s'abstient.—Procès-verbal No. 39, page 9.

CONCLUSIONS.

En ce qui concerne les établissements quarantenaires, la Conférence propose :—

"1. Que les lazarets soient établis, autant que possible, dans des îles dépourvues de population, et, à défaut d'îles, dans des localités isolées et éloignées de plusieurs milles des villes, villages, et autres lieux habités. Que l'air de ces localités soit salubre, le terrain de consistance rocheuse, l'eau abondante, le mouillage facile, sûr et spacieux.

"2. Que les édifices composant l'ensemble des lazarets soient construits d'après les principes de l'Article 8 du présent Rapport, et de manière à assurer la séparation rigoureuse des différentes catégories de quarantenaires, suivant la nature de la provenance et la date de l'arrivée. Que l'isolement de l'hôpital des cholériques, des logements des quarantenaires, des buanderies, des magasins et hangars, des habitations du personnel du service, &c., soit complet. Que la distance entre tous ces édifices, impossible à préciser d'avance, soit en rapport avec les indications consignées dans le paragraphe 13 du rapport.

"3. Que les cabinets d'aisance soient organisés d'après le système des fosses mobiles chargés de désinfectants. Que les égouts et les fosses communes soient proscrits. Que les matières des déjections soient versées dans des fosses creusées dans le sol et recouvertes de chaux vive, de terre argileuse ou de poussier de charbon végétal.

"4. Que chaque lazaret ait deux débarcadères, dont l'un de contumace, l'autre de libre pratique, un office de santé, des logements pour l'administration, un corps de garde, un dépôt de literie et d'ameublement, un dépôt de vivres, un hôtellerie."

Adoptée à l'unanimité. M. Monlau a voté la 3^{me} conclusion sous réserve.—Procès-verbal No. 41, page 10.

"5. Que les parloirs des lazarets soient supprimés pour les visiteurs, et les visites aux quarantenaires interdites, sauf dans des cas exceptionnels at avec l'autorisation spéciale de l'autorité sanitaire; qu'il soit toutefois permis aux personnes qui le demanderaient d'entrer au lazaret et d'y rester en se soumettant, dans ce cas, au régime des quarantenaires avec lesquels ils seraient en communication."

La première partie de cette conclusion est adoptée par 10 voix contre 9, celles de MM. Dickson, Vernoni, Bosi, Keun, Sawas, Mühlig, Sténersen, Hübsch, Bartoletti. La seconde partie est adoptée à l'unanimité, moins 2 voix, celles de M. Mühlig, qui a voté contre, et de M. Sténersen, qui s'est abstenu.—Procès-verbal No. 41, pages 12 et 13.

"6. Que la direction des établissements quarantenaires soit confiée à des médecins, et qu'en outre chaque lazaret soit pourvu de trois médecins au moins, dont l'un attaché à l'hôpital, l'autre au service des quarantenaires, le troisième chargé du service du port et de l'extérieur du lazaret.

"7. Que le nombre des lazarets pour la quarantaine de rigueur soit limité proportionnellement au mouvement maritime et à l'étendue du littoral de chaque Etat: mais qu'il y ait cependant des postes secondaires pour les provenances soumises à la quarantaine d'observation.

"8. Que, dans des cas d'urgence, on établisse des lazarets temporaires, des campements, ou des lazarets flottants, selon les circonstances particulières à chaque localité."

Adoptée à l'unanimité.—Procès-verbal No. 41, page 13.

"9. Tout en admettant, dans certains cas, l'opportunité de lazarets internationaux administrés sous le contrôle de Conseils Mixtes, la Conférence est d'avis qu'en général l'institution de ces établissements n'est pas recommandable."

Adoptée par 9 voix contre 8, celles de MM. Goodeve, Dickson, Keun, Sawas, Bykow, Sténersen, Salih Effendi, Bartoletti. M. Monlau s'est abstenu.—Procès-verbal No. 41, page 14.

Régime Quarantenaire et Désinfection.

CONCLUSIONS.

Relativement à la quarantaine d'observation et à la quarantaine de rigueur la Conférence est d'avis que "la différence entre ces deux régimes consiste en ce que la quarantaine de rigueur consiste dans le débarquement au lazaret avec désinfection, et comprend toutes les mesures applicables à une provenance cholérique."

Adoptée par 21 voix, contre 0. MM. Maccas et Pélikan ont voté pour, avec réserve. MM. Sotio, Ségovia, Monlau se sont abstenus de voter.—Procès-verbal No. 42, page 17

La Conférence est d'avis : "1, que la quarantaine de rigueur applicable aux personnes venant d'un lieu contaminé soit fixée, en règle générale, à dix jours pleins, et que cette quarantaine commence, pour les personnes, du moment de leur entrée au lazaret. Que si pendant le cours de la quarantaine il se produisait parmi elles des cas de choléra ou de diarrhée cholérique les personnes saines, après la séparation des malades, devraient recommencer la quarantaine de dix jours pleins.

"2. Qu'il y a lieu de considérer comme suspectes les personnes affectées de diarrhée, de les isoler des personnes bien portantes, ainsi que des malades de choléra, et de ne leur accorder la pratique, au bout de la quarantaine réglementaire, qu'à la suite de l'observation médicale constatant la nature non-cholérique de la diarrhée."

Adoptée par 17 voix contre 0. Quatre adhésions conditionnelles, MM. Pélikan, Millingen, qui voudraient que la quarantaine fût portée à 15 jours, et MM. Keun et Mühlig à 17 jours.—Procès-verbal No. 42, page 26.

La Conférence est d'avis :—

"1. D'appliquer aux navires supposés contaminés la quarantaine de rigueur, fixée à 10 jours pleins à dater de l'arrivée ;

"2. D'admettre une différence entre les navires à bord desquels se serait manifesté le choléra ou la diarrhée cholérique, et les navires qui n'auraient pas eu d'accidents cholériques pendant la traversée ; dans le premier cas seraient applicables toutes les mesures de rigueur, d'isolement et de désinfection ; dans le second cas, les navires pourraient être exemptés du déchargement des marchandises non sujettes à purification, et ne seraient soumis qu'à des mesures générales d'hygiène sans désinfection proprement dit ;

"3. De soumettre à des précautions exceptionnelles les navires encombrés et à bord desquels il se serait manifesté une épidémie grave de choléra, précautions qui consisteraient à un isolement plus complet, à la désinfection par les agents les plus actifs et même à la prolongation et au redoublement, selon les cas, de la durée de la quarantaine ;

"4. De réduire à 5 jours la quarantaine applicable aux navires dont la traversée aurait duré de 15 à 30 jours sans aucun accident cholérique, et à 24 heures lorsque la durée de la traversée dépasserait 30 jours ; dans les deux cas, désinfection des marchandises susceptibles, des effets et des parties suspectes, mais sans déchargement total."

Adoptée à l'unanimité, moins une voix, celle de M. Goodeve, qui s'abstient. M. Pélikan fait ses réserves pour la 1^e conclusion.—Procès-verbal No. 43, page 7.

Relativement aux navires qui ont à bord un médecin commissionné et qui sont soumis pendant la traversée à des mesures d'hygiène et de désinfection, la Conférence s'est prononcée de la manière suivante :—

"Les navires en patente brute de choléra qui auront rempli les conditions spécifiées dans le cours de cet Article, pourront compter les jours de la traversée comme jours de quarantaine jusqu'à concurrence de 9 jours. Ils feront au port d'arrivée une quarantaine d'observation calculée de manière à accomplir la quarantaine réglementaire de 10 jours pleins."

Comme cependant la traversée des navires n'a pas toujours la même durée et que celle-ci peut varier de 1 à 9 jours et plus, la Conférence a établi l'échelle suivante comme règle à observer dans l'application de la mesure proposée :—

"Après 24 heures de traversée 9 jours de quarantaine d'observation.

"	2 jours	8	"	"
"	3 "	7	"	"
"	4 "	6	"	"
"	5 "	5	"	"
"	6 "	4	"	"
"	7 "	3	"	"
"	8 "	2	"	"
"	9 "	24 heures	"	"

“ Pour les navires dont la traversée aurait dépassé 9 jours la quarantaine d'observation serait toujours d'au moins 24 heures.”

Adoptée par 12 voix contre 9 et 5 abstentions. Ont voté contre, MM. Vetsera, Sotto, Monlau, Kalergi, Maccas, Bosi, Keun, Millingen, Pélikan. Se sont abstenus de voter MM. Dumreicher, Salvatori, de Soveral, Testa, Mühlig.—Procès-verbal No. 43, page 9.

La Conférence est d'avis “ que la contumace peut se faire à bord des navires dans les cas de quarantaine d'observation et quelquefois de quarantaine de rigueur dans des circonstances de force majeure ; mais dans tous les cas, l'autorité sanitaire aura soin de faire éviter l'encombrement et exercera une surveillance attentive sur la santé des quaranténaires.”

Adoptée à l'unanimité moins une voix, celle de M. Dumreicher, qui s'abstient. M. Dickson vote avec réserve.—Procès-verbal Nos. 43, pages 9 et 10.

La Conférence propose “ une quarantaine de 8 jours pleins pour toutes les provenances de terre, à l'exception des pèlerinages et des déplacements de troupes, dont le régime serait plus sévère. Toutefois il est entendu que si les provenances de terre partaient d'un foyer rapproché d'un à trois jours de marche, la quarantaine serait de 10 jours pleins.

Adoptée par 15 voix : 5 abstentions, celles de MM. Dumreicher, Goodeve, Dickson, Maccas, Bosi.—Procès-verbal No. 43, page 11.

Question de la Désinfection.

CONCLUSIONS.

Suivant l'opinion de la Conférence, “ la désinfection consiste dans l'emploi de différents moyens propres à assainir les lieux et les objets contaminés par le germe cholérique. Ces moyens sont l'air, l'eau, le feu dans certains cas, ainsi que les substances chimiques recommandées par la science et signalées dans le Rapport des mesures hygiéniques.

“ La désinfection s'applique :—

“ 1. Aux navires provenant de lieux infectés et à bord desquels se serait manifestée soit une épidémie grave de choléra, soit des cas isolés de cette maladie ou seulement des cas de diarrhée cholérique.

“ 2. Elle s'applique aux hardes et effets à usage des cholériques, ainsi que des personnes qui subissent le régime de la quarantaine de rigueur tant au lazaret qu'à bord des navires.

“ 3. Elle s'applique en outre aux marchandises supposées contaminées, telles que les drilles, les chiffons, les peaux, les cuirs, les plumes et autres débris animaux, ainsi que les laines et autres substances non emballées provenant d'un lieu infecté ou d'un navire sujet lui-même à la désinfection. Les lettres et dépêches seront enfermés dans une boîte et désinfectées par le dégagement de chlore sans être percées. Quant aux marchandises en général, sortant des fabriques et bien emballées, elles sont réputées non contaminées et conséquemment non sujettes à la désinfection.

Adoptée à l'unanimité, moins une voix, celle de M. Goodeve, qui s'abstient. MM. Dumreicher, Maccas, Bykow, Millingen, votent sous diverses réserves.—Procès-verbal No. 43, pages 12 et 13.

La Patente de Santé et l'Arraînement.

CONCLUSIONS.

Dans l'opinion de la Conférence, “ il y a lieu de supprimer la qualification de patente suspecte et de maintenir celle de patente nette et de patente brute, l'une témoignant de l'absence du choléra, l'autre attestant sa présence ainsi que le degré de sa manifestation.”

Adoptée à l'unanimité.—Procès-verbal No. 43, page 13.

La Conférence exprime le vœu “ que le mot sporadique soit supprimé sur les patentes, où l'on se bornerait, suivant le cas, à mentionner l'existence du choléra Asiatique, ou du choléra nostras.”

Adoptée à l'unanimité.—Procès-verbal No. 43, page 14.

La Conférence est d'avis que "la patente de santé doit faire mention du choléra Asiatique depuis le premier cas de sa manifestation jusqu'au dernier accident qui marque la fin de l'épidémie; que les autorités sanitaires ne devront accorder la libre pratique aux provenances d'un lieu où a régné une épidémie que 15 jours après la date et de sa complète disparition."

Adoptée à l'unanimité.—Procès-verbal No. 43, page 14.

La Conférence opine "qu'il est d'absolue nécessité, comme garantie de la santé publique, qu'un navire n'ait qu'une patente délivrée par l'autorité sanitaire du point du départ; qu'il est également nécessaire que cette patente ne soit pas changée jusqu'à l'arrivée du navire à destination définitive; et qu'en conséquence les autorités doivent se borner à viser la patente primitive sans la remplacer par une nouvelle patente jusqu'au voyage de retour."

La Conférence émet le vœu "que les Gouvernements qui attachent une importance particulière au maintien de la patente Consulaire veuillent bien consentir, dans l'intérêt de la santé publique, à la remplacer par un visa sur la patente délivrée par l'autorité sanitaire."

Adoptée à l'unanimité, moins M. Dumreicher, qui s'abstient.—Procès-verbal No. 43, page 14.

La Conférence est d'avis que "l'arrondissement est un acte de la plus haute importance en temps de choléra. Les réticences, les fausses déclarations, rendent illusoire le système restrictif le mieux combiné et compromettent la santé publique. Elles doivent être sévèrement punies par les lois de chaque pays."

A ce propos la Conférence émet le vœu "que le Gouvernement Ottoman promulgue dans le plus bref délai un code pénal contre les infractions aux règlements sanitaires."

Adoptée à l'unanimité. M. Dumreicher s'abstient.—Procès-verbal No. 43, page 14.

The British Cholera Commissioners to Lord Stanley.

My Lord,

Constantinople, October 3, 1866.

THE International Sanitary Conference has terminated its labours, and we beg, therefore, to lay before your Lordship a statement of the work performed by it. We propose to include in this an abstract of the opinions of the Conference upon the most important points connected with the origin and spread of Cholera, and the means of preventing its diffusion; and, finally, to state our opinion upon the influence of those measures on the public health, and their bearing on the maritime communications of Great Britain.

The Powers represented at the Conference, and the number of delegates sent by them, were as follows:—

Austria, represented by 3 delegates.			Italy, represented by 3 delegates.
Belgium	1	„	Holland	3	„
Denmark	1	„	Persia	2	„
Spain	2	„	Portugal	2	„
Papal States	2	„	Prussia	2	„
France	2	„	Russia	3	„
Great Britain	3	„	Sweden	2	„
Greece	2	„	Turkey and Egypt	3	„

The British delegates at the commencement were, the Honourable William Stuart, Dr. Edward Goodeve, and Dr. Edward Dalzel Dickson. Since the 6th of June, Mr. Stuart having gone away on leave, Great Britain has been represented by the two medical delegates only.

The Conference met for the first time on the 13th of February. The meeting was opened by his Highness Aali Pasha, Minister for Foreign Affairs; and the first proceedings comprised the nomination of Committees to draw up a programme of work, and to consider a proposition of an urgent nature made by the French delegates, for regulating the return of pilgrims from Mecca, in the event of cholera breaking out in the Hedjaz during the pilgrimage of this year.

The discussions on this proposition delayed the commencement of the real work of the Conference until the 8th of March, when the programme was adopted, and the work divided into four parts, or groups, viz.:—

1. Origin and development of cholera.
2. Mode of its propagation.
3. Measures of preservation.
4. Form into which the resolutions adopted by the Conference were to be embodied.

The time of the Conference has been occupied since the above date in studying through Committees, and discussing fully the above-mentioned subjects. The Committee appointed for the study of the two first-mentioned groups was composed of all the medical delegates, with three Diplomatic members; while the Committees for the remaining groups were formed indiscriminately of Diplomatic and medical members.

These several Committees presented six Reports to the Conference, viz.:—

1. On the origin and propagation of cholera.
2. A historical sketch of the epidemic of 1865.
3. On measures of hygiene.
4. On measures of restriction.
5. On measures specially applicable to the East.
6. On the form to be given to the resolutions of the Conference.

At the instance of the French delegates, the Conference discussed also the revision of the Ottoman Sanitary Tariff, and made a report thereon; but in which discussion at least one-half of its members (including ourselves) took no part.

Origin of Cholera.

With reference to the origin of cholera, the Conference has pronounced that it is not a native of Europe, and that it has no spontaneous origin there. That the various epidemics which have devastated the world have always proceeded from India, and have been easily traced back to that source. It has not been able, however, to give any opinion as to the mode of its origin in India, but contents itself with stating that cholera exists there permanently, or in an endemic form. The idea that it originated in the soil of the delta of the Ganges was a favourite one at the commencement of the meetings; but this opinion has been much weakened, if not altogether set aside, by the arguments which we have been able to bring forward against it; and the belief that it depended upon neglect on the part of the British Government in not keeping up in an efficient state the hydraulic works made by their predecessors has been entirely abandoned.

We beg here to note that, in our opinion, the maintenance of cholera permanently in some parts of British India is not due to any peculiarity of the soil, but simply to the continued transmission of a communicable disease, perpetuated in localities which abound in unhealthy (but remediable) conditions engendered by man, under the influence of a favouring climate. We do not attach to the word endemic any expression of the mode of origin, but we understand by it simply the fact of a permanent repetition of the disease.

Some discussion arose as to whether cholera was present in an endemic state in other parts of the East: but it was considered by the majority that proof of this was wanting. It was shown, however, that cholera has frequently prevailed in Persia; so much so as to offer grounds of suspicion that it had got acclimated there; but its presence probably owes this frequency to repeated importations from India. The south and south-east coasts of Arabia have been classed as doubtful endemic centres; but in reality, though cholera is probably very common in those regions, we do not know much about them.

On the whole, there is no satisfactory evidence which proves that cholera exists in a permanent state anywhere except in India, from whence have radiated the epidemic streams that have spread over the world.

Transmissibility.

The Conference has declared that cholera is a disease transmissible from man to man, propagated in a special manner, and diffused in proportion to the frequency of human intercourse. It may be communicated by patients having confirmed cholera; and also by those suffering from only choleraic diarrhœa, and who are able to move about, and are, to all appearance, in a state of health.

The mode of infection is considered to be mainly, though not exclusively, through the discharges from the stomach and bowels, which may pollute air or water, and thus bring the infection within range of a large number of persons, without the necessity of actual contact. This peculiarity, and the manner in which apparently healthy individuals may become the unsuspected vehicles of the disease, explains the obscurity which has long been attached to the question of the transmissibility of cholera; and has solved the former difficulty, encountered while endeavouring to trace its passage, in instances in which the connecting link of infection was absent.

Incubation.

The time that elapses between exposure to infection, and the manifestation of cholera, without previous diarrhœa, is probably not more than a few days; but some doubts still exist as to the duration of choleraic diarrhœa; though in cases so commencing, this stage, in the opinion of the Conference, seldom exceeds eight days without showing decided indications of cholera. Hence the separation of such cases for a term of ten days from the sources of infection would be sufficient, in the great majority of the instances, to decide whether they will pass into cholera or not. Some of the delegates maintained that this diarrhœal period might extend beyond a fortnight. But without denying the possible occurrence of such exceptional cases, the majority of the Conference was not satisfied that the evidence adduced in their support was satisfactory, and that for practical purposes it would not be justified to propose measures based upon such questionable examples.

Fomites.

The cholera poison may infect articles of clothing, houses, ships, &c., and in certain conditions be retained by them in a dormant state for a long time. These may communicate the poison to healthy individuals coming within their range, and, if moveable, may convey it to distant localities.

There is no proof of infection having been given by merchandize or animals, but the Conference admits the possibility of such an occurrence.

Although the Conference recognizes the diffusion of the disease by human intercourse, it also admits that unhealthy local conditions intensify cholera epidemics. These prevail mostly in places with overcrowded populations condemned to breathe foul air, to drink impure water, and to live upon soils impregnated with decomposing organic, and especially excrementitious, matters. The Conference therefore does not think that transmissibility is the sole point to be guarded against, but that the utmost care should be taken that when cholera is introduced into a place, it does not meet there a soil favourable to its development.

Briefly it may be said that the Conference is of opinion that cholera is the product of India; that it accompanies man in his migrations; that it is carried in all directions by his agency only, and in rapidity corresponding with his movements; and that it develops itself most severely in those places which abound in bad sanitary conditions.

Measures of Prevention.

Upon the foregoing considerations the Conference has framed its measures of preservation. These comprise—

Measures of Hygiene ;
Measures of Disinfection ;
Measures of Restriction.

The measures of hygiene recommended by the Conference are such as are generally known, and with the details of which we will not trouble your Lordship. They demand for every man pure and abundant air, pure water, and a pure soil. The Conference believes that these elements should constitute the permanent privilege of populations, and that their attainment should not be postponed until cholera epidemics threaten closely, or are actually in the midst of unhealthily-situated people. They are conditions, however, which cannot be created in a moment—they can only be the work of time.

Measures of disinfection are intended to destroy the cholera poison, and prevent it from exerting an injurious influence on healthy persons. They are applied to purify articles of clothing, buildings, ships, and goods that have been contaminated. Another great object proposed to be attained by disinfectants is the destruction of the chief source of the malady, by operating directly by chemical agents upon the discharges of the cholera sick, and thus preventing them from evolving its poison.

The thorough disinfection of ships is an elaborate process, requiring the unloading of the vessel, and is only called for in cases of an outbreak of cholera on board. In other instances the vessel will be subjected to measures of a less troublesome character.

Measures of restriction are intended to separate infected persons or things from the healthy. They comprise—

1. Isolation of the first cases of cholera which occur in a place, and which may even be applied to exclude infected villages or small towns from communication with their neighbourhood. With perfect isolation cholera could not assume the epidemic character; but owing to the difficulty encountered in effectually controlling the movements of people, this measure will seldom be practicable in Europe.

2. Interruption of all communications with an infected port or district, throughout the duration of the epidemic. This is considered a measure only applicable to exceptional cases.

3. Quarantine.

(A.) Quarantine upon arrivals by sea. The Conference has fixed upon ten days as the period of quarantine, believing that this term will meet the requirements of every case without exacting more from commerce than the public safety demands.

A longer period of probation was proposed by some of the members, chiefly in consequence of the difficulty encountered in detecting the existence of choleraic diarrhoea among crews and passengers of ships; but this proposal was rejected by the Conference, on account of its being based upon a theory which, if accepted, would give no limit to the length of quarantine. The Conference has, therefore, adapted its system of restriction to the condition of the vessel coming from an infected port; exacting the full ten days, and even a prolonged term of quarantine, from ships having the malady on board, or that are foul from overcrowding, &c.; and favouring those which present good sanitary conditions, and allowing them, in special cases, even to count the days occupied in the voyage as part of the term of their quarantine; viz., vessels carrying a surgeon, whose duty it will be to superintend the execution of certain measures of hygiene, and to testify to the state of health of the persons on board. While, moreover, vessels whose crews and passengers have enjoyed good health during a prolonged voyage of fifteen to thirty days will perform only five days' quarantine, and those that have been at sea more than thirty days will, on their arrival, be detained only twenty-four hours.

Quarantine, as applied to ships, has been divided into two categories:—

1. Quarantine of observation; which implies the seclusion of a vessel, with its cargo and passengers, for a limited period, with disinfection of the ship, wearing apparel, and goods supposed to be of a susceptible nature, but without the disembarkation of non-susceptible goods and passengers into the lazaretto. To this category belong vessels in a healthy state, and which are free from overcrowding.

2. Strict quarantine (“quarantaine de rigueur”); which requires the discharge of the cargo and landing of all passengers into the lazaretto, followed by a thorough cleansing and disinfecting of the ship. This quarantine is only applied to vessels that have had cholera or choleraic diarrhoea, and to those overcrowded with passengers, more especially with pilgrims, emigrants, or troops.

(B.) Quarantine upon arrivals by land. Owing to the difficulty of efficiently maintaining it, this can seldom be successfully applied. The instances quoted by the Conference in which it might be useful, are those of persons moving in masses, such as pilgrims, emigrants, and troops. Its duration will vary from eight to ten days, according to the distance whence the arrivals come; but will never be less than ten days for pilgrims, emigrants, and troops.

Lazaretto establishments for the isolation of persons and the disinfection of goods, are a necessary accompaniment of all quarantine institutions. They are now proposed to be constructed upon a plan and scale that will render them much more healthy than those of the old system, and the Conference has expressed a hope that they will be rendered as comfortable and agreeable as possible, and that they shall be regularly and frequently inspected to insure their being kept in good order. They will be placed in isolated situations (upon islands if possible), so as not to become sources of danger to populous towns or districts in their neighbourhood.

It is proposed that every vessel shall be furnished with a bill of health, delivered by the Local Sanitary Board; and that to avoid abuses, the Consular bills of health shall henceforth be suppressed, and that instead, the Consuls should inscribe their visa upon the local document.

The Conference is, moreover, of opinion that the very first case of cholera which manifests itself in a place should be noted upon the bill of health; and that mention should continue to be made of the epidemic while it lasts; and that fifteen days should be allowed to elapse after its entire cessation before admitting arrivals from the compromised locality into free pratique. The bill of health, moreover, must not be exchanged for a new one, until the vessel has reached its ultimate destination; and it is recommended that this document should be printed in two languages, French, and that of the place of departure; and that it be drawn up according to the model given by the Paris Sanitary Conference.

Finally, to prevent false declarations being made by captains of vessels on their arrival in a Turkish port, the Conference has expressed a hope that the Ottoman Government will enact, with the least possible delay, a penal code to meet infractions against its sanitary regulations.

Although the Conference has devised measures for arresting the progress of cholera in general, it declares that the most important for the preservation of Europe are those directed to stop its development in India, and check its progress towards Europe; and that the efficacy of these measures is greater the nearer they are applied to the sources from whence the malady issues.

The Conference infers from our present knowledge, that the most effectual means of checking the development of cholera in India consists in the continuance and extension of the measures of hygiene commenced by the British Government, and in the general application of the rules, slightly modified, which now regulate Hindoo pilgrimages. It wishes also to impress on the Indian Government the great advantages that might result from its undertaking researches on the origin, endemicity, and epidemicity of cholera, and which might possibly lead to the discovery of a way of exterminating the disease—the great object to be attained.

To check the progress of cholera westward, measures by land and by sea are proposed. Those by land commence with restrictions on the frontiers of the Punjab, and are extended to Persia, Central Asia, and the confines of Russia. Those by sea are applied to the usual cholera routes through the Persian Gulf and Red Sea. The rules of ordinary quarantine are deemed sufficient for the shores of the Persian Gulf; but a more elaborate scheme is devised for the Red Sea, affecting, on the one hand, the passenger traffic between India and Suez, and on the other, the movements connected with the pilgrimage to Mecca. All vessels entering the Red Sea would be inspected at Perim. Those bound to Suez would, if necessary, perform quarantine at Tor, while pilgrim-ships would be detained in quarantine at some station (not yet determined) in the vicinity of the Straits of Babel-mandeb; and they would, moreover, have to comply with the Regulations of the "Indian Native Passenger Act" of 1858, to which a few slight additions have been made by the Conference.

At Mecca measures of safety will be adopted similar to those employed by the British Government at the Hindoo shrines.

The Western pilgrims on their return would perform fifteen days' quarantine at El-Wesch, should cholera have broken out in the Hedjaz during their stay; and the land caravans would, in like circumstances, be inspected before entering Egypt or Syria, and, if necessary, perform quarantine also.

The above measures are to be carried out under the control of an International Sanitary Board.

Thus cholera is to be checked, step by step, in its course along the pilgrim-trains, as well as in the ordinary communications of the Red Sea; and should it finally reach the Egyptian territory, it is proposed to put that country under an interdiction, and interrupt all intercourse between it and the Mediterranean, during the whole period of the duration of the epidemic; the mails only being allowed to pass onwards.

The checks to the progress of cholera by the Red Sea, could they practically be enforced, would probably prevent any further importation of the malady through that channel. But the obstacles opposed to its march through Persia, and the Northern route, are far less likely to be efficient, owing to the much greater difficulty of arresting its progress by land.

According to our view, this is much to be regretted. We think that this channel is quite as important as that of the Red Sea; for, with the exception of the epidemic of 1865, it is by the Persian and Northern routes that cholera has always invaded Europe.

From the foregoing statement it will be apparent to your Lordship that a large share of the measures proposed by the Conference are directed towards India, and the cholera routes between India and Europe. The responsibility which attaches to India as being the source of the disease, and its connections with Europe, have been prominently brought forward by the Conference.

Impressed with the events of 1865, it has directed especial attention to the Red Sea channel, and above all to the Mahometan pilgrims. We propose to consider in what manner the danger, if any, has increased of late years.

The ordinary traffic between India and Suez is not likely to be more dangerous now than it has been for the last twenty years, during which steam communication has been in constant operation. The pilgrim traffic between India and the Hedjaz continues to be carried on in nearly the same manner as heretofore; steam transport being very little employed in it. In 1865 only four steamers were freighted for this purpose: they carried 894 passengers out of the 20,000 Eastern pilgrims said to have visited Mecca, and they had no cholera deaths amongst their crews or passengers. If any new source of apprehension, therefore, has arisen, it must lie in the application of steam-transport between the Hedjaz and Suez, and which is now largely employed for the conveyance of pilgrims. The crowding of these boats and the short duration of their passage have certainly increased the risk of an importation of the disease into Egypt, whenever it occurs in the Hedjaz during the season of the pilgrimage.

The Conference has dwelt on the dangers of the port of Singapore as a focus of cholera and a centre of dissemination. We think, however, that there is misapprehension on this point. When cholera is epidemic in the Malayan peninsula and islands, it may exist also at Singapore, owing to its commercial intercourse with the surrounding countries; but, in general, Singapore is a place remarkably free from cholera, and it can therefore seldom become a centre of emission. Cholera existed there in 1864, previous to the sailing of the pilgrim-ships for the Hedjaz. The only vessels having had cholera on board, and of which we possess any accurate account, are the "Persia" and "Northwind;" both of which, although originally sailing from Singapore, caught the disease at Mokalla, a town on the south-eastern coast of Arabia. The public mind, without paying sufficient attention to this latter circumstance and to the length of the voyage between Singapore and Jeddah (fifty to sixty days' sail), ascribed the importation of cholera into the Hedjaz directly from Singapore. Without denying the possibility of a direct importation from India, we believe that the main danger to the Hedjaz lies in the propagation of the disease from the eastern and southern coasts of Arabia.

Such, my Lord, is a brief outline of the opinions expressed by the Conference on Cholera, and on the measures of preservation proposed against it.

We now beg respectfully to offer a few observations of our own on this subject.

The Conference has fixed on ten days as the term of quarantine for maritime arrivals from an infected port. If this rule be adopted throughout Europe, it will greatly embarrass and delay our communications with the neighbouring continent; nor would it be of much use when applied to one Continental State while its communications by land with other States remained free; still, if such checks could be tolerated, they would increase the chances of keeping out the malady, and people moving in masses, such as emigrants, might be submitted to this restriction without much inconvenience. But if quarantine cannot be carried out between England and the Continent, still it might be advantageously enforced in the communications between England and the Mediterranean, and between England and America.

The proposed system of quarantine will fall severely upon vessels having cholera and upon those that are in bad sanitary conditions, and the measure will be most felt by vessels performing short voyages, while first-class ships, and those that make long voyages and are in a healthy state, will have the delay materially reduced.

From the infrequency of cholera in Europe, these restrictive measures would not be felt there so much as they would be on our communications with India. Bombay and Calcutta are never exempt from cholera, and could never give a clean bill of health; hence these measures will be constantly in force against them. Fortunately, by the arrangement which allows well-conditioned and healthy ships having a surgeon on board to reckon the voyage as part of the quarantine, passenger-boats that go from Bombay to Suez in twelve days, and from Calcutta to Suez in twenty days, when free from cholera, would only meet with a detention of twenty-four hours at the latter port, a delay which we think might safely be dispensed with, as it causes inconvenience to the vessel, without allowing sufficient time for the discovery of any latent sickness lurking on board. We further beg to observe that should the proposed interception at Perim, for the purpose of interrogating vessels, be abandoned, the twenty-four hours' stoppage at Suez would not, in ordinary circumstances, materially interfere with our passenger traffic through that line; but the case would be very different on the contemplated route by way of the Persian Gulf, where the advantages of a shortened voyage between Bombay and the head of the Persian Gulf would be lost by the increased delay applied to ships on their arrival there, so as to complete their term of ten days' quarantine, including the time of their passage.

We may here remark that, independently of self-preservation, India has strong inducements to make every effort to banish cholera from its chief ports, and especially from its future great point of communication with Great Britain, Bombay.

The objection we entertain with regard to the twenty-four hours' detention at Suez is even more applicable to vessels sailing from India by way of the Cape of Good Hope. These are sometimes three or four months at sea, and up to the present moment have never carried the disease to England, nor have they ever been subjected to any restrictive measures whatever.

As a general rule we could not admit the practicability of foreign interference in the local administration of any State, whether in sanitary matters or otherwise; and whether this applied to our own possessions, or to those of the Ottoman Government. We, therefore, could not join in the vote of the Conference for international institutions in the Red Sea.

Tor, the proposed lazaretto station for passenger ships having cholera, or in bad sanitary conditions, is too far distant from Suez (more than 100 miles); this inconvenience will not be felt however by the passenger-boats coming from India in a healthy state, as the twenty-four hours' detention will not be applied at Tor, but at Suez.

The interruption of all communication with Egypt, should cholera break out there, is a measure which, if ever enforced, will most seriously affect our traffic through that land. Apart from the political and commercial interests involved in this question, masses of passengers, many of them invalids, would accumulate in Egypt for weeks or months, without the possibility of finding accommodation, and exposed to the dangers of an unsparing epidemic. A large proportion of these sufferers would be afflicted with severe tropical diseases, and seeking Europe at a great sacrifice, as the only means of restoring health, and saving their lives. Whether these sick persons are detained in Egypt during its unhealthy season, or, warned of this interruption, are forced to remain in the Indian climate, their lot will be a most deplorable one, often aggravated from want of means to procure the comforts and even the necessities of existence. The above picture will, in a great degree, also apply to reliefs of troops, which are in future to take the overland route.

We are of opinion that this extreme measure might be obviated without danger to Europe by allowing the overland passengers to pass through Egypt in quarantine trains, on condition of their performing afterwards the usual quarantine at the port of their destination.

We now beg to call your Lordship's attention to the pitiable condition of the Indian pilgrims in the Hedjaz during their pilgrimage. Men, women, and children are there exposed to every kind of hardship, to want of shelter, famine, disease, extortion, and pillage, and are often forced to sell their liberty, for two or three years, to enable them to procure the means of returning to their homes. We do not know to what extent Her Majesty's Indian subjects share in these lamentable hardships, and it is possible that under the common name of Indian pilgrim the greatest number of the sufferers belong to foreign States. We think that we have heard enough about them to prompt us to suggest respectfully to your Lordship that this question, as it affects British subjects, might be made a matter for special and careful inquiry, and that steps might be taken to prevent the recurrence in future of such disastrous scenes.

In conclusion, we beg to submit to your Lordship our opinion as to the utility of the work in which we have been privileged to share.

The Conference has pointed out all that is positively known with regard to the origin of cholera. It has shown the disease to be the product of one country, has declared its transmissibility, and established the mode of its propagation. It has traced its routes, and pointed out the best mode of checking its progress. It has raised hopes that by a judicious combination of measures of hygiene and restriction of intercourse the disease may be averted; and encourages us to believe that cholera is not an overwhelming force against which man is helpless, and to which he must submit without effort, but rather an evil that may be overcome by a combined action of various Governments, directed with energy and perseverance.

Although we have not shared in all the opinions or given our assent to every measure proposed by the Conference, yet we think that it has pointed out the true manner of meeting cholera, and we cannot but believe, with all humility, that if its recommendations are thoroughly carried out, they will avert the evil, and contribute largely to the preservation of mankind.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES ACT (1866).

RETURN to an Address of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 7 May 1868;—for,

“COPY of a MEMORIAL to the Lord President of the Council from the President of the Royal College of Physicians, and others, respecting the Extension of the ‘CONTAGIOUS DISEASES ACT, 1866.’”

To His Grace the Duke of Marlborough, Lord President of Her Majesty's Privy Council.

My Lord Duke,

UNDER the auspices of the Association for promoting the Extension of “The Contagious Diseases Act, 1866,” to the Civil Population of the United Kingdom, evidence has been collected, which shows,—

First. That the operation of the Contagious Diseases Act of 1866 has been very effectual at those garrison towns where it has been applied, not only in diminishing the extent, but also in much alleviating the severity of the diseases against which that Act is directed;

Second. That from the evidence of the clergy, medical officers, and police acquainted with the operation of the Act in these districts, it is clear that the condition of the unfortunate women who are subjected to these restrictive and sanitary measures has been favourably influenced, and that a comparatively large proportion of them have been reclaimed;

Third. That greater improvement in the health of the men in Her Majesty's Army and Navy would have resulted if the Act had been fully applied over a larger area, inasmuch as fresh sources of contagion are constantly imported into the protected districts;

Fourth. That in the towns in which investigations have been conducted, a mass of disease exists untended and unchecked;

Fifth. That sufferers by these diseases form a large proportion of the sick population; and that, infected by contagion or by inheritance, a considerable number of innocent adults and children suffer as much as the guilty;

Sixth. That, since abandoned women are, for the most part, aggregated together in great towns, it is possible to deal with them without serious difficulty; that at present there is great deficiency of hospital accommodation, or of places where they can be treated; and that, it has been ascertained, the women themselves would not resist restrictions established to prevent their spreading contagious diseases.

Under these circumstances, we are of opinion that the principle of “The Contagious Diseases Act, 1866,” should be extended to the civil population, by providing proper hospital accommodation for women suffering from, and likely to spread, such diseases, and by taking power to detain them in hospital when found to be diseased. These measures, in our opinion, do not involve any system of licensing prostitution. They are intended to be purely restrictive and sanitary in their operation.
266. providing

DURHAM RECORDS.

RETURN to an Order of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 14 February 1868;—for,

COPY “of LETTER from the Right Honourable the Master of the Rolls to the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty’s Treasury, transmitting the REPORT of the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records on the DURHAM RECORDS, &c.”

Treasury Chambers, }
17 February 1868. }

G. SCLATER-BOOTH.

LETTER from the Right Honourable the Master of the Rolls to Mr. G. A. Hamilton.

Sir,

Rolls House, 23 October 1867.

In consequence of a letter I received from the Rev. Scott Surtees (a copy of which I herewith transmit), I desired the deputy keeper of the Public Records to proceed to Durham and report to me on the state of the Records of the Palatinate (which were placed under my charge by the Statute 1 & 2 Vict. c. 94), to enable me, in the event of Mr. Surtees’s complaint being well founded, to determine what steps it would be advisable to take to remedy the grievance complained of.

I now beg leave to forward Mr. Hardy’s report to me, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty’s Treasury.

After giving due consideration to Mr. Hardy’s report, and looking at the subject in every point of view, and particularly observing that no effectual step has been taken to remedy the evils so forcibly pointed out in Mr. Hardy’s first report in the year 1854, it appears to me that the proper course for me to pursue is to issue my warrant to the deputy keeper to remove the Palatine Records to London at once; but I hesitate to take this step without first apprising their Lordships of my intention, as it would involve the expenditure of 100 l. or a little more.

I should, moreover, be sorry to resort to any measure, if it could be avoided, that could be considered prejudicial or displeasing to the inhabitants of the Palatinate.

Before, therefore, I order the removal of these records, I should wish to ascertain whether the authorities and gentry of the county, in the event of my allowing the records to remain at Durham, would themselves undertake to pay an annual salary to a qualified keeper of the Palatinate Records at Durham, who should be competent to arrange and calendar them, and make them properly accessible to the public for legal and historical investigations.

Such a record keeper would necessarily be under the jurisdiction of the Master of the Rolls. If the authorities of the county would undertake this responsibility, which I presume they will consent to do, after concurring in the memorial which the High Sheriff and Justices of the Peace addressed and sent to me (a copy of which I append to this letter), I should see no objection to allow the Records of the Palatinate to remain in the new building erected for them by the University of Durham, pursuant to the Order of the Queen in Council, dated the 19th July 1837.

If, on the other hand, the county authorities should decline to comply with this proposal, no other course is open to me than to remove the records in question to London. This was exactly the course adopted by me in the case of the Palatine Records of Chester, when, after meeting and considering the matter, the gentlemen of that county thought it best that the Records should be transferred to the Public Record Office, the result of which has been, I believe, to give satisfaction to all persons who have occasion to consult them.

In case it shall become necessary to transfer the Palatinate Records to London, I trust their Lordships will sanction any expense that may be incurred in such a removal.

There is another subject mentioned in Mr. Hardy's report, to which I desire to draw their Lordships' attention, before I issue my warrant. I allude to the claim made by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners to all the Records preserved in the auditor's office at Durham. I wish it at once to be determined what are to be considered as the private documents appertaining to the See of Durham, as Bishops and not as Palatines, so that the public documents may be given up to me to be removed to London. This inquiry could, I think, be best arranged through the medium of the solicitor to the Treasury, and the solicitor of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and no time ought to be lost in coming to a decision on this matter.

I beg leave also to mention that I perfectly agree with Mr. Hardy in his suggestion that all the original awards, which are now deposited in five different offices, should be brought together and allowed to remain at Durham.

This would follow as a necessary consequence, if the county authorities agree to my proposal to appoint a record keeper; if, however, they do not, I am of opinion that the awards in question should not be brought to London, but should be placed under the care of the clerk of the peace of the county for the time being, and be open to the public for consultation. If further information on the points connected with my letter be desired by their Lordships it will be found in Mr. Hardy's report. The account he has furnished me of the Durham Records generally will be found replete with interest.

Enclosure, No. 1.

Sprotburgh Rectory, Doncaster,
17 June 1867.

My Lord,
I HAVE lately had occasion, on an important trial, to consult the Registry and Record Offices at Durham. I do not hesitate to say that their state is a disgrace to the age in which we live. One document, very important in our case, could not be found, and it was not until I had secured the services of Mr. Langstaffe, of Gateshead, who, I was informed, was "the only person who knew anything about the Durham Records" (at an expense of 5*l.*), that the document was forthcoming. I do trust, not only on personal grounds, but for the benefit of those who are interested in the history of the North Humber principality, that these valuable papers might be made more accessible to the historian and archæologist.

Your obedient servant,
(signed) Scott F. Surtees.

P.S.—I forward a copy of the trial alluded to.

To the Right Hon. the Baron Romilly,
Master of the Rolls, &c.

Enclosure No. 2.

My Lord,
I HAVE the honour to inform your Lordship that, in compliance with your instructions, I proceeded to Durham on the 1st of October, for the purpose of making a report to you on the accessibility to the Records of the Palatinate placed in your charge by the Public Record Act, in order that you might ascertain the correctness of the allegation made by the Rev. Scott Surtees in his letter to you of the 17th June last, wherein he states that the Record Offices of Durham are "a disgrace to the age we live in," and prays "for the benefit of those who are interested in the history of the North Humber principality, that these valuable papers might be made more accessible to the historian and archæologist."

As your Lordship will probably send a copy of this Report to the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, accompanied with your own observations thereon, it is necessary that I should give a brief statement respecting the Durham Records for their Lordships' information, and enable them to determine what is the best step to be taken to remedy remedy the evils existing in the Palatinate Record Offices. If these evils be not speedily removed, they must end in the total destruction of the valuable and curious muniments, which are now the property of the Crown, and under the charge of the Master of the Rolls, pursuant to the statute 1 & 2 Victoria, c. 94.

From the remotest period, the see of Durham has been held to be a County Palatine, and the Bishops, as Lords Palatine, have used and exercised royal rights and prerogatives over the district between the river Tyne on the north, and the river Tees on the south, as well as in the manors of Norham and Holy Island, and the lordship of Bedlington in Northumberland, as also in the manors of Craike and Northallerton in Yorkshire.

Within this district the Bishops had the power to coin money, levy taxes, and to raise men for the defence of the Palatinate. They appointed their own Justices of Assize, of Oyer and Terminer, of Gaol delivery, and of the Peace. They exempted men from appearing at the assizes and serving on juries, and all writs ran in their names. A great part of the land in the county was held of them in capite. All wastes and moors within this prescribed district, to which no one could make title, belonged to them. No freehold could be alienated without their licence. They pardoned intrusions, trespasses, rapes, felonies, misprisons, and manumitted villeins. All forfeitures of lands and goods of felons and outlaws, and of those committing high treason, belonged to them. They likewise had all fines for alienations, amercements, and forfeited recognizances, as well as primer fines, post fines, or bishop's silver. All fruits of tenure by wardships, marriages, liveries, &c., belonged to them during the feudal service in this country. They gave licences to build chapels, to found hospitals and chantries, to purchase and convey lands in mortmain notwithstanding the statute, to crenolate and embattle castles and manor houses, and to create boroughs and erect corporations. They likewise possessed and enjoyed Admiralty jurisdiction within the Palatinate, being Lords Admiral of the seas and waters there. They appointed by their letters patent vice-admirals, judges, registrars, examiners, water bailiffs, officers of beaconage and anchorage, and accordingly took and enjoyed all wrecks of the sea, royal fish, anchorage, butlerage, wharfage, mowage, metage, and all other privileges, forfeitures, and profits incident thereunto. They had also ferry boats over the navigable rivers within the county, together with fisheries and dams. They had several forests, chaces, parks, and woods, and they had foresters who held courts and determined matters relative to the same. They issued their commissions "de lutanico inquirendo," and granted the custody of all idiots and lunatics. They created all the officers of the Palatinate by letters patent "quamdiu se bene gesserint," "quamdiu Episcopa placuerit," or for life or lives, but none of the patents were valid beyond the bishop's life who granted them, unless confirmed by the Dean and Chapter of Durham. The principal privilege, however, which the bishops possessed as Palatines, and which more immediately has reference to the present inquiry, was that of holding courts of justice as well as of appointing judges and officers to preside over and officiate therein; the acts, proceedings, and decisions of whom constitute the public muniments of the Palatinate. These Courts were the Chancery, the Exchequer, the Common Pleas, and the County Court.

I have deemed it necessary to give these details, as the Palatinate documents relate to the subjects I have mentioned. They will, moreover, afford their Lordships some notion of the multifarious contents of the Durham Record Offices, which have become the property of the Crown, pursuant to statute 6 Will. 4, c. 19, by which the Palatinate was transferred from the bishops and vested in "His Majesty, his heirs and successors," as a franchise and royalty separate from the Crown. Her Majesty is therefore now possessed of all the rights and prerogatives, records and muniments, which belonged to the Bishops of Durham as Lords Palatine. Of the rights and prerogatives which have descended to Her Majesty it is no part of my duty to speak, though I think the subject demands inquiry. My observations will be confined to the records and documents belonging to the Palatinate which were placed under the charge of the Master of the Rolls by the Public Record Act. Had not that Act passed, the documents in question would have belonged to Her Majesty in her quasi-private capacity in the same manner as those belonging to the Duchy of Lancaster, and would have been maintained at her cost; but the Public Record Act has placed them under the charge of the Master of the Rolls, and consequently on the nation devolves the cost of preserving them.

Owing to a variety of circumstances which need not be mentioned here (as they are quite irrelevant to the present inquiry), your Lordship was not able to take any steps relative to the Durham Records until the autumn of the year 1854. I was then directed by you to proceed to Durham and make a full examination of the records there which had been placed under your charge by the Public Record Act; to inquire into the state of the buildings in which they were deposited; to ascertain whether they were secure from fire, damp, and depredations; to learn what were the orders and regulations by which the public was permitted to have access to them; what indexes, calendars, or repertories existed; and what fees were charged for copies, searches, and inspections. I was also directed to obtain all the information I could collect respecting the classes, nature, and historical or legal character, of the documents in question.

Pursuant to my instructions, I made a long report on the Durham Records, which was printed in the former Deputy Keeper's Sixteenth Report to the Queen, and laid before Parliament.

At that time the Palatinate Records were deposited in a stone building on the west side of the Palace Green, said to have been erected for them by Bishop Neville about the year 1450. The Warden, Masters and Scholars of the University of Durham urgently requiring requiring this building for the purpose of a library, the Queen, by an Order in Council, dated the 19th July 1837, transferred to them the building in question subject to certain stipulations, one of which was, that they should provide a sufficient building elsewhere for the respective purposes for which the Exchequer building was used.

In fulfilment of their part of the agreement, the authorities of the University of Durham erected a stone edifice for the offices and records which were in the Exchequer building, and in July 1855, the records were removed into the new repository.

The new building contains, like the old one,—

1. The Records in the custody of the Registrar.
2. The Records belonging to the Cursitor.
3. The Prothonotary's Records.
4. The Records belonging to the Clerk of the Peace.
5. The Records belonging to the Clerk of the Crown.
6. The Auditor's Records.
7. The Halmote Court Records.
8. The Receiver General's Office.

As I have given, in the report to which I have alluded, an account of the several series of Records belonging to these different offices, I need not travel again over the same ground. It will be sufficient to mention that I there pointed out the lamentable state in which I found most of the records, and the incompetency of the several officers having the charge of them to read them, or to afford any assistance to legal and literary inquirers. I called attention to the entire want of inventories, calendars, and indexes throughout the several offices, and I strongly urged the necessity of having all the documents in each repository belonging to the Crown sorted into classes, and catalogued, prior to their removal to the new edifice which had been constructed for their reception. I also recommended that the whole of the Records should be placed under the charge of an officer (with one or two clerks to aid him in digesting and calendaring the documents), who should be competent to afford requisite assistance to legal and historical inquirers. A copy of my report was sent to the several officers having the charge of the Records for their guidance, and I think it a matter of regret that none of my recommendations were attended to, for had they received the attention they deserved, the evils which now exist could not have occurred. The documents were, I am informed, hastily transferred from the old Exchequer into the new Repository, without any arrangement whatever; not so much as an inventory or list was made of what was removed, and, what is more to be deplored, they have continued in this state of confusion down to the present time. Had it not been for Mr. Surtees's complaint, in all probability many would have been allowed to continue in their present disgusting state of decomposition and filth until they had been entirely destroyed. I do not mean to apply this censure, strong as it is, to the whole of the Palatinate Records. I refer more especially to those belonging to the clerk of the peace; no expression of reprobation which I could use would be too strong as applied to the present state of those documents.

In my former report, I stated that the Records in the office of Clerk of the Peace "are in a lamentable state of disorder; papers, books, and parchments are littered about the floor more than knee-deep, some strewn upon tables, chairs, and window-seats, others huddled together in shelves and in cupboards." Their present state of neglect is, if possible, worse than it was 13 years ago when that report was made. The documents have the appearance of having been pitched into the rooms with a fork, because they were found too filthy to be handled. It is, however, but just to Mr. John Watson, the present Clerk of the Peace, to say that the removal took place long before his appointment to the office, and that since he became clerk of the peace, he has frequently called the attention of the justices of the peace for the county of Durham to the discreditable state of the office. No notice, I regret to add, has apparently been taken of Mr. Watson's remonstrances and complaints.

I am thus particular in calling your Lordship's attention to this fact, because when the justices of the peace, headed by the high sheriff, heard of your intention of removing the records from Durham, if you found it advisable for the public benefit, they memorialised your Lordship, stating—

That they had been informed that your Lordship purposes to issue your warrant to remove certain of the records of this county to London; that many of these records related to the Ecclesiastical tenures in the county, and to the inclosure of commons in the same, and being from time to time consulted for the purpose of settling disputes between parties interested therein, their removal from the locality would throw great additional costs and obstruction in the way of persons wishing to consult them. They added, that the removal of the Durham Records from their various, but well-known places of custody would be a serious inconvenience to those who are now engaged in investigating the true history of the Palatinate, and probably altogether put a stop to such inquiries; therefore, they pray your Lordship not to issue any warrant on the subject, in the absence of proper local inquiries, both as to the nature of those records which are removable under the statute, and the consequences of such removal to the public, and to those who are in the habit and under the necessity of consulting these records.

I think your Lordship will agree with me that such a memorial as this comes with a bad grace from a body of gentlemen whose records are in the very worst condition of those belonging to the Palatinate, and a reproach to the office of clerk of the peace.

With

With respect to the disorder prevailing in the other offices I do not offer a word of censure, because the officers of each were compelled to move the records under their charge at a minute's notice, and though no inventories of their contents exist, yet, with some trouble and a little inconvenience, any record which I mentioned in my former report can be found. I now especially allude to the Cursitor's Office, which may be said to be under the management of Mr. John Booth, junior, the deputy of Mr. Davison, who holds the offices of cursitor clerk of the halmote and diocesan registrar. I stated in my former report the record-room of the Prothonotary of the Court of Pleas at Durham had more the appearance of a general dealer's shop than a muniment room, and it is satisfactory now to say that that stigma has been removed. The documents are now placed in cupboards round the room, and the unsightly appearance complained of exists no longer, but still the want of an inventory of these muniments is much to be regretted. Mr. Ward, however, the deputy prothonotary, thinks that with a little trouble he can find any record demanded, but as his records are seldom consulted an inventory of them is not required. It is rather a curious fact connected with the office of prothonotary, that it is filled by a clergyman who has held the appointment for much more than 70 years, having been placed in it when he was a child of a year and a half old.

The records belonging to the registrar are precisely in the state in which they stood in the old Exchequer building. They are placed in the same oaken presses they occupied there, and are ranged along the sides of the walls of the room in which the Chancellor of the Palatinate holds his court, in like manner as in their previous quarters. No inventories or calendars to these documents exist, consequently they are seldom referred to, which is much to be regretted, as their contents, judging by the hasty glance I was able to take of them, are more valuable for the purposes of historical investigations than any others in the palatinate, and certainly should be made known to the public. In this office are kept some of the awards respecting the divisions of moors, commons, and town-fields, to which I shall presently have occasion to refer.

A great improvement has also taken place with respect to the records belonging to the clerk of the Crown. When my former report was made, they were deposited in a cave or excavation made in one of the walls of the old Exchequer building, without the slightest ventilation, and in which not a ray of daylight could possibly enter. The air was so very foul and damp that the candle which was lighted to enter that mural cave would scarcely burn, and the place was so narrow that it was difficult for a man to pass between the wall and the press on which the documents were placed. These records have been removed into a well-lighted and commodious room, placed in large presses, and they are now perfectly accessible. I was not able in my former report to give any account of these records. I have therefore supplied the deficiency. The papers are certainly of no great value, either for legal or historical purposes, but still it is necessary that their nature should be known.

The Halmote or Copyhold Office remains in the same state as it was in the old Exchequer building, and is still considered as the private property of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, though the early records are certainly of a public nature, and from the year 1345 to 1617 are in existence in the Cursitor's Office, engrossed on parchment in leiger books. It is unnecessary to give a further account of the documents in the Halmote Court office, as the matter has been fully discussed in my former report.

In that report I gave an account of the records belonging to the auditor, a sworn officer appointed for life by Letters Patent under the Palatinate Seal. Many of the records in his custody are undoubtedly public property, and many unquestionably appertain to the possessions of the bishoprick.

The two classes ought at once to be determined, as the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, I am informed, claim as their private muniments all the records in the auditor's custody, except certain awards, and allow no searches to be made without their permission, and upon the express understanding that any information obtained from the records shall not be used against the rights of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. This appears to be a hardship to a suitor and requires speedy remedy, especially as large masses of the records in the auditor's office are of a public character. The Commissioners also claim the right to remove to London any records they may require, and I am informed that they have taken away several documents, and all the counterparts of leases, &c.

The auditor considers himself the officer of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and not the officer of the Crown. I think this is a mistake on his part, but it is a matter which does not affect this inquiry. At any rate, if he be the officer of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners he ought to give up the custody of the public records now in his charge.

The records in the office of the Receiver General are also considered as the private property of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and as such the public have no right of search. Not wishing to put myself in an invidious position I did not inspect the rooms in charge of Mr. Wall, the agent of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners.

It is unnecessary to dwell upon the disorder which prevails among the records of the Palatinate, but there is one inconvenience arising out of it which ought to be removed without delay. I allude to the location of the same class of records in different offices. Take, for instance, "the Awards," which are consulted oftner than any others at Durham. These are kept in five different offices, and the inquirer is driven from one office to another in search of the document he needs. Fortunately these awards are not numerous, or the evil would be great and even burthensome to the suitor. The whole series ought to be brought together in the same office. This could easily be done at once without inconvenience to anybody, and with great advantage to applicants desiring to inspect them. Indeed if it should be found expedient to remove the Palatinate Records to London (on which point I shall presently lay a suggestion before your Lordship), it would, I think, be judicious to allow these to remain at Durham, for they are almost the only documents used for legal purposes, and there might be some ground of complaint were they conveyed to London. With respect to all the other public records their removal to London would not be inconvenient. Mr. Langstaffe, indeed, in his letter to the registrar of the Court of Chancery of Durham, and which was forwarded by that officer for the information of your Lordship, states that "to the members of the legal profession any removal would be most obnoxious, and to their clients oppressive; to the local antiquaries struggling to elucidate the peculiarities of the North it would be cruel and, to a great extent, prohibitory."

I cannot, however, but think that Mr. Langstaffe's apprehensions are more imaginary than real, for I am informed by the several officers having the charge of the records that, with the exception of the "Awards," they are scarcely ever consulted either for legal or historical investigations; and for that reason they have been allowed to remain in their present disorderly condition.

I would ask whether the records of the Palatinate of Lancaster are not better taken care of in London than they would be at Lancaster, and what inconvenience is entailed on the inhabitants of that Palatinate by their being in London?—Then with regard to the records of Chester, I ask, are they not better preserved in London than they were in Chester Castle, where they laid in a state of neglect similar to the records at Durham? Not only have the Chester muniments been arranged and repaired since they were brought to London; but the greater portions of them have been calendared, and the calendar is printed. This is a boon which the inhabitants of the principality of Wales fully appreciate and gratefully acknowledge.

Looking at the history of the records of the Palatinate of Durham, and remembering how much they have suffered from spoliation and neglect, I cannot but believe that their removal to London would tend immeasurably to their preservation and usefulness, and would prove anything but an inconvenience and detriment to the people of the county.

That an immense number of the records belonging to the Palatinate have been stolen or destroyed is unhappily beyond surmise, for not a single class of documents is extant anterior to the Pontificate of Anthony Bek, who governed the see from 1283 to 1311. Here and there, indeed, a stray roll or instrument turns up, which proves that many others of a like nature once existed, and makes me deeply regret that many others of the same series have perished.

In my former report I have shown how Bishop Cuthbert Tunstall, who presided from 1530 to 1561, and others, speak of the loss and destruction of the records of this Palatinate. I need not, therefore, repeat it here, nor show how the executors of Bishop Cosins destroyed eight or nine chests of the early muniments of the see, to prevent disputes which might arise about his estates, but I cannot resist the opportunity of adding another instance (which has come to my knowledge since that report appeared) of the destruction of the palatinate muniments. In a suit in the chancery of Durham, it appears by the answer, dated 12 September 1662, of Richard Baddeleye, a defendant to a Bill of Complaint of the Attorney General of the same John Cosins, that a great destruction to the palatinate documents took place about the year 1647. "The unhappy time," he says, "in which the Scotch invasion had overspread a great part of this nation, especially here in these northern parts, and more particularly the City of Durham, then making havock of the bishoprick and violating all its sacred rights as much as in them lay, as also bearing an implacable malice to anything that belonged to the bishop, disgracing his palace by making it a lodging place for soldiers, and making the place where this defendant kept his auditor's office a court of guard for soldiers, under the command and government of one Captain Brewine, at which time their disorders were so great as that they threw out all the records, books, papers, and muniments of the said office, as also the presses and sundry other woodwork appertaining and belonging to the said office and court, were by them in a most violent manner burnt and destroyed."

It seems, however, that two years previously (in 1645) by reason of the general over-spreading of the Scotch army, and more particularly about the city of Durham, "he the defendant, amongst others of the party, for the better securing of his person as a royalist, was forced to fly to the city of York, where, at a house of one George Neusam, then inn-keeper, in a street of the said city, called "Thursday Market," at the sign of the Bull, there was brought a large deal box directed to him, but without any letter or other directions in writing, whatsoever, than what was upon the said box, so that he opened and uncovered it, and upon so doing found it to be full of charters and evidences belonging and concerning the Bishop and See of Durham, amongst which also was placed one certain book which was called and entitled "Liber Ruber," or "the Red Book," a most noted and famous record, which he this defendant doth very well remember, but for discharging himself herein, he saith that he delivered the said deal box as also the said "Red Book" therein corded up again to one Mr. Robert Harrison, without keeping the least scrip or parchment which he found therein; the which said box in truth he had not delivered to him or to anyone else, but that he the said Mr. Harrison brought and showed to him then and there a letter under the hand of the then Lord Bishop intimating that the said defendant should consign them into the hands and trust of him the said Mr. Harrison, he he pretending that he was then to send the said box with the aforesaid muniments to his Lordship then at London, which for anything he knoweth was sent accordingly, from which time to the time of exhibiting of this bill he never heard or knoweth what is become of the same."

It further appears by a schedule made in 1739, "that many of the auditor's rolls were stolen when the office was made a gaol," and I stated in my former report that within living memory valuable Palatinate Records had been used to stop up holes to keep rats and mice out of the muniment rooms, to light fires, and even to make bonfires at a public rejoicing; and during the last 20 years, to use the words of my informant, "barrows full were seen kicking about on the Palace Green, some of which were converted into kites by the boys of the town, and some used by the citizens of Durham for domestic purposes."

Your Lordship will also remember that I reported to you in 1854 that the whole of the proceedings belonging to the county courts, which an Act of Parliament placed in the custody of the Master of the Rolls, had been destroyed, and not a fragment was left to tell of their nature or value.

With these startling facts before you, I am sure your Lordship will feel the absolute necessity of impressing on the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury the urgency of taking immediate steps to rescue the Palatinate Records from further loss and destruction.

It is true that the plunder and spoliation of these records occurred during the time when the Bishops of Durham were the Lords Palatine, and that the disgrace rests solely upon them and their officers; but as the Crown now stands in the place of those prelates, it will be highly discreditable to the nation to allow these curious documents to continue in their present unsatisfactory state, and to fall into further decay through neglect and indifference.

There are two remedies for the evils I have pointed out; the first is to bring all the Palatinate Records, except the "Awards" to which I have already alluded, to London in the same manner as was done with the Welsh Records. The other is, to appoint a keeper of the records of Durham, who shall be properly qualified to arrange and calendar them. The former plan will be considerably the cheaper, and could be done at the cost of about 100*l*. The second would be the most satisfactory to the inhabitants of the Palatinate, but would entail an expense of at least 300 l. a year in salaries to a keeper and his clerk.

Your Lordship has now before you a true statement of the case, and can judge whether Mr. Surtees is justified in bringing this matter under your notice, and whether the records at Durham are properly cared for and protected.

I have not entered into that portion of the complaint made by Mr. Surtees relative to the amount of money he had paid to Mr. Langstaffe, of Gateshead, for procuring the documents which were essential to his case, because it relates wholly to a business transaction between solicitor and client, and very little, if any, of the 5*l*. which Mr. Surtees paid was defrayed in official fees.

I cannot conclude this report without tendering my warm thanks to the various gentlemen connected with the records of Durham for their obliging assistance, but more especially to Mr. John Booth, Mr. Ward, and Mr. Watson. They forwarded my inquiries by all means at their command, when it was in their power to have thwarted me and rendered my visit anything but agreeable to myself.

Enclosure No. 3.

My Lord,

Stockton-on-Tees, 26 July 1867.

THE object of your Lordship's recent correspondence with the Chancellor and Registrar of the County Palatine of Durham respecting certain of the Durham Records was brought under the consideration of the high sheriff, and such of the county magistrates as were attending at the recent Durham assizes as grand jurors, and it was then unanimously agreed to memorialise your Lordship, praying that you would not issue any warrant on the subject in the absence of proper local inquires, both as to the nature of the records, and as to the consequences of their removal, to the public and to those who are in the habit and under the necessity of consulting them.

I have the honour to forward herewith the memorial thus adopted, signed by the High Sheriff, by Sir Hedworth Williamson, the foreman of the grand jury, and by all the other magistrates who attended on the occasion.

I have, &c.

Under Sheriff of the county of Durham.

The Right Hon. the Lord Romilly,
Master of the Rolls, &c. &c. &c.

To the Right Honourable Lord Romilly, Master of the Rolls, &c. &c.

We, being the High Sheriff of, and Justices of the Peace for, the County Palatine of Durham, assembled at the Summer Assizes at Durham,

Humbly show,

THAT we have been informed that your Lordship purposes to issue your warrant to remove certain of the records of this county to London.

That many of these records relate to the ecclesiastical tenures in the county, and to the inclosure of commons in the same, and being from time to time consulted for the purpose of settling disputes between parties interested therein, their removal from the locality would throw great additional costs and obstruction in the way of persons so wishing to consult them.

That the removal of the Durham Records from their various but well-known places of custody would be a serious inconvenience to those who are now engaged in investigating the true history of the Palatinate, and probably altogether put a stop to such inquiries.

We therefore pray your Lordship not to issue any warrant on the subject, in the absence of proper local inquiries, both as to the nature of those records which are removable under the statute, and the consequences of such removal to the public, and to those who are in the habit, and under the necessity, of consulting the Durham Records.

And we shall ever pray, &c.

LETTER from the Right Honourable the Master of the Rolls to the Right Honourable the Earl of Durham.

My Lord,

16 November 1867.

I HAVE the honour to address you as Lord Lieutenant of the County of Durham, respecting the ancient records of that county. Your Lordship is doubtless aware that by statute 6, Will. 4, c. 19, the Palatinate of Durham was transferred from the Bishops of that See and settled on the Crown.

By the "Act for keeping safely the Public Records," 1 & 2 Vict. c. 94, s. 1, the Records of the lately abolished Courts of the Principality of Wales, and Palatinates of Chester and Durham, and of the Isle of Ely, are placed under the charge and superintendence of the Master of the Rolls.

To carry into effect this statute, Mr. Hardy, the present deputy keeper of the public records, went to Durham in July 1854, to survey and report upon the records of that palatinate; but various circumstances, especially the want of a record repository in London to receive the Durham records, prevented further steps being taken in that matter.

My attention however has been recently drawn to the Durham records, as mentioned in my letter to the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury, dated 23 October 1867, of which I enclose a copy for your Lordship's information. In consequence of Mr. Surtees's complaint, I directed Mr. Hardy to proceed to Durham and inquire into the state of the records there. Mr. Hardy has made the report to me, a copy of which I also enclose.

Your Lordship will perceive that I have pointed out to the Treasury that the proper course for me to pursue is to remove these records to London, a suitable repository being ready to receive them; but, before doing so, I informed their Lordships that I wished to know whether, if I allowed the records to remain at Durham,

Printed copy.

Printed copy.
Enclosure, No 2.

Durham, as the High Sheriff and Justices of the Peace seem to desire (see Enclosure 3), the county authorities would undertake to pay an annual salary to a qualified keeper of them at Durham.

The Lords of the Treasury, in reply, have desired me to ascertain whether, if an arrangement be made under which the records might remain at Durham, the county will be prepared to find the funds for a competent record keeper. I therefore have to request your Lordship, in your capacity of Lord Lieutenant of the county, to inform me whether the county will be willing to take upon itself the charge of paying responsible officers.

I am of opinion that the chief officer should be of the position of an assistant keeper of the public records, because no officer without that title is empowered to certify office copies. The salary of an assistant keeper commences at 400 l. per annum, rising to 600 l. He would also require a clerk to assist him. The appointment of such officers would belong to the Treasury, pursuant to the Record Act.

I have therefore to request your Lordship to communicate this letter to the authorities of the county. If they are not prepared to incur this expense, it will then be my duty to issue my warrant for the removal of the Durham Records to London, where they will be rendered properly accessible, free from all fees or charges, to all persons desiring to consult them.

I have directed copies of this letter, and of the enclosures, to be sent to the High Sheriff of the county, to the Under Sheriff, to the Chancellor, to the Registrar, to the Clerk of the Crown, and to the Clerk of the Peace.

The Right Hon. the Earl of Durham,
Lord Lieutenant of the County of Durham,
&c. &c. &c.

I have, &c.

[Price 2d.] [4032]

TO HIS EXCELLENCY JAMES, MARQUIS OF ABERCORN, K.G.

LORD LIEUTENANT-GENERAL AND GENERAL GOVERNOR OF IRELAND,
&c., &c., &c.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY,

I have the honor to transmit, in order that the same may be laid before Parliament, a General Abstract of the number of Births, Deaths, and Marriages registered in Ireland during the year 1867; as required by the 26 Vic., cap. 11, the 26 & 27 Vic., cap. 90, and the 7 & 8 Vic., cap. 81.

The first-mentioned Act provides for the Registration of the Births and Deaths of the entire population,—the second for the Registration of Roman Catholic Marriages,—and the third for the Registration of the Marriages of members of the Protestant community. The two former statutes came into operation on the 1st of January, 1864; the last-mentioned on the 1st of April, 1845.

The Superintendent Registrars' Districts,—which are co-extensive with the 163 Poor Law Unions,—have been grouped into the following eight Divisions:—

No. I. THE NORTH-EASTERN DIVISION.—This division may be topographically described by a line passing southward from Lough Foyle through the Counties of Londonderry, Tyrone, and Armagh, to Lough Bawn, in the County of Monaghan, and thence eastward to Carlingford Lough; the north and east being on the seaboard.

No. II. THE NORTH-WESTERN DIVISION—is bounded on the east by the division just described, from Lough Foyle to a point a little south of Six Mile Cross, in the County of Tyrone, and may be described by a line drawn thence S.W. through the County of Fermanagh to the south of Enniskillen, embracing that portion of the north-west angle of the County of Cavan belonging to the Enniskillen Union, into the County of Leitrim, crossing Lough Allen, thence into the County of Sligo, to a point situated to the southward of the town of Ballymote, and thence extending north to Ballysadare Bay; the remainder of the division is bounded by the sea. It contains Loughs Erne and Derg, and part of Lough Allen, and large portions of it are mountainous.

No. III. THE EASTERN DIVISION—is situated in the provinces of Leinster and Ulster; it extends along the Irish Sea and St. George's Channel, from Warrenspoint, in Carlingford Lough, to the south of Cahore Point, in the County of Wexford, stretching inland about 25 miles, and embracing the Counties of Louth, Dublin, and Wicklow, and portions of the Counties of Carlow, Cavan, Kildare, Meath, and Wexford; together with small portions of the Counties of Armagh and Monaghan.

No. IV. THE NORTH MIDLAND DIVISION—is situated in the provinces of Leinster, Ulster, and Connaught, and extends southward from its junction with the "North-Western" division near Six Mile Cross, in the County of Tyrone, to Tyrrellspass, in the County of Westmeath. Virginia, in the County of Cavan, is situated on its eastern border, and Tulsk, in the County of Roscommon, on its western.

No. V. THE SOUTH MIDLAND DIVISION—situated in the provinces of Leinster and Munster, extends from the Hill of Down, in the County of Meath, southward to Borris, in the County of Carlow. Its southern boundary may be described by a line drawn thence to New Birmingham, in the County of Tipperary, and from that point south to Fethard, in the same County, thence westward to the northern base of the Galty mountains, and in a north-westerly direction, to Pallasgreen, in the County of Limerick. On the east it is bounded by the "Eastern" division, and on the west by the "Western" and the "South-Western" divisions.

No. VI. THE WESTERN DIVISION.—This Division extends southward from Sligo and Killala Bays to the northern bank of the River Shannon, lying westward of Limerick; the extreme points, north and south, being Benwee Head, in the County of Mayo, and Loop Head, in the County of Clare, a distance in or about 120 miles, which, however, does not represent the extent of seaboard, the western coast being indented by numerous bays and inlets. This division has been extended much more inland than the eastern division, as from its exposure to the Atlantic Ocean, and the prevalence of westerly winds (which blow for nearly three-fourths of the year), the climate must be affected for a considerable distance inland; the Unions situated on the extreme east are Boyle, Castlereagh, Glennamaddy, Mountbellew, Ballinasloe, and Portumna.

No. VII. THE SOUTH-EASTERN DIVISION.—This division extends from its junction with the "Eastern" division, southward of Cahore Point, in the County of Wexford, along the eastern and southern coasts to the east of Cork Harbour, and is bounded on the north by the "South Midland" division. It embraces the County of Waterford; nearly the whole of the County of Wexford; parts of the Counties of Carlow, Kilkenny, and Tipperary; that portion of the County of Limerick (38,550 acres) comprised in the Mitchelstown Union, and a portion of the eastern side of Cork County.

No. VIII. THE SOUTH-WESTERN DIVISION—extends along the southern and western coasts from Cork Harbour to the River Shannon, and embraces the County of Kerry, nearly the whole of the Counties of Cork and Limerick, and a small portion of the County of Clare, comprised in the Limerick Union.

The total number of Births given in the following Tables represents a ratio, for the year 1867, of only 1 in every 40·18, or 2·49 per cent. of the population;* and the Deaths afford a ratio of only 1 in every 61·75, or 1·62 per cent. The entire number of Marriages registered gives a ratio of 1 in every 195, or ·51 per cent. of the population*—the number of Roman Catholic marriages (26 and 27 Vic., cap. 90) affording a ratio of only one marriage to every 214 of Roman Catholics;—and the number of Protestant marriages (7 and 8 Vic., cap. 81), a ratio of one in every 147 of Protestants. The final revision of the Numbers for the year 1867 has not yet been completed; they will, therefore, probably be found to differ, in some instances, from the revised Numbers in the detailed Abstracts to be hereafter presented to Parliament with my Fourth Annual Report.

I have the honor to be

Your Excellency's very faithful servant,

WILLIAM DONNELLY,
Registrar-General.

GENERAL REGISTER OFFICE,
Henrietta-street, Dublin, May 16, 1868.

I R E L A N D.

RETURN, so far as could be obtained, of RECORD PUBLICATIONS relating to Ireland, published up to the End of the Year 1866.

— No. 1. —

From Sir J. Bernard Burke, Ulster King of Arms.

Sir,

Record Tower, Dublin Castle, 6 July 1867.

IN reply to your communication of the 14th ultimo, transmitting a Resolution of the House of Commons, dated 3rd June 1867, and directing a Return of all the Record Publications relating to Ireland, published by the late Record and State Paper Commissioners, or under the direction of the Master of the Rolls, up to the end of the year 1866, I beg to send you a statement of the number of the copies of all such publications remaining in store in my charge, but I do not find any entries in my department from which I could ascertain the details required as to the cost, sale, or disposal of those publications. I append, nevertheless, to this letter, a printed list, issued by the King's Printers in 1828, affording some portion of the information sought.

Major General
Sir T. A. Larcom, K. C. B.

I have, &c.
(signed) J. Bernard Burke, Ulster.

STATEMENT of the Number of the Copies of all the RECORD PUBLICATIONS relating to Ireland, published by the late Record and State Paper Commissioners, or under the Direction of the Master of the Rolls, up to the End of the Year 1866, in my charge.

Chartæ, Privilegia, et Immunitates: from 18 Henry II. to 18 Richard II., being the commencement, as it would seem, of a work entitled Acta Regia Hibernica, a kind of Irish "Rymer," undertaken by the Record Commissioners. Folio of 92 pages; 170 copies in sheets.

It is believed that only a few of the first sheets of this work, and those in very small numbers, were ever issued to the public.

Calendar of the Patent and Close Rolls of Chancery, Part I: from 31 Edward I. to 21 Henry VII. Folio of 273 pages, published in 1828 at £.2. 2. 0.; 30 copies, 17 in sheets and 13 in boards.

Calendar of the Patent and Close Rolls of Chancery, Part II: from 5 to 35 Henry VIII. Folio of 32 pages; 96 copies, 92 in sheets and 4 in boards.

Calendar of the Patent Rolls of James I: from 1 to 16 James I. Folio of 372 pages; 68 copies in sheets.

This work is imperfect. The concluding part of this reign to the 22nd year of the King, 224 pages more, was subsequently printed by Alexander Thom for Her Majesty's Stationery Office, but the sheets are not to be found in store here, and it is believed were never delivered into this office.

Inquisitions of Leinster, preserved in Chancery: from Elizabeth to George I. Folio of 314 pages, published in 1826 at £.2. 2. 0.; 11 copies, four in sheets and seven in boards.

Inquisitions of Ulster, preserved in Chancery: from James I. to James II. Folio of 211 pages, published in 1829; 104 copies, 50 in sheets and 54 in boards.

Reports of the Public Record Commissioners:—

Vol. I.—1810 to 1815	-	-	-	2	copies in boards.
Vol. II.—1816 to 1820	-	-	-	2	" "
Vol. III.—1821 to 1825	-	-	-	5	" "
Vol. IV.—1826 to 1827	-	-	-	271	" in paper covers.
11th, 12th, and 13th Reports	-	-	-	300	copies in sheets.

The sheets of several of these printed publications were in disorder when I received them, and this return is the nearest and best I can make. It would take a considerable time to properly sort the sheets so as to give a positive return of the exact number of perfect copies.

J. Bernard Burke, Ulster.

A LIST, together with some Account of the PUBLICATIONS printed under the Authority of HIS MAJESTY'S COMMISSIONERS on the PUBLIC RECORDS of Great Britain and Ireland; distinguishing those of England, Scotland, and Ireland. — [Dublin, November 1828.]

Calendarium Rotulorum Patentium in Turri Londinensi, folio, 1802, boards	1	16	-
Is a Calendar of the principal entries on the Patent Rolls, which contain grants of offices, honours and lands; confirmations of grants to bodies corporate; restitutions of temporalities to bishops, abbots and other ecclesiastical persons; commissions under the great seal, &c., from 3 John, 1201, to 23 Edw. IV. 1483.*
Calendarium Rotulorum Chartarum, et Inquisitionum ad quod Damnum, folio, 1803, boards	2	-	-
The first part of this volume is a Calendar to the Charter Rolls in the Tower, from 1 John, 1199, to 23 Edw. IV. 1483. They contain royal grants of privileges to cities, towns and corporations, grants of markets, fairs and free warrens, together with creations of nobility from the reign of Edw. II.; grants to religious houses, &c. The Inquisitiones ad quod Damnum , to which the second part of this volume is a Calendar, extend from 1 Edw. II. 1307, to 23 Hen. VI. 1450, and were taken when any market, fair, or other peculiar privilege was solicited, to inquire by a jury whether such grant would be injurious to the Crown or to others.
Calendarium Inquisitionum post Mortem, 3 vols. folio, 1806-1821, boards	5	5	-
Vol. 3, separately, folio, 1821, boards	1	15	-
Are Calendars to the Inquisitions, sometimes called ESCHEATS , which were taken on the deaths of individuals, to inquire of what lands they died seized; by what services they were held; whether they were attainted of treason or aliens; the name and age of their heirs; and they are the best evidence which is extant of the descent of families and property. The Calendars are arranged chronologically, and extend from 3 Hen. III. 1218, to 14 Hen. IV. 1413, viz. vol. i. those temp. Hen. III. Edw. I. and II.; vol. ii. temp. Edw. III.; and vol. iv. temp. Rich. II. and Hen. IV.
Catalogue of the Cottonian MSS., folio, 1802, boards	2	10	-
Catalogue of the Harleian MSS., 4 vols. folio, 1808-1812, boards	8	8	-
Indexes to the Harleian Catalogues, being the 4th vol. folio, 1812, boards	2	2	-
Catalogue of the Lansdowne MSS., folio, 1819, boards	2	2	-
These volumes are extensive Indexes to the different collections of manuscripts in the British Museum; and when the importance of the MSS. in question is considered, as materials for history, biography, topography, and indeed for every branch of literature, these admirable Catalogues must be deemed an invaluable acquisition to the library of persons who are desirous of acquiring authentic information.
Domesday Book, 2 vols. folio, 1783, boards	8	8	-
Indexes and Titles, folio, 1811, boards	2	2	-
Vol. 4, and Dissertation, folio, 1816, boards	2	2	-
4 vols. folio, of an uniform size, boards	16	16	-
This, the most ancient record in the kingdom, is the register from which judgment was to be given upon the value, tenure and services of lands therein described, and was made in consequence of a survey ordered by the Conqueror, and completed in 1086. The Exeter Domesday Book relates to the five western counties. The Inquisitio Eliensis is confined to the property of the Monastery of Ely. The Liber Winton , or Winton Domesday Book , was a survey ordered by Henry I. to ascertain what lands were held by Edward the Confessor in Winchester; and was taken between the years 1107 and 1128. The Boldon Book , or Survey of the Palatinate of Durham, was made in 1183, and contains an account of the lands and seigniorial rights of the Bishops of Durham, of the ancient tenures, customs, manners and services; it also affords some highly curious information relative to the manners and habits of the twelfth century, amusements, diet, coin, price of labour, &c., and is valuable as a Supplement to Domesday Book , as materials for a history of Durham, and for exhibiting a general picture of the customs of the time.
Ducatus Lancastriæ. Pars prima Calendarium Inquisit. post Mortem.
Pars secunda, A Calendar to the Pleadings, &c., folio, 1823, boards	1	10	-
The Inquisitions, to which the first part is a Calendar, relate solely to the Duchy of Lancaster, and embrace precisely the same objects as the Calendars of the Inquisitiones post Mortem , before described. They commence 1 Hen. VI. and end 18 Car. I. 1413 to 1642.
The Pleadings, to which the second part is a Calendar, consist of bills, answers, and repositions of surveys in suits exhibited in the Duchy Court, from 1 Hen. VII. 1485 to the present time; but the Calendar does not extend below the reign of Mary.

* These notices of the publications under the Record Commission of Great Britain, are abridged from the account of them in "Notitia Historica; being Tables, Calendars, and Miscellaneous Information, for the use of Historians, Antiquaries, and the Legal Profession. By Nicholas Harris Nicolas, Esq., of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law, F.S.A." 8vo. 1824.

As the title implies, these volumes contain all the public Acts of Parliament to the end of the reign of Queen Anne. From the extraordinary labour and talent bestowed on this edition; from each statute having been copied from the original record; from every public act being inserted, many of which are omitted in the common collections; and from the excellent indexes, this work is of course of the highest importance both to the lawyer and historian.

Taxatio Ecclesiastica Angliæ et Walliæ Auctoritate P. Nicholai IV. circa 1291, folio, 1802, boards

The present volume contains a Repertory to the Inquisitions in the Rolls Office, and comprises the several counties within the Province of Leinster. The Inquisitiones post Mortem, were taken under Commissions directed to the escheators of each Province and others joined with them, finding by the oath of a jury what lands any person died seized of; by what rents and services they were held; and who was the next heir and his age; by all which the right of the Crown to escheat or wardship was ascertained.

N. B.—The Text of the Ulster volume has been printed, and will be published in a volume similar to that of the Repertory of the Leinster Inquisitions as soon as the printing of the Indexes Nominum et Locorum, which is in progress, shall have been completed.

Rotulorum Cancellariæ Calendarium in Hiberniâ, vol. 1, part 1, folio, 1828, boards - - - - -

Upon the rolls, of which this Calendar is an abstract, are to be found grants of lands in fee or otherwise; creation of honours, charters of incorporation, grants of offices, presentations, denizations, wardships, pardons, ancient statutes, king's and queen's letters, and other State documents, with several inquisitions, and many deeds, conveyances, letters of attorney, and chancery proceedings.

N. B.—The first part of the foregoing volume commences with a Patent Roll of the reign of Edward I., being the earliest extant on record, and ends with the reign of Henry VII. The second part of the volume, now at press, will contain the reigns of Henry VIII., Edward VI., Philip and Mary, and Queen Elizabeth. The second volume, which is a continuation of the Calendar, is also at press, and will contain the reign of James I.

Ordered, by The House of Commons, to be Printed,
2 December 1867.

RICHMOND GREEN.

RETURN to an Order of the Honourable The House of Commons,
dated 23 March 1868 ;—for,

COPY “of any REPORT to Her Majesty’s First Commissioner of Works, and the CORRESPONDENCE thereon, with regard to the recent REMOVAL of the ELM TREES on RICHMOND GREEN :”

“And, RETURN of the AMOUNT received for the SALE of the TIMBER.”

Sir,

Richmond Park, 4 February 1868.

I BEG to acquaint you that two elm trees, forming part of the avenue at the Broad Walk on Richmond Green, have been blown down, both of which are unsound; two other trees adjoining have been considerably injured by their fall, which are also unsound, and which is the case with nearly all the others in the avenue, some of which are dangerous; and I think it would be prudent to grub up 13 or 14 of them, and re-plant the avenue.

I beg further to acquaint you that there are four large elm trees by the side of the public road on the little green, very old, the tops of which are dead and dangerous to remove, one particularly so, and which with those in the avenue might be offered for tender as they stand with those in the avenue, and then re-plant.

Alfred Austin, Esq.

I have, &c.
(signed) John Sherratt.

Sir,

Richmond Park, 10 February 1868.

Avenue Broad Walk, Richmond Green.

IN compliance with the First Commissioner’s Minute, attached to my letter to you, dated the 4th instant (herewith returned), I beg to submit the following estimate for re-planting the avenue, at the same time I beg to acquaint you, for the information of his Lordship, that I have not funds in hand sufficient to undertake the work in the current year, and there being no provision for the same in my estimate for the year 1868–9, it will be necessary to insert the amount of the estimated cost of planting in the same, should it be decided upon to re-plant the avenue.

The Broad Walk being 180 yards in length, there will require 30 trees, at 12 yards apart, to plant the same.

30 lime trees, 15 feet high, at 7 s. 6 d. each	11	5	—
Labour, trenching the ground, and planting	5	—	—
30 tree guards, at 12 s. each	18	—	—
£.	34	5	—

The trees now remaining in the avenue can be sold next year as they stand, with the understanding that they be grub-felled, the holes filled up with good soil, and any damage done to the fence of the green, &c., to be made good by the purchaser.

I have selected lime trees, because at the south end of the Broad Walk there commences a row of beautiful lime trees, with which I think the trees in the avenue ought to correspond.

Richmond Little Green.

With respect to the four elm trees on the Little Green, I am of opinion that it will be desirable to remove them at once; if not removed, they should be topped, which is not only an expensive but a very dangerous operation, and which few men would like to undertake.

I beg to enclose an offer I have received from Mr. C. Hampton for the four elms, which I think is a fair price for them, considering the conditions under which he is to remove them.

Alfred Austin, Esq.

I have, &c.
(signed) John Sherratt.

Sir,

Office of Works, &c., S.W., 12 February 1868.

I AM directed by the First Commissioner of Her Majesty's Works, &c., to authorise you to accept the tender of Mr. C. Hampton for the four elms by the side of the public road on the Little Green at Richmond, which you state in your report of the 10th instant, should be forthwith removed.

The purchase money, amounting to 8*l.*, which must be paid to you before the removal of the timber, you are to pay over to Mr. Reeks, the Board's Receiver.

I am to add, that a further communication will shortly be made to you in regard to the planting of lime trees in the Broad Walk Avenue on the Green.

I am, &c.

Secretary.

Mr. Sherratt.

EXTRACT of LETTER from Mr. Sherratt to A. Austin, Esq., dated
19 February 1868.

"I BEG to enclose an offer which I have received from Mr. Charles Hampton, of Richmond Green, for 16 elms now standing on Richmond Green, which he will undertake to grub, and afterwards fill up the holes with good mould.

"As the trees are unsound and not very marketable, and there being no other person in the neighbourhood having sufficient tackle to undertake the work, I am of opinion that Mr. Hampton's offer of 14*l.* should be accepted."

Sir,

Office of Works, &c., 21 February 1868.

I AM directed by the First Commissioner of Her Majesty's Works, &c., to authorise you to accept the tender of Mr. Charles Hampton for the 16 old elm trees on Richmond Green, referred to in your report of the 19th instant. The purchase money, amounting to 14*l.*, which must be paid before the removal of the trees, you are to pay over to Mr. Reeks, the Board's Receiver, and you are to take care that the other conditions of sale are strictly complied with by Mr. Hampton.

I am, &c.
(signed) Alfred Austin,
Secretary.

Mr. Sherratt.

Sir,

29 February 1868.

PERMIT us to call your attention to the clump of trees opposite "Old Palace-terrace," Richmond Green.

Some 10 or 12 years since eight forest trees were planted on a small patch of grass not many yards in circumference; of these seven remain, and have grown so large as to have become a nuisance to the neighbouring houses, inasmuch as they exclude both light and air.

We would respectfully submit to the Commissioners of Woods and Forests, through through you, that if the central tree be permitted to remain and the other six to be taken down, it would be an immense improvement to the green, and a great advantage to the undersigned, who live in the adjacent houses.

We are, &c.

(signed) Frederick Chapman, Surgeon, Old Friars.
Emma Blyth, 4, Old Palace-terrace.
Hanniall Gray, 3, Old Palace-terrace.
Henry Bailey, 2, Old Palace-terrace.
J. F. Sweet, 1, Old Palace-terrace.
W. C. Jellé, 5, Old Palace-terrace.
John Jackson, 6, Old Palace-terrace.
Albert Chancellor, 2, Old Palace-place.

To John Sherratt, Esq.

Sir,

Richmond Park, 5 March 1868.

ENCLOSED I beg to transmit you an application from some of the inhabitants of Old Palace-terrace, Richmond Green, requesting the removal of some trees opposite to the said terrace.

Alfred Austin, Esq.

I have, &c.

(signed) John Sherratt.

Sir,

Richmond Park, 7 March 1868.

IN returning the application of some of the inhabitants of Old Palace-terrace, Richmond Green, for the removal of six trees out of seven, comprising a clump standing near to their residences, I am of opinion that their application ought not to be complied with, because the tree which they recommend to remain has been injured in the trunk, from which it is probable that it will never wholly recover; it has no single leader, but an irregular grown head, and altogether not suited to remain as a single tree. It would be far better, in my opinion, to remove four of the trees, the central tree being one of them, and leave three in an angular position as near as practicable.

I beg to add that there are other inhabitants of the immediate neighbourhood who would not like to see the clump reduced to one tree only.

Geo. Russell, Esq.

I have, &c.

(signed) John Sherratt.

Sir,

10, Pembroke Villas, Richmond,

9 March 1868.

You were so good as to say that you would cause inquiry to be made into the destruction of the trees on Richmond Green.

As regards the walk on this side, I regret to inform you that it is too late; eight out of the number now lying on the ground, are good sound elms, which would have flourished many years, and the timber is more valuable than I should have supposed. The beauty and the pleasure of the walk on this side are destroyed; but we trust that, by your kind interference, further mischief may be stopped. The men are now chopping the branches of the remaining limes and elms opposite Portland Villas, preparatory, as they say, to their removal.

These are also, for the most part, flourishing and ornamental trees.

It is said that even the young elms, planted about 12 to 20 years ago, are doomed, and are to be replaced by saplings; but I have not been able to see anyone in authority to confirm this.

If the other row of trees at Portland Villas is removed, the last vestige of shade will be lost, and the place will be as bald and bare as the Sahara.

There was the less reason for taking down the trees on this side, as besides being sound, they were far removed from the houses, and could be no cause of danger, even if they had been infirm.

Pray use your kind offices on our behalf.

Geo. Russell, Esq.

Yours, &c.

Rev. Sir,

Office of Works, &c., 10 March 1868.

I AM directed by the First Commissioners of Her Majesty's Works, &c., to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of yesterday's date, on the subject of the trees on Richmond Green, and to state that inquiries shall be forthwith made into the matter.

Assistant Secretary.

The Rev. G. F. Goddard.

Sir,

Office of Works, &c., 10 March 1868.

I AM directed by the First Commissioner of Her Majesty's Works, &c., to authorise you to remove the four trees on Richmond Green, opposite Old Palace-terrace, suggested in your report of the 7th instant. You are to invite tenders for the purchase of the timber, and transmit them to this office.

I am, &c.
(signed) George Russell,
Assistant Secretary.

Mr. Sherratt.

Sir,

Office of Works, &c., 10 March 1868.

MR. SHERRATT having forwarded to this Board the application made by you and other inhabitants of Old Palace-terrace, Richmond, for the removal of six out of seven trees on the green opposite your houses, I am directed by the First Commissioner of Her Majesty's Works to acquaint you, for the information of the other applicants, that he has considered the matter, and given instructions for the removal of four of the trees in the clump referred to, including the centre tree, which besides being unsuited, from its unornamental growth, to stand by itself, has received injury in the trunk, from the effects of which it is probable that it will never wholly recover.

I am, &c.
(signed) George Russell,
Assistant Secretary.

F. Chapman, Esq.

Sir,

Richmond Park, 11 March 1868.

IN reporting upon Mr. G. F. Goddard's letter (herewith returned), respecting the removal of the trees in the avenue on Richmond Green, I beg to acquaint you that nothing more has been done than I have received authority for.

Mr. Goddard writes "that the men are now chopping the branches of the remaining limes and elms opposite Portland Villas, preparatory, they say, to their removal." The fact is, that the men are doing that which is done every spring; viz., cutting out dead wood, and dislodging any that is suspended between the branches and liable to fall. He also writes, "It is said that even the young elms planted about 12 to 20 years ago are doomed, &c.; but I have not been able to see any one in authority to confirm this."

With the exception of one day, I have been on the green twice daily during the whole time the work has been in progress.

And in the last paragraph of his letter he says, "There was the less reason for taking down the trees on this side, as, besides being sound, they were far removed from the houses, and would be no cause of danger even if they had been infirm."

As to the soundness of the timber, there was but one tree perfectly so; and although although there was not any cause to apprehend any danger to the houses, yet there was much to fear, particularly about Midsummer, when the sap is so powerful, and when the avenue and green are crowded with children.

Geo. Russell, Esq.

I am, &c.
(signed) John Sherratt.

My Lord,

Richmond, 12 March 1868.

SEEING the improvements going on on the north side of Richmond Green by the cutting down of the old and dangerous trees, we beg respectfully to ask your Lordship to give instructions for the removal of an isolated lime tree standing at the corner of Friar's-lane, close to Queensbury Cottage and Tudor Lodge, in the occupation of the undersigned; it is within six feet of Queensbury Cottage, and only the width of the narrow road from Tudor Lodge; we consider it a very great nuisance, and highly dangerous in high winds. We trust that your Lordship will give this your kind consideration.

The First Commissioner of Works, &c.

We are, &c.
(signed) Edward H. Hills, Surgeon.
Alfred Carman, Builder.

Richmond Park, 16 March 1868.

IN compliance with your Minute on Messrs. Hills' and Carman's application (herewith returned) for the removal of a tree on Richmond Green near to their residences, I beg to offer the following observations. The tree, a lime of large growth, with a nice ornamental head, and growing to the height of above 70 feet, stands about 40 feet from Queensbury Cottage, and six feet from the garden fence in front thereof, and also about 40 feet from Mr. Hill's surgery. Mr. Carman complains that the tree excludes a considerable portion of light from his house, and he fears that some time it may blow down and smash in his windows; he also complains of offences, nuisances being committed under it. The only complaint that Mr. Hills makes is the danger to be apprehended from its falling upon his buildings, of which I believe there is no immediate danger.

George Russell, Esq.

Gentlemen,

Office of Works, &c., 19 March 1868.

I AM directed by the First Commissioner of Her Majesty's Works, &c., to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 12th instant, in which you request that a large lime tree on that part of Richmond Green near to your residences may be cut down; and I am, in reply, to state that the First Commissioner has made inquiries as to the condition and position of the tree in question; and that he is not prepared to order its removal.

Messrs. E. H. Hills and A. Carman.

I am, &c.
(signed) George Russell,
Assistant Secretary.

Sir,

Office of Works, 19 March 1868.

I AM directed by the First Commissioner of Her Majesty's Works, &c., to acquaint you that, under the circumstances stated in your report of the 16th instant, Messrs. Hills and Carman have been informed that the lime tree on Richmond Green, near their residences, cannot be removed.

6 CORRESPONDENCE:—ELM TREES ON RICHMOND GREEN.

I am, at the same time, to instruct you to keep a proper look-out as to the soundness of the tree.

Mr. Sherratt.

Sir,

Office of Works, &c., 6 January 1868.

THE attention of the First Commissioner of Her Majesty’s Works, &c., having been called to a notice signed by you as secretary of the “Clarence Roads Company, Limited,” and placed at the end of Clarence-lane, Richmond Park, I am directed to request that you will be good enough to inform him how, and by what authority, and for what purpose, the Company has been constituted; and how, and from whom, they have acquired any right to stop up the roads referred to, and to what purpose they propose appropriating the sites of such roads.

I am, at the same time, to state that if the Company have issued any printed prospectus, the First Commissioner will be obliged by your furnishing him with a copy of it.

C. C. Rogers, Esq., to Alfred Austin, Esq.

The Clarence Roads Company, Limited,
6½ Austin Friars, London, E. C.,
10 January 1868.

Sir,

REFERRING to your letter of the 6th instant, as to the Clarence Roads Company, Limited, inquiring how, and by what authority, and for what purpose, the Company has been constituted, I am requested by the Directors to forward you herewith a print of the Memorandum and Articles of Association of the Company, which furnish full information on these points, and to state that the Company have not issued any prospectus.

With respect to the other inquiry, how and from whom the Company have acquired the right to stop up the roads, I am requested to inform you that the roads are the private property of Mrs. Prescott, of Clarence, Roehampton; that she has contracted to sell the roads to the Company, but remains in possession until the purchase is finally completed, and that in the meantime she is under contract with the Company to close the roads to the extent mentioned in the notice referred to in your letter.

As to the remaining inquiry, to what purpose the Company propose appropriating the sites of the roads, I am requested to state that, pending the completion of the purchase, the directors of the Company have not come to any determination on this point; but the object of the promoters and of the Company was, and is, to prevent the closing of an important means of access to Richmond Park, which, but for the contract entered into by the Company, would have been closed to the general public, the proprietor (as the promoters of the Company were informed) declining any longer to incur the expense of keeping up the roads, or, on the other hand, the loss involved in devoting valuable property to the public use.

Alfred Austin, Esq.

I am, &c.

Enclosure in No. 2.

"The Companies Act, 1862."

Company Limited by Shares.

MEMORANDUM of ASSOCIATION of the CLARENCE ROADS COMPANY, LIMITED.

1st. The Name of the Company is the Clarence Roads Company, Limited.

2nd. The Registered Office of the Company will be situate in England.

3rd. The objects for which the Company is established are the following:—

(a) To acquire the fee simple of the private roads known as Clarence Lanes, at Roehampton, in the County of Surrey, leading from Barnes Common and Roehampton Lane respectively to Paget's Gate, otherwise the Roehampton Gate, of Richmond Park, in the same county, together with the lodges, gates, and fences thereto belonging, and the unoccupied land on the sides of the said roads.

(b) For this purpose to adopt and take over a certain agreement for purchase of the roads dated the 3rd day of August 1867, and made between Arabella Prescott, of Clarence, Roehampton, in the county of Surrey, widow, the vendor, of the one part, and Edward Parker Wolstenholme, of Lincoln's Inn, in the County of Middlesex, barrister-at-law, therein described as the purchaser, on behalf of himself and the other promoters of a company to be called "The Clarence Roads Company, Limited," of the other part, being an agreement for the sale by the said Arabella Prescott of the said roads, lands, and premises, for the price of Four Thousand Pounds, to be paid as to part in cash and as to the residue in cash or shares of the Company at the option of the Company.

(c) To complete the purchase of the roads, lands, and premises under the before-mentioned agreement, and to perform and observe all the terms of such agreement.

(d) To sell, demise, grant, or otherwise dispose of the said roads, land, and premises (when acquired), or any part thereof, or any rights or interests therein or privileges annexed thereto; to grant licences for the user thereof; to build upon the unoccupied land; and generally to dispose of and deal with the roads, land, and premises, or use or allow the same to be used in any lawful manner.

4th. The liability of the members is limited.

5th. The capital of the Company is Five Thousand Pounds, divided into One Hundred Shares of Fifty Pounds each.

We, the several persons whose names and addresses are subscribed, are desirous of being formed into a Company, in pursuance of this memorandum of association, and we respectively respectively agree to take the number of shares in the capital of the Company set opposite our respective names.

Certificate of Incorporation, dated the 6th day of August 1867.

"The Companies Act, 1862."

Company limited by Shares.

ARTICLES of ASSOCIATION of the CLARENCE ROADS COMPANY (LIMITED).

It is agreed as follows:—

1. All the regulations contained in the Table marked (A.) in the First Schedule to "The Companies Act, 1862," so far as the same are applicable and are not hereby excluded or modified, shall apply to this Company.

Shares.

2. The capital of the Company is 5,000*l.*, divided into 100 shares of 50*l.* each.

3. The shares shall be allotted to such persons and in such manner as the directors shall in their absolute discretion think fit.

4. Regulations 4, 5, 6, and 7 in Table (A.) shall not apply.

5. An application for shares and an allotment pursuant thereto, whether communicated to the applicant or not, shall form a binding contract by the applicant to take the shares allotted to him.

6. The full amount payable on shares allotted shall be paid by the allottee within 10 days days after notice to him of allotment, and of the bank into which the amount is to be paid, and if not paid within 30 days shall carry interest at 5 l. per cent. per annum until payment.

7. The Company may carry on its business notwithstanding the whole of the shares may not have been subscribed for or allotted.

8. Fully paid-up shares taken in payment for land or for money due from the Company shall for all purposes be considered as shares on which the whole amount due has been paid in cash; and no holder of any such share shall in respect thereof be liable to pay any further sum thereon.

9. Not more than one person shall be registered as owner of any share.

10. No shareholder shall transfer his share except to a person approved by the directors in writing. The person in whose name any share of the Company shall be held or stand shall, to all intents and purposes, be deemed at law and in equity the absolute, sole, and beneficial owner and proprietor of the said share, and shall, as such, be the only person known to or recognised by the Company in all votes, transfers, notices, payments, receipts, and other matters relating to the same shares; and the Company shall not in any case be bound to notice or be affected by or with express notice of any trust or equitable charge or lien imposed or intended or expressed to be imposed on any such shares.

11. Every instrument of transfer must be left at the office of the Company to be registered, accompanied with such evidence as the directors may require; and when the transferee shall have been approved of as aforesaid, the directors shall register him as a member.

12. There shall be paid to the Company upon every occasion of the transfer of a share such sum of money per share, not exceeding 5 s., as the directors may from time to time prescribe, and the directors shall not be bound to register the said transfer till the said sum is paid.

Forfeiture of Shares.

13. The articles 17, 18, 19, 21, and 22, in Table A. aforesaid, shall not apply.

14. If any member fails to pay the full sum of 50 l. on any share allotted to him within 30 days after allotment, such share may be forfeited at the absolute discretion of the directors.

15. An entry in the minute book of the proceedings of the directors that any share has been forfeited shall be conclusive evidence of the fact.

Conversion of Shares into Stock.

16. Articles 23, 24, and 25 of Table A. shall not apply.

Borrowing Powers.

17. The directors may borrow on mortgage of the property of the Company any sum authorised by an extraordinary general meeting, and may affix the seal of the Company to the mortgage.

General Meetings.

18. The number of members to make the requisition contemplated by Article 32 of Table A. aforesaid shall be 1-20th at the least, instead of one-fifth at the least.

Proceedings at General Meetings.

19. Articles 36 and 37 of Table A. aforesaid shall be deemed to be varied as follows:—

20. It shall be competent for every ordinary meeting to transact all business in relation to the election and appointment of directors and auditors of the Company's accounts, and balance sheet of the company, and reports of directors or auditors, and all business arising thereout or thereupon, and it shall not be necessary to give previous notice of the intention to transact any such business.

21. The quorum for all general meetings, whether ordinary or extraordinary, shall be five in all cases.

Votes of Members.

22. The instrument appointing a proxy may be in the form prescribed by Article 51 in Table A. aforesaid, or in any form authorised by the directors.

Directors.

23. Any shareholder may be a director.

24. Any director of the Company may by notice in writing to the secretary, or left for him at the office of the Company, resign his office of director, and the vacancy thereby occurring shall be deemed a casual vacancy.

LEADING TO ROEHAMPTON GATE OF RICHMOND PARK. 5

25. In the absence of any regulation for the time being of the directors to the contrary any two directors shall form a quorum for the transaction of business.

26. The directors shall cause minutes to be made in books provided for the purpose of all matters transacted by them in reference to the affairs of the Company.

27. Any such minutes as aforesaid, if signed by a director of the Company, shall be receivable in evidence without further proof.

28. The directors shall have full power to carry out the objects of the Company mentioned in the memorandum of association as they shall in their absolute discretion think fit, and shall, out of the funds of the Company, pay all costs, charges, and expenses incurred or to be incurred in reference to the investigation of the title to the said roads, lands, and premises, the contract for sale thereof, and otherwise of or incidental to the purchase of the said roads, lands, and premises.

29. The directors may commence carrying on the business of the Company as soon as they may consider that a sufficient amount of the share capital has been subscribed.

30. Every director, secretary, auditor, and other officer, and his heirs, executors, and administrators, shall be indemnified out of the funds or property of the Company from all losses and expenses incurred by him respectively in or about the discharge of his duties, except such as happen from his own wilful act or defaults.

31. Messrs. Barnes & Bernard shall be the first solicitors of the Company, removable at the pleasure of the directors.

Auditor and Audit of Account.

32. Any casual vacancy in the office of an auditor may be supplied by the directors, but the auditor so appointed shall quit office at the Company's ordinary meeting next succeeding his appointment, and it shall not be necessary to call an extraordinary general meeting of the Company for the purpose of supplying a casual vacancy.

Alfred Austin, Esq., to C. C. Rogers, Esq.

Sir,

Office of Works, &c., 29 January 1868.

I AM directed by the First Commissioner of Her Majesty's Works, &c., to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 10th instant, on the subject of the Clarence Roads; I am to state that the First Commissioner observed with gratification the paragraph, in which you state that "the object of the promoters moters of the company was and is to prevent the closing of an important means of access to Richmond Park, which, but for the contract entered into by the Company, would have been closed to the general public."

I am to inform you that if the Company's object be to keep these roads open for the use of the general public, the First Commissioner will be well disposed to give every facility in his power for effecting it. If, however, their object be to acquire the fee simple of the site of the roads in question for the purpose of exacting a pecuniary or other benefit to themselves and a privileged few, and to the exclusion of the general public, the First Commissioner will feel it to be his duty to recommend that, on an attempt to do so, the Roehampton Gate of the Park should be absolutely closed, as in such a case any permission to keep it open would merely be for the advantage of the Company and their Licensees.

C. C. Rogers, Esq.

I am, &c.

— No. 4. —

C. C. Rogers, Esq., to Alfred Austin, Esq.

Sir,

64, Austin Friars, London,
14 February 1868.

I HAVE laid before the directors of this Company your letter of the 29th January, and have received their instructions on it.

It appears to the directors that your letter is founded on some misapprehension of the circumstances of the case; the soil of the roads is private property, and with the exception of certain residents whose grounds abut on the roads, no person has a right to pass along the roads with horse or carriage, without the permission of the proprietor of the soil. This permission the proprietor for the time being has been in the habit of giving to members of the Royal Family, and to the residents in houses the property of the Crown in Richmond Park. In return an honorary acknowledgment in the form of the gift of a buck and doe yearly out of Richmond Park has been made by the Crown to the proprietor. Permission to use the roads was also formerly given by the proprietor to persons applying for it on the ground of residence in the neighbourhood, or other ground, if they were known or had an introduction to him.

In the year 1864 the then First Commissioner sought to procure the opening of the roads to all persons on horseback, and the subject was discussed in Parliament, but no proposition was made for purchasing the soil, or any rights over it for the use of the public. Much annoyance resulted to the proprietor from these proceedings, caused by (among other things) the necessity either of refusing a largely-increased number of applications for permission to use the roads, or of incurring the expense and inconvenience attendant on very considerable traffic.

To avoid all further trouble and expense, it was ultimately determined (as the directors are informed) to give no more permissions, and to withdraw those already given, except the permission to members of the Royal Family and residents in the park.

This determination led to the formation of the Company. The object of the promoters was not pecuniary profit. Their object was, and is, through the machinery of a company, to enable any residents in the neighbourhood, or others who might desire it, to secure this means of access to Richmond Park. The First Commissioner will readily understand that the promoters could not undertake at their own expense the acquisition of valuable property for the benefit of others. It is therefore a necessary part of their plan that those who use the roads should contribute to the cost of purchase and maintenance.

The intimation conveyed by your letter of the possibility of the park gate being absolutely closed by the authority of the First Commissioner (the right so to close the gate not being a question at present under discussion) does not take the Directors by surprise, nor can it have the effect of inducing them to deviate from the line of action they have adopted.

The consequences of the closing of the park gate have been fully considered by them, independently of this correspondence; those consequences may not have occurred to the First Commissioner, but they are as follows:

1. Neither the proprietor nor the existing shareholders in the Company will suffer any pecuniary loss.

2. On the contrary, in consequence by the closing of the thoroughfare, the site of the roads can to some extent be utilised in other ways, and will thus be increased in value to the proprietor, while little or no expense will be incurred for maintenance or management.

3. The members of the Royal Family, the residents in the park, as well other residents in the neighbourhood, and all other persons will be permanently deprived of the use of the roads. Even if the park gate remains open, yet should the immediate object aimed at by this Company be frustrated, the original determination of the proprietor to withhold all permission to use the roads will (as the Directors are informed) be adhered to.

From what I have stated, the First Commissioner will see that the question how the roads may be best turned to advantage with reference to the park gate involves considerable difficulty. If the First Commissioner is prepared to make any proposition which the Directors can reasonably be expected to entertain, having for its object the solution of this question, the Directors will be disposed to give it every consideration.

I am instructed to add that the Directors hold themselves at liberty to publish this correspondence, or to deal with it otherwise as they may be advised.

Alfred Austin, Esq.

I am, &c.

— No. 5. —

Alfred Austin, Esq., to C. C. Rogers, Esq.

Sir,

Office of Works, &c., 18 February 1868.

I AM directed by the First Commissioner of Her Majesty's Works, &c., to acknowledge the receipt at this office, yesterday, of your letter, dated the 14th instant, further on the subject of Clarence Roads, Roehampton. The First Commissioner regrets to find that the paragraph in your letter of the 10th ult., stating that "the object of the promoters of the Company was and is to prevent the closing of an important means of access to Richmond Park, which, but for the contract entered into by the Company, would have been closed to the general public," was not intended to bear the construction which he naturally put on it in his letter to you of the 29th ult., and that by the term "general public," the Directors meant merely themselves, members of the Royal Family, and such other persons as they might be disposed or induced to favour.

Under these circumstances the First Commissioner feels it to be his duty to inquire the nature of the arrangements by which, in the event of the Crown being advised to keep open the Roehampton Gate, access to the park for a limited section of the community will be secured, and the general public excluded.

Sir,

Clarence Roads Company, Limited,
6½, Austin Friars, E.C., 22 February 1868.

I AM directed by the Directors of this Company to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 18th instant.

The Directors have some difficulty in understanding precisely the terms of the inquiry contained in the last paragraph of that letter, but it appears to them that the First Commissioner intends to ask generally what arrangements will be made for granting permission to use the roads. When the time comes for making these arrangements they will be submitted to and decided upon by a meeting of the shareholders. Till then the Directors will not know, and therefore cannot state, the nature of these arrangements; but the principle on which the promoters have acted throughout has been, that all persons who use the roads should contribute to the expenses of purchase and maintenance.

With reference to the first paragraph of your letter, where you intimate that the Directors mean to confine the use of the roads to "merely themselves, members of the Royal Family, and such other persons as they might be disposed or induced to favour," I am desired to observe that these words were not used by the Directors, and do not fairly represent their meaning.

I am requested by the Directors to repeat, that if the First Commissioner is prepared to make any proposition which they can reasonably be expected to entertain, it will receive from them every consideration. If the First Commissioner is not prepared with any proposition, the Directors do not see that any benefit can accrue from a continuance of the correspondence.

THAMES RIVER.

RETURN to an Order of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 26 November 1867;—for,

COPIES “of CORRESPONDENCE between the Thames Conservancy Board and the Metropolitan Board of Works, relative to the formation of certain DEPOSITS of MUD near the OUTFALL of the MAIN DRAINAGE SEWERS :”

“And, of any REPORTS made by their ENGINEERS to the said Boards and by Dr. Letheby on the same subject.”

The Secretary to the Thames Conservancy Board to the Clerk to the Metropolitan Board of Works.

Sir,

25 June 1867.

I AM directed by the Conservators of the River Thames to enclose copies of two reports which they have received from their engineer of the formation of extensive shoals in the River Thames, outside the main drainage outfalls near Barking Creek and Crossness; also copies of plans and sections that have been made from surveys in 1861 and 1867, which show the extent to which the deposit of material from the sewer outlets has taken place on the bed of the river.

The Conservators have sent specimens of the material taken from the river to Dr. Letheby for analysis, and subjoined is that gentleman's report thereon.

I am to request that you will be pleased to bring this subject to the notice of the Metropolitan Board of Works, as the existence and formation of shoals in the above-mentioned parts of the river, being most prejudicial to the navigation, cannot be permitted, and every effort should be made to avert the disastrous effects anticipated by Dr. Letheby.

J. Pollard, Esq.,
Metropolitan Board of Works.

(signed) E. Burstal, Secretary.

Mr. S. W. Leach to the Conservators of the River Thames.

Gentlemen,

10 June 1867.

IN obedience to your order I have had a survey made of the river near the great Northern and Southern Sewer Outfalls in Galleons and Halfway Reaches, to ascertain the extent of the deposit of mud which has been observed to occur near both of these places. I submit plans of these surveys for your inspection. On the northern plan I have had marked the corresponding depths of water observed in the year 1861, before these outfalls came into operation. The comparison of the two will show that the deposit of mud has been already very extensive.

Near the Southern Outfall it will be noticed that this deposit has occurred to the greatest extent on the lower side, where a depth of fully seven feet has been discovered: in front of and above these works there is also a considerable increase.

Near the Northern Outfall the greatest accumulation appears to be on the upper side, and near the “Talbot” gunpowder hulk, which is about 2,000 feet above the point of delivery. It will be noticed that in several places a depth of seven feet has formed. It would create no surprise to those acquainted with this part of the river that mud poured in at this spot should have a tendency, as it always has had, to deposit. But it is remarkable that the greatest accumulation has occurred some distance from the outfall on the upper side, and the character of the mud shows clearly enough whence it has come. It has always been put forth as a part of the main drainage scheme, that the discharge of the sewage would be so managed, with reference to the flowing tide, that it should not be carried up the stream. The deposit, occurring where it has, seems to show that the practice which has been observed of running out the contents of the sewers late in the ebb, and early in the flood tide, must have been adopted to a considerable extent.

On the lower side of this outfall there is more of an appearance than there was formerly of the deposit of small shingle. If this comes from the sewers, as it probably does, the absence of mud is to be accounted for by the operation of the ebb tide and south-westerly winds, the former acting, no doubt, more freely from the removal of a considerable part of the shoal off Margaretness.

Although these surveys embrace an extensive portion of the river, I have reason to believe that, if they were carried further, the deposit of mud would still be traceable, and I therefore propose to extend the survey accordingly.

I have, &c.

Mr. S. W. Leach to the Conservators of the River Thames.

Gentlemen,

17 June 1867.

SINCE my report of the 10th instant on the deposit which has occurred in the river near the main drainage outfalls, I have had the survey carried lower down, and as it has proceeded the mud has still been met with. At about 1,000 yards below the Southern Outfall the deposit takes a diagonal direction towards the northern side, along which it has been traced for nearly 1,000 yards, varying in depth to an extreme of five feet. I believe it would be found still lower down if the survey were extended, though to a gradually decreasing amount.

The result of the survey shows that near the Northern Outfall a space of more than 40 acres, and near the Southern Outfall of about 120 acres, of the bed of the river, has been covered by a deposit varying in depth down to seven feet.

I have, &c.

College Laboratory, London Hospital,
24 June 1867.

Dear Sir,

I HAVE to report to you the result of the examination of the three samples of mud which you sent for analysis.

The samples were contained in brown earthenware pots, and were labelled as follows:—

No. 1. Southern Outfall.

No. 2. Southern Outfall.

No. 3. Northern Outfall.

The mud in each case was black and fœtid, and in a state of active putrefactive decomposition.

When examined with the microscope it was found to consist of broken up sewage matter, with the remains of myriads of animalcules, and a large quantity of carbonate of lime in a partly crystalline state. It also contained the usual amorphous matter (ferruginous clay) which gives turbidity to the lower water of the Thames.

The

DEPOSITS OF MUD IN THE RIVER THAMES.

The proportions of moisture in the several samples were as follows :—

- No. 1. Southern Outfall mud, 53 per cent.
- No. 2. Southern Outfall mud, 52 "
- No. 3. Northern Outfall mud, 61 "

And the amount of organic matter in the well-dried mud ranged from 14·49 to 15·5 per cent. These are in excess of the proportions natural to the mud of the river in those localities; for in the year 1858 when I examined the suspended matter in the water of the river for the engineers (Messrs. Bidder, Hawksley and Bazalgette), who reported to the Metropolitan Board of Works on the main drainage of the metropolis, I found that the following were the proportions of organic matter in mud suspended in the river water between Higham Creek and Barking Point; and for comparison I have added the proportions of organic and mineral matter in the three samples of mud sent to me from the outfalls.

Per-centage Proportions of Organic and Mineral Matter in the Dried Mud.

	Organic.	Mineral.
Suspended Matter in the Thames at Higham Creek (1858) - - -	13·64	86·36
Ditto - - - ditto - - - Tilbury - - - " - - -	8·09	91·91
Ditto - - - ditto - - - Greenhithe - - - " - - -	7·89	92·11
Ditto - - - ditto - - - Rainham Creek - - - " - - -	10·11	89·89
Ditto - - - ditto - - - Barking Point - - - " - - -	8·07	91·93
Average of the above - - -	9·56	90·44
No. 1.—Sample of Mud from Southern Outfall (1867) - - -	14·49	85·51
No. 2.—Ditto - - - ditto - - - ditto - - - " - - -	15·01	84·99
No. 3.—Ditto - - - ditto, Northern Outfall - - - " - - -	15·50	84·50

It is evident from this, as well as from what I know of the usual composition of the warp or mud of rivers, that this is a very large proportion of organic matter, and that by undergoing putrefactive decomposition the mud which is accumulating in such large quantities at the sewer outfalls may be a cause for serious alarm, especially as it there meets with sea water, the sulphates of which may by their chemical decomposition by the putrefying mud, occasion the escape of much sulphuretted hydrogen, and set up that remarkably offensive change which is characteristic of the action of sewage upon sea water.

Lastly, I may state that the presence of an unusually large amount of carbonate of lime in a crystalline condition, in the mud especially of that of the Northern Outfall, is evidence that the alkaline constituents of the sewage are decomposing and precipitating the calcareous constituents of the water, and thus adding to the bulk of the deposit.

To Captain Burstal.

The Clerk to the Metropolitan Board of Works to the Secretary to the Thames Conservancy Board.

Metropolitan Board of Works, Spring Gardens, S.W.
11 November 1867.

Sir,
I AM directed by the Metropolitan Board of Works to acquaint you that they have given much attention to the letters addressed to this Board by the Conservancy servancy Board, on the subject of shoals said to have been created or added to, by the outfall works of this Board in the River Thames.

This Board has found it difficult to form a correct opinion as to the extent of deposit added to the river, in consequence of the absence of soundings taken and registered at regular intervals by the Conservators, but this probably in the view the Board takes of the matter, it is perhaps not needful at the present moment to dwell more upon.

The view taken by this Board, after having the statutes carefully looked to, is this, that the Board has done all that it can or is authorised to do. They have in obedience to the Acts of 1855 and 1858, constructed the lines of works, with the outfalls, and the Thames Conservancy and the Admiralty saw and approved the plans submitted by the Board. These plans having been carried out, it seems to the Board that the duty of the Conservancy Board is to remove all shoals and obstructions which may exist, and referring to the Acts relating to the Conservancy of the Thames, and especially that of 1857, it appears to the Board that the powers of the Thames Conservancy are very clearly pointed out, and the Board can make no other suggestion to the Conservators than to invite them to give effect to the Acts referred to in the way they may deem best, as regards the removal of any deposit or shoals which may exist to the prejudice of the River.

I am, &c.

REPORT of Mr. J. W. Bazalgette.

METROPOLITAN BOARD OF WORKS.

Engineer's Department, Spring Gardens, S.W.,
21 October 1867.

ON Letter from the Conservators of the River Thames, dated 25th June last, enclosing copies of Reports, with Plans and Sections by their Engineer, upon the formation of Shoals in the River Thames, near to the Metropolitan Main Drainage Outfalls, between the Years 1860-7, and requesting the attention of this Board thereto.

It appears from the surveys made by the Thames Conservators between the years 1860-7, that deposit has taken place on the north side of the river for a length of about a quarter of a mile, at a distance of about a quarter of a mile above the Northern Outfall; and that from a quarter of a mile above the Crossness Outlet to one mile below it, deposit has settled near to the centre of the river.

We find from the documents furnished to us that, between the periods named, alterations have occurred in the depth of the channel of the river at various points. In some places it has become deeper, and in others shallower; and, estimating as nearly as the documents will admit, which is only approximately, it appears that—

					Cubic yards.
The increase is about	-	-	-	-	800,000
And the decrease	-	-	-	-	400,000
Leaving a total increase of about					400,000

The Northern Main Drainage Outfall did not begin to discharge at Barking until July 1863, and was permanently opened in August 1864. The Southern Outfall began partially to discharge at Crossness in May 1864, and was opened permanently in April 1865.

No information is given as to what deposit or scouring has taken place between Barking and Crossness, nor as to how much of the deposit has accumulated between the years 1861-4, nor as to what has been the average rate of accumulation in the river prior to and since that date. It is, however, a well-known fact that

that the point on the north side of the river half a mile above Barking Creek was always subject to accumulations of mud prior to the opening of the main drainage works; and on both sides of the river the mud banks, known as the "Saltings," are rapidly washing into the stream by the action of the tide and steamboat traffic; and from Woolwich downwards the authorities of the Royal Dockyard have recently, by means of a newly-invented mud distributor, been washing the deposit which has accumulated in their docks into the river.

These circumstances lead to the inference that the accumulations shown upon the Conservators' sections cannot be fairly attributed entirely to the main drainage outfalls; and in order to test that point, a very careful set of sections was made by the Board's surveyors in the summer of 1864, continuously from a point about a quarter of a mile above Barking Creek to below Crossness, and another set of sections has been recently taken over the same ground, this being the locality which would seem most likely to collect deposit, if any, from the drainage outfalls. It should be observed that, inasmuch as the Conservators have not furnished us with sections over the same ground, the sections can only in a few instances be compared with each other; and further, that from such drawings approximate quantities only can be calculated; but between the points surveyed by the Board, a length of about $2\frac{3}{4}$ miles, it would appear that—

	Cubic yards.
The deposit had increased in some places between the years 1864-7 to the extent of - - - -	983,000
And in others had decreased about - - - -	923,000
Leaving a total increase of about - - - -	60,000

Or, in point of fact, that alterations have taken place in the bed of the river, but that there has been only a very small increase in the total quantity of deposit.

The fact, moreover, should not be lost sight of, that prior to 1864, the metropolitan sewers discharged into the river at various points a large amount of deposit above as well as below London Bridge, which rested upon its banks, and that since that date such deposit has been removed therefrom; and the river has been thus considerably relieved.

The subject is a complicated one, as there is much difficulty at arriving at the facts, particularly with regard to a river in the bed of which constant changes are occurring which cannot be explained; and as this Board would desire, equally with the Thames Conservators, to adopt any practical measures which could be suggested to prevent such accumulations hereafter, I recommend that a conference should take place between this Board and the Thames Conservators, in order to discuss the subject together, and that hereafter careful sections should be taken every second or third year between points to be agreed upon by the Conservancy and this Board; but, with the present information, I think the Board cannot admit that the accumulations are due to their works, or that there is any liability on their part to remove the deposit.

27 July 1867.

Déar Sir,

I BEG to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of yesterday's date, applying for the Company's half-yearly payment of 500 l., which shall be laid before the next Board.

It would afford the directors much satisfaction to be informed what proceedings (if any) have been taken by the Thames Conservancy to carry out the provisions of the Thames Navigation Act, 1866, for purifying the river, for which these contributions of water companies are paid. Will you be good enough to favour me with some information on this subject?

I remain, &c.

Secretary.

Captain Burstal, R.N.,
Secretary, &c., Thames Conservancy.

The Secretary to the Thames Conservancy Board to the Secretary to the West Middlesex Water Company.

Sir,

Thames Conservancy, 3 August 1867.

IN reply to the inquiry contained in your letter of the 27th ultimo, I beg to inform you that the Conservators have, with a view to preserving from impurity the waters of the Thames above the point of the water supply, provided a steam-tug to pass up and down the river, and remove any objectionable substance which may be observed. They have also given instructions to all the lock-keepers and other persons in their employ to the same effect.

Notices have been served under the Thames Navigation Act, 1866, for the removal of all sewers above Staines, and the same course will shortly be adopted for drains below that town.

W. H. Whiffin, Esq.,
West Middlesex Water Company,
19, Marylebone-road.

I am, &c.
(signed) E. Burstal,
Secretary.

MEASURES taken by the Conservators for Scavenging the River.

Every lock-keeper, workman, and all other persons in the employ of the Conservators on the river throughout the jurisdiction, about 120 in number, have orders to remove all dead animals and other substances calculated to pollute the water, and care is taken that those orders are efficiently performed; and the crew of the steam vessel, which is constantly passing up and down the river, are specially employed for the same purpose.

GENERAL REPORT of the PROCEEDINGS of the CONSERVATORS of the RIVER THAMES from 1st January 1867 to 31st December 1867, with ACCOUNTS of MONEYS RECEIVED and EXPENDED by the CONSERVATORS of the RIVER THAMES, for One Year, ending December 1867; and also from the 6th August 1866 to the 31st December 1867, for the Upper Part of the River between Staines and Cricklade.

(PRESENTED PURSUANT TO ACT OF PARLIAMENT.)

Ordered, by The House of Commons, to be Printed,
29 July 1868.

GENERAL REPORT of the PROCEEDINGS of the CONSERVATORS of the RIVER THAMES, from the 1st day of January to the 31st day of December 1867.

THE duties imposed upon the Conservators by the several Acts of Parliament, of regulating the moorings for shipping, improving the River by removing shoals, maintenance of piers and landing places, locks and towing-paths, removing obstructions, and preventing nuisances, have been attended to.

Dredging has been executed at—

Waterloo Bridge.	Limehouse Hole.
Pickle Herring Wharf.	Shoal off Margaretness.
Nicholson's Wharf.	Woolwich.
Eel Schute Tier.	Blackwall.
Custom House.	Hampton Court.
Davis's Wharf, Horselydown.	Walton and Shepperton.

Moorings have been repaired at—

Deptford.	Horselydown Tiers.
Commercial Dock.	Battle Bridge Tiers.
West India Dock.	Yarmouth Tiers.
West India Dock, Barge-road.	Gravesend.

Moorings have been repaired at—

St. Katherine's.	East India Dock,	Hungerford.

Surrey Canal.	Millwall.	Church Hole, Up-
Alderman's Stairs.	Mill Stairs.	per and Lower
Folly House.	Mill Hole.	Moorings.
South Coast Railway,	Prince's Stairs.	Hanover Hole, Up-
Limehouse Reach.	George's Stairs.	per and Lower
East India Dock,	St. Olave's.	Moorings.
Blackwall.	Hermitage.

Moorings have been repaired at—

Bankside Barge Road.	Petroleum Mooring (Bugsby's).
----------------------	-------------------------------

New moorings have been laid at—

Limehouse Hole, Upper.	Police Ship, Blackwall.
Greenhithe.	Church Ship, Bugsby's.

Causeways and landing-stairs have been constructed and repaired.

The beacons under the control of the Conservators have been kept in proper repair.

The three dredgers have been kept in an efficient state; the lighters and boats used in the harbour and mooring chain services have been repaired as needed, and renewed when necessary.

Four large lighters, suitable either for raising wrecks in the river, or for conveying the material raised by the dredgers, have been provided.

The six locks and weirs on the navigation below Staines, as well as the towing-paths, have been kept in good order.

In the early part of the year it was found that great quantities of mud had rapidly deposited in the navigable channel near the main drainage outfalls at Barking Creek and Halfway Reach, and threatened to present serious impediments to the navigation.

The fact of such an enormous quantity of sedimentary matter being cast into the River from the sewer outlets causes considerable apprehension, and requires constant watching, in order that steps may be taken to maintain and keep open the navigation.

All the information on this subject, acquired either by surveys or reports, has been forwarded to the Home Office and Board of Trade.

In conformity with the requirements of the Thames Conservancy Act, passed in June 1867, notices have been served on all persons or bodies in charge of sewers between tween Staines and the western boundary of the Metropolis, requiring them to discontinue the passing of sewage into the River, and there appears to be a general desire on the part of those authorities to meet the requirements of the Legislature.

With reference to the Conservancy of the River from Staines to Cricklade, which was entrusted to the Board by the Acts of 1866 and 1867, the Conservators have to report that of 33 locks above Staines, substantial repairs have been executed at the following :—

At St. John's, Lechlade.	At Culham.	At Marsh.
At Buscot.	At Wallingford.	At Boultoners.
At Pink Hill.	At Goring.	At Bray.
	At Shiplake.

Eighteen new lock-gates have been supplied and fitted, and 23 lock-gates rebuilt.

A new lock, constructed of stone, has been completed at Bell Weir, at a cost of 4,700 l.

At the following 26 weirs the structures have been repaired or the moveable tackle renewed :—

St. John's, Lechlade.	Crow Marsh.	Hambleton.
Medley.	Wallingford.	Temple.
Osney.	Cleeve.	Marlow.
Iffley.	Goring.	Cookham.
Sandford.	Whitechurch.	Boultoners.
Abingdon.	Caversham.	Bray.
Sutton Courtney.	Shiplake.	Boveney.
Clifton Days.	Marsh.	Old Windsor.

At Sandford a tumbling-bay has been constructed to facilitate the escape of flood-water, and at Sutton Courtney an existing one has been enlarged and made more efficient.

Considerable repairs have been executed to the towing-path and occupation bridges, and towing-path gates.

Below Medley Weir, Oxford.	Near Day's Lock.
Between Oxford Canal and Osney Lock.	Both above and below Benson Lock.
At Sandford.	Near Wallingford Lock.
Through Hard Shallows near Radley Common.	At Goring, and
At Culham.	At Bray.

Towing-path banks have been repaired between Medley Weir and Folly Bridge Lock, a length of nearly two miles, at Culham, near Blakes' Lock, Reading, and at Cookham.

Throughout the course of the River the scavenging imposed by the Act of 1866, has been attended to. The lock-keepers and workmen are required continually to remove from the stream dead animals and any other offensive substances which may be floating upon it.

A superintendent of the upper part of the River has been appointed, whose special attention is directed to the storage and purity of the water.

In addition to the notices reported last year that were served upon the local authorities having charge of the drainage, the Conservators have, in conformity with the 64th Section of the 29 & 30 Vict. c. 89, given notice to the owners of every paper mill on and within three miles of the River, requiring them to discontinue the practice of passing the liquid matter produced in the manufacture of paper into the River.

In order to enable the Board to determine what works were needful to improve the navigation, and to facilitate the escape of floods, a minute survey and section of the River from Oxford to Staines have been made. Subsequently, a similar survey has been carried out from Lechlade to Oxford. With a view also to the consideration of a comprehensive and effectual plan for freeing Oxford and its vicinity from the floods which are now so detrimental, an elaborate survey has been made of all the streams and lands between Osney and Sandford.

There have been 168 meetings for the dispatch of business during the year.

Poor Law Commission Office, Dublin,
30 April 1868.

THE Commissioners for Administering the Laws for Relief of the Poor in Ireland have great doubts whether the information required by the third paragraph can be given at all with any degree of accuracy for the earlier periods named; and even for the later periods, it will occupy much time and great labour, as it can only be obtained by the Commissioners by requiring the clerk of each union to examine and abstract from the rate and valuation books all the various particulars necessary to make the return.

By order of the Commissioners,
R. Banks, Chief Clerk.

General Survey and Valuation of Ireland Office,
6 Ely-place, Dublin, 4 May 1868.

THE Commissioner of Valuation states, as regards the third paragraph of the order, that, as the tenement valuation of Ireland, as made by this department, was not completed until the year 1862, there is no data here from which to supply the required information as relates to the years 1841, 1851, and 1861. Such a return could, however, be furnished for the year 1867, but it would involve much time and labour to prepare it with accuracy for that one year, and as the probable object is to contrast with the other years, of which this department cannot supply the information, perhaps it may not be expedient to prepare the return to paragraph No. 3, for the one year of 1867.

J. Ball Greene, Superintendent.

General Register Office, Dublin,
30 April 1868.

THE information asked for by the fifth paragraph of the order does not exist in this department, as the quantity of the enumerated crops has not been taken by holdings; the "estimated average produce" of the crops, which is published annually, being only obtained by electoral divisions of Poor Law Unions.

The money value of the various crops has never been made the subject of inquiry through this department.

William Donnelly, Registrar General.

BROADMOOR CRIMINAL LUNATIC ASYLUM.

RETURN to an Address of the Honourable The House of Commons,
dated 8 July 1867;—for,

COPY “of last REPORT of the COMMISSIONERS in LUNACY on the CRIMINAL LUNATIC ASYLUM at Broadmoor.”

Whitehall, }
12 August 1867. }

JAMES FERGUSSON.

BROADMOOR CRIMINAL LUNATIC ASYLUM.

REPORT.

19 December 1866.

UPON our statutory visits yesterday and this day, we have inspected the asylum in its several departments, seen all the patients, and made the necessary inquiries into its condition and arrangement.

The numbers of patients at the time of the last Commissioners' visit, the subsequent changes, and their present number, are shown by the following tabular statement:—

	Males.	Females.	Total.
In Asylum, 1st December 1865 - - - - -	326	97	423
Since admitted - - - - -	35	9	44
Discharged recovered - - - - -	6	2	8
Died - - - - -	13	4	17
Present Numbers - - -	341	99	440

Of the present patients, 32, viz., 17 of the male and 15 of the female sex, nearly all cases of murder, are reported as sane. Of the patients admitted since the last visit the large majority are reported to be orderly and tractable.

The two female patients discharged had both been acquitted, on the ground of insanity, of child murder, and neither of them had passed the child-bearing period of life. With the following two exceptions the deaths were from ordinary causes.

1. W. S., an old convict in a state of dementia, cut his throat with his shoemaker's knife in a watercloset.

2. M. A. C. similarly destroyed herself by means of a piece of broken bottle. The first attempt at suicide was unsuccessful; the act was completed next day by tearing open the wound, although specially watched. The attendant appears to have been censurable for not exercising more vigilance. The rate of mortality since the last visit has been low, though higher than in 1865. It was somewhat increased by the deaths shortly after admission of three patients received in an advanced stage of pulmonary consumption. Inquests are held and post-mortem examinations made in all cases.

The sanitary condition of the asylum is reported at present to be good. There have, however, during the past year, been nine cases of typhoid fever, viz., one male patient and four attendants of each sex; one of the male attendants died; the other persons attacked all recovered. The patients last registered as under medical treatment were 64 in number, viz., 41 in the male division and 23 in the female. With very few exceptions, and those nearly all men of the worst class, the patients, at the time of our visits, were quiet and orderly. We found under mechanical restraint three men of violent and dangerous propensities, two of whom had repeatedly inflicted serious injury upon others. Another male patient, who in March last committed a murderous assault upon Dr. Meyer, was secluded, and in a state of great excitement. He is a very treacherous and homicidal lunatic. The Ward Returns relative to employment show the following results:—

MALES.					FEMALES.
Garden and farm	-	-	-	29	Needle and fancy work	-	-	-	22
Trades	-	-	-	41	Laundry	-	-	-	13
Laundry and kitchen	-	-	-	14	Kitchen	-	-	-	2
Carrying coals	-	-	-	12	In wards	-	-	-	20
In wards	-	-	-	50
Sundry work	-	-	-	12
TOTAL - - - 158					TOTAL - - - 57

Amongst the means of amusement and recreation provided for the male patients collectively, are concerts and occasional dramatic performances, chiefly during the winter months. The average number present is 90, but as many as 128 have attended. The female patients are allowed to attend the musical practices of the brass band, and enjoy dances once a fortnight. The patients of the two sexes are never assembled together, excepting at Divine service in the chapel, wherein the attendance averages 65 male and 28 female patients. The school in the male division is attended on an average by 45 patients. Since the last visit, a comfortable reading room has been provided in the male division, suitably furnished and well supplied with books, &c., and to which all well-conducted patients have access. No talking or noise is permitted in this room.

In reference to out-door exercise, we were informed that about 40 male and 60 female patients are taken out regularly in parties for walks beyond the airing grounds.

As a proof that the patients generally are not treated with harshness or unkindness, we have to state that the few complaints made to us verbally or in writing against the officers or attendants by the male patients of the worst class, to which they were confined, turned out, upon investigation, to be of a trifling character, if not frivolous. They for the most part consisted of protests against unjust detention after recovery, or statements that the complainants did not enjoy equal privileges with more favoured patients. The diet is good and liberal, including for dinner, daily, beef or mutton, roast or boiled, or meat pies. We have to report very favourably of the clothing and bedding, as to quality and quantity. The body linen of the male patients is changed three times a week. The arrangements for bathing are satisfactory. The several galleries, day-rooms, and dormitories, the furniture of which is of a very good description, were, when we inspected them, clean and in creditable order, and thoroughly free from offensive odour.

The general arrangement and distribution of the patients continue substantially the same as at the time of the last visit. Until after the completion of the building, in course of erection for the worst and most noisy women, there can be no proper classification of the female patients. This block, the construction and general arrangements of which were described in the last report, will, as therein stated, be of two storeys, and the estimated cost of building and fittings is 9,000 l. On each floor there will be sleeping accommodation for 25 patients, patients, viz., 20 in single rooms, and five in an associated dormitory. The building is of great strength, and made specially secure, the floors being of oak, and the door-frames of cast iron, and the windows throughout being protected by wrought-iron bars. Upon each floor will be a good corridor and day-room, and a cross gallery leading to four attendants' rooms, also a scullery, lavatory, and watercloset; fixed seats are placed in the windows and bays. It is expected that this block and No. 6 in the male division for 50 patients, wherein the sane convicts engaged in levelling, draining, and other earth works still reside, will be ready for occupation in the autumn of 1867. The internal arrangements of the latter will, as we were informed, require material improvements. At present there are in the asylum only 10 vacant beds, all in the male division. Several female patients, but no men, have since the last visit been rejected for want of room.

The staff of attendants appears to be ample. In the male division there are 61 attendants, of whom six are exclusively employed at night. In the female division the attendants are 15 in number, of whom two, in monthly rotation, perform night duty. There are also four laundry women. The wages, allowances, and arrangements for periodical absence are liberal and judicious. We have to report, with satisfaction, the establishment in the male division of a subscription reading room for attendants, containing a good library, bagatelle board, &c. The admission fee is 1s., and monthly subscription, 6d. We availed ourselves of the occasion of our visit to make special inquiry in reference to a subject of much importance, to which the attention of the Board has been frequently directed, viz., the selection of patients for custody and care at Broadmoor, and we were informed that they would in future be limited to the following three classes:

1. Persons found insane on arraignment, or acquitted on the ground of insanity, whatever the nature of the offences.
2. Persons found insane while under committal for murder, and who have not been arraigned.
3. Convicts who have become insane after trial, and while undergoing sentences of penal servitude in Government prisons. We were further informed that no prisoner would in future be received from county gaols who is attacked with insanity, or found to be insane, while under sentence of imprisonment, and that it was intended that all such cases would henceforward have to be provided for in county asylums; also that patients sent by order of the Secretary of State to county asylums would not in future be removed thence to Broadmoor, however dangerous they may have become.

In the course of our visit we learnt that the provisions of the 8th section of the Act 23 & 24 Vict. c. 75, empowering the Secretary of State to discharge from Broadmoor persons whose terms of imprisonment or penal servitude have expired, with a view to their being placed in county asylums, and there treated as lunatics, not criminals, have not as yet been carried out in any case, by reason of the Secretary of State not being invested with the requisite authority to direct the necessary transfer to county asylums. There are at present, as we were informed, as many as 40 female patients at Broadmoor whose cases come within the provisions of the section referred to; and it is to be hoped that the defect in the Act will be remedied by early legislation, and that the power of the Secretary of State may be extended to ordering the transfer from the criminal to the ordinary pauper list of patients of the class mentioned, who are or hereafter may be confined in county asylums.

The Resident Medical Superintendent of the Carlow Asylum to the Inspectors of Lunatic Asylums.

Carlow District Lunatic Asylum,

Gentlemen,

5 March 1867.

I HAVE to inform you that Mr. Brennan, clerk and storekeeper to this institution, died on yesterday.

I must again call your attention to the inconvenience which exists from want of such an officer, and direct your notice to the following minute made at the last meeting of the Board of Governors, held on Monday, the 25th of February:—

“Ordered, that the attention of the inspectors be called to the want of a clerk and storekeeper at present, and they be asked to say in whom the right to make the appointment vests. The present clerk is very infirm and advanced in age.”

I have been obliged, from necessity, to appoint Mr. John Brennan, son to the former clerk, to act as clerk and storekeeper pro tem., as he has been highly recommended for the appointment by several members of the Board. I think, if you have no objection, that his appointment would prove an advantage to the institution

May I ask for an early reply on this subject?

The minutes of last Board were not forwarded, because I had not forms or assistance which I required.

I am, &c.

Gentlemen,

Carlow, 17 April 1867.

APPENDED I send you two communications which I this day received from the Very Reverend James Maher, one of the Governors of this institution. I also send you a copy of my reply to the first letter I received.

May I beg you will inform me what course I am to adopt under the circumstances.

1.—Very Rev. James Maher, P. P., to Dr. Howlett.

Sir,

HAVE you received any communication from the Government confirming Brennan's appointment, which received the approbation and approval of the Board? The case ought to be finally settled without any further loss of time.

Rev. and Dear Sir,

IN reply to your communication of this date, I beg to say I received a letter on yesterday from the Under Secretary, announcing, for the information of the Board of Governors, that his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant was pleased to appoint a Mr. John Abraham to be clerk and storekeeper to this institution.

I remain, &c.

3.—Very Rev. James Maher, P. P., to Dr. Howlett.

Sir,

I HAVE just received your note stating that the Under Secretary has informed you that a Mr. John Abraham has been appointed clerk and storekeeper, annulling the appointment of Brennan, which was unanimously approved by the Board of the 18th. It strikes me that it will be your duty to call a meeting of the Board to take into consideration this act, so contrary to the established usage precedent of the institution.

Yours truly,

EXTRACT from Proceedings of the Board of Governors of the Carlow District Asylum, at a Meeting held on 20th May 1867.

THE Board desire to remind the Inspectors that heretofore the manager of the District Lunatic Asylum has had the appointment of all subordinate officers, subject to the approval of the Board. In pursuance of what is considered his right, Dr. Howlett appointed John Brennan, son of the late clerk, to the situation of clerk and storekeeper, in the place of his late father, and the Board confirmed, on the 18th March last, the appointment.

The Board were therefore much surprised that no notice whatever having been taken of the appointment of John Brennan, a Mr. John Abraham came down as having been appointed clerk and storekeeper by his Excellency, depriving the manager of the privilege of appointing a person on whose efficiency so much depends. The Board beg also to remonstrate against an appointment over which they have had no control. They therefore require that the appointment of John Brennan, made in accordance with previous usage, be confirmed, and that the irregular appointment of Mr. John Abraham be annulled.

Under these circumstances, the Board have declined to pay the month's salary claimed by Mr. Abraham.

Inspectors of Lunatics.

Gentlemen,

Carlow, 7 June 1867.

In reply to your letter inquiring how the clerk and storekeeper of this institution has hitherto been appointed, I beg to inform you that there is no record on the books of such appointment.

The first manager, Mr. Crofton, appointed to the situation of storekeeper a Mr. Patrick M'Caffrey : Crofton died in August 1834, and M'Caffrey was appointed by the Lord Lieutenant to succeed him. He (M'Caffrey) appointed as clerk and storekeeper a person named Church. Of this appointment there is no record, more than that his salary was fixed by the Board on the 4th of October 1836, at 25 l. per annum.

Church died in 1837, and the late clerk, J. Brennan, was appointed to the office ; but of this appointment there is no record either.

It is plain that the Lord Lieutenant's sanction for any of these appointments was not obtained. Nor is there anything in the Minute Book to show that they received the formal sanction of the Board.

SPANISH and PORTUGUESE CATTLE in Ireland.”

My Lord Duke,

Dublin Castle, 7 April 1868.

As I believe your Grace is anxious to be informed as to the practice now pursued in Ireland with regard to Portuguese and Spanish cattle, I beg to enclose, for your Grace's perusal, a copy of Professor Ferguson's last Report on the subject.

His Grace the Duke of Marlborough.

I have, &c.
(signed) Mayo.

Veterinary Department, Privy Council Office,
Dublin Castle, 3 April 1868.

THE following Report relative to the importation of foreign cattle into Ireland is respectfully submitted for the information of Government :—

1. No foreign cattle allowed to be landed in Ireland, excepting from Spain or Portugal.
2. No foreign cattle imported into Ireland from 2nd day of November 1867 until 30th March 1868, on which date the steam-ship “Alexandra” brought 60 bullocks from Oporto to the port of Dublin.
3. Said 60 bullocks were landed on the 30th ultimo in the Custom House Docks, inspected by me after having been landed, certified as presenting no appearance of disease, and licensed for removal to the foreign cattle sheds at Cabra, given in charge to two constables for such removal, delivered at said cattle sheds, and then given in charge of two constables, with whom they remained in custody, until they were sold and delivered to the purchasers on the 2nd instant, a license for their removal to the slaughtering premises of each purchaser being given, said licenses to be delivered to the officers of police in the divisions to which the several slaughter-houses belong.

The demand exceeded the supply, and they were sold early in the forenoon of the 2nd instant.

(signed) Hugh Ferguson, H. M. V. S.

* County divided into two districts in 1851, and I was appointed to South Donegal.

† I was removed from South Donegal, Third Class, to North Donegal, Second Class, at summer 1864.

Various other sums expended, under the Board of Superintendence, not included in these Returns; not appearing as presentments in detail upon the public orders.

N. B.—Owing to changes of county surveyors and division of the county into districts, and also of one barony, &c., much difficulty was encountered in making out this return, and some inaccuracies may possibly exist.

26 June 1868.

COUNTY OF DOWN.

As the county was only divided in 1862, the returns would have been confused, so Mr. Smyth and I thought it better to return the required information for the entire county.

I enclose also a separate return for the South Division of this county for the past six years, since the division of the county in 1862, which of course is included in the general return for the entire county.

3	75 l. , 65 l. , and 50 l.	In 1840 there were 381 miles under repairs and maintenance, which increased gradually. There are now 578 miles under repairs and maintenance.	37 miles of new roads, and over 200 miles of old roads and byways widened, reformed by cuttings and fillings, and metalled, before adding them to the mileage.	Same as in the last column, having been appointed in 1840.

AMOUNT expended on Construction, Maintenance, and Repairs of Roads, Bridges, and other similar Works under charge of County Surveyor, in each Year since 1840.

* Famine years.

† Completing relief works.

‡ 48 miles of turnpike roads, whose repairs alone amounted to about 2,500 l. yearly, was added to the ordinary mileage in and after 1858. Over 700 l. was also expended in cutting hills and filling hollows on this mileage alone by the county. The amount paid by the trustees to surveyors and overseers on these 48 miles of turnpike roads I estimate at least at 200 l. per annum. They are now much better repaired by the county, without any extra cost for superintendence.

In my report to the grand jury at Spring assizes 1862, I estimated the increase of traffic for the previous 20 years at 125 per cent., and the increase of wages and materials for our county works at 70 per cent.

Notwithstanding the decrease in the number of indictments, the duties of Clerk of the Peace have become very much greater than they were at, or for long after, the passing of the Salary Act, 4 Geo. 4, c. 43. At that time he was not obliged to keep a public office; now he does so at his own expense. The salary, too, has decreased a thirteenth by the change of currency, the fees of office have greatly diminished, and the cost of living has enormously increased.

CURRAGH OF KILDARE.

RETURN to an Order of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 9 June 1868 ;—for,

COPY “of the REPORT of the COMMISSIONERS appointed by the Treasury in 1866 to hold a Local Inquiry with a view to LEGISLATION on the subject of the Curragh of Kildare.”

REPORT OF COMMISSIONERS.

To the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

My Lords,

WE have the honour to report that, having been appointed by your Lordships to act as Commissioners for the purpose of inquiring whether it is expedient that any, and, if any, what, legislation should take place for the better management and more beneficial user of the Curragh in the county of Kildare, we proceeded to carry your Lordships' directions into execution, and for that purpose held meetings at the court house, Newbridge, in the vicinity of the Curragh, on the 14th, 15th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th, 21st, and 24th days of September, 1866.

2. Notices of our meetings were advertised during the three weeks prior to the first day of our meeting in the “Dublin Gazette,” “Freeman's Journal,” “Irish Times,” and “Leinster Express.” Notices were also posted on the court house, Newbridge, and throughout the county of Kildare; and in such notices, after setting forth the objects of our meeting, we stated that we should be prepared to receive and consider any statements and suggestions which might be offered to us in relation to rights of common, rights of way, and other rights in or affecting the Curragh, and to any other matters incident to the proposed inquiry which any person might be desirous of submitting to us.

3. The meetings were attended by Mr. Horace Watson, the solicitor in England, and Mr. Keith Hallows, the solicitor in Ireland, to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's woods, and also by a committee of the grand jury of the county of Kildare, appointed for that purpose, and by Mr. Lewis, their solicitor; by Mr. Thomas Brasill, the county surveyor; Mr. Hunter, the secretary of the Irish Turf Club; Mr. R. J. Browne, on behalf of the Ranger (who was unable to attend through illness); the Rev. Cadwallader Wolsely, the Dean of Kildare, and the Rev. G. B. Wheeler, the Rector of Ballysax; Mr. G. P. L. Mansfield, Mr. Meekings, Mr. Sherlock, Mr. J. F. Powell, Mr. George Knox, Mr. Eyre Powell, and Captain J. Dickson; and also by Mr. Cassidy and Mr. C. Molloy (counsel), Mr. C. F. Johnston, Mr. Thomas F. White, Mr. J. H. Townshend, Mr. P. J. Mayne, Mr. Jonathan Clarke, Mr. D. Thorpe, Mr. Keily, Mr. H. V. Colclough, Mr. J. B. Meredyth, Mr. W. S. Maloney, Mr. T. T. Mecredy, and Mr. J. E. Medicott (solicitors), on behalf of several owners and occupiers of land who claimed rights of common of pasture over the Curragh, and by other parties.

4. We received information in regard to the use which has been made of the Curragh for the purposes of an encampment, and also as a racecourse and training ground, and we have considered the proposals and suggestions made for the preservation and future use of the tract for these purposes.

5. We may here state that the Curragh, which is situate in the parishes of Tully and Ballysax, and in the barony of East Offaly, contains, according to the recent Ordnance survey, about 4,885 acres. It lies about 25 miles south-west of the city of Dublin, and about two and a half miles distant from the town of Newbridge, which contains cavalry barracks. The Great Southern and Western Railway passes through the north-western portion of the tract.

6. In the Bill recently before Parliament, the Curragh was proposed to be divided into the eastern and western divisions, but no visible line of boundary exists between these divisions.

7. The encampment has been formed on a ridge, which runs for about two miles on the eastern portion of the Curragh. From this ridge the land slopes on all sides except the west. A considerable extent of the Curragh, on the south-eastern side of the encampment, is appropriated by the troops for ball practice, and the whole of the Curragh is used by them for drilling and exercise.

8. The races are held on the northern side of the Curragh.

9. The external boundaries of the Curragh are well defined, except where a few encroachments have been made.

10. The Curragh is exceedingly well adapted for all the purposes for which it is now used, and, being undulated in various parts, affords special advantages for the instruction and evolutions of the troops.

11. The site of the encampment and racing ground are shown on the copy of the Ordnance map, which we forward with our Report.

12. Having described the position and principal local features of the Curragh, we now proceed to lay before your Lordships the purport of the information and statements made to us during the inquiry.

Claim on behalf of the Crown.

13. In the first place, Mr. Hallowes claimed that Her Majesty the Queen, in right of the Crown, is seised to herself, her heirs and successors, of and in the Curragh and the soil thereof, subject to such rights of common of pasture, rights of way, and other rights, which can be legally established over it; and in support of the claim so made on the part of the Crown, he produced and put in evidence the following documents:—

14. Office copies of various leases in the reigns of Queen Elizabeth, James the First, Charles the First, and James the Second, of lands in several counties in Ireland, with common of pasture on the Curragh of Kildare;

15. Office copies of various conveyances and leases made on behalf of the Crown between the years 1852 and 1866, of portions of the soil of the Curragh to various parties as trustees for the Irish Turf Club, the constabulary force, the Wesleyan Methodists, the Great Southern and Western Railway, the Kildare Hunting Club, and other parties;

16. Office copies of 13 deeds of appointment by the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland between the years 1727 and 1818, and by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's woods in the year 1845, of persons to fill the office of Ranger of the Curragh;

17. Office copies of orders of the Court of Chancery in Ireland in the years 1862 and 1863, restraining severally Paul Moran, John Collis, and James Dooling, from trespassing and committing waste and spoil on the Curragh, and restraining Michael Greany from collecting or removing the droppings of sheep or other dung or manure being on the Curragh;

18. Office copy of proceedings in the Court of Queen's Bench in Ireland in the years 1856 and 1857, in the cause of the Attorney General v. Dunne, by which a prohibition directed to the magistrates therein named, prohibiting them from further enforcing a conviction of the said John Dunne for unlawfully trespassing on the Curragh, was discharged;

19. Office copy of proceedings in the Court of Exchequer in Ireland in the year 1833, in the cause of the Attorney General v. Kelly, in which the defendants were found guilty of unlawfully withholding possession of a stable on the Curragh belonging to the Crown;

20. August 23rd, 1825.—Deed of sale of this date, by which certain quit rents and Crown rents charged on lands and rights of common over the Curragh, granted by the Crown, were conveyed on behalf of the Crown to his Grace the Duke of Leinster;

21. March 23, 1826.—Deed of sale of this date, by which certain other quit rents and Crown rents charged on lands and rights of common over the Curragh, granted by the Crown, were conveyed on behalf of the Crown to Christopher Neale and Ambrose O'Ferrall.

22. Proof was also given by Mr. G. Sackville Smythe and Mr. G. Thornburn of payment of Crown rents, issuing out of portions of the Curragh, which had been granted by the Crown.

23. It was also shown during the course of the inquiry that payments have been made to the Crown for gravel dug on the Curragh.

24. It is unnecessary to comment on the preceding evidence, for the title of the Crown to the soil of the Curragh was not controverted by any of the commoners or other parties who attended the meeting, and, in our opinion, it was satisfactorily established.

25. In regard to the rights of common of pasture to which the Curragh is alleged to be subject, we received and heard the claims of all persons who desired to submit them to our consideration with a view to ascertain, generally, the nature and extent of the common rights, and the lands in respect of which they were claimed, and have been exercised. Claims for rights of common.

26. The claims may be divided into two classes—

27. First, those which are founded on ancient grants from the Crown;

28. Secondly, those which depend on user alone, unsupported by any known grant.

29. The claims falling within the first class are but few in number. The deeds of grant on which they are founded are indefinite as to the quantity of sheep or other stock which may be depastured on the Curragh under the grants, and, in some cases, as to the lands in respect of which the rights of common are granted.

30. The claims falling within the second class comprise, first, the townlands or estates which abut on the Curragh, and which are called "frontage lands." The extent and sub-division of these townlands, provided they originally formed one ancient estate, is considered by the claimants immaterial to the right of stocking the Curragh.

31. The statements made by several of the occupiers show that the large majority of the occupiers of these frontage lands have, in respect of them, stocked the Curragh without interruption at all times within the memory of man; and we are led to believe, by the undisputed information which we received, that a similar right has, in fact, been enjoyed by all the frontage owners without distinction.

32. It was further shown that certain owners in respect of land which they designate "back frontage" land, i.e., land separated from the Curragh by the intervening frontage or other lands, have also stocked the Curragh for a long period without interruption.

33. In regard to the actual user of the Curragh by the occupiers of these frontage and other lands, it was shown that the sheep, horses, and cattle depastured by them on the Curragh consist for the most part of the stock which are kept on their lands according to the legal restriction of levancy and couchancy, increased only by the additional numbers which the enjoyment of the Curragh pasturage may enable them to keep on their farms.

34. But some of the commoners claim a more extensive right; that is to say, they claim a right to depasture on the Curragh as many sheep as bonâ fide belong to them, irrespective of the size of their farms, and although their flocks are far in excess of the number which the farms will fairly maintain, and alleged rights of this character were also shown to have been exercised without interruption. But, subject to a few exceptions, no foreign sheep are taken in by such occupiers with a view to depasture them on the Curragh for profit.

35. The total number of sheep which may be seen at a time on the Curragh in summer was variously estimated. It is difficult to ascertain the number accurately, but the evidence leads us to believe that the maximum quantity does not exceed 15,000.

36. It was clearly shown that in addition to the stock of the occupiers which are pastured on the Curragh under a claim of legal right, several thousands of sheep called "foreigners," sent from the neighbouring county, Wicklow, and elsewhere, by persons who have no connection with the Curragh, are constantly fed there in the summer. The number of these foreign sheep which graze the Curragh annually are represented to be about 4,000, and form a portion of the 15,000 above-mentioned.

37. Some of these foreign sheep are taken in by occupiers of small portions of the frontage and back frontage lands; two of such occupiers appeared before us; one of them admitted that he had taken in 700 or 800 Wicklow sheep belonging to 20 or 25 different persons every summer during the last 20 years, at the rate of 1 s. 3 d. per head. The other admitted that he had in like manner every summer during the last 15 years, taken in about 700 or 800 sheep belonging to 20 different persons, chiefly in Wicklow, at the rate of 1 s. 3 d. per head.

38. It was also represented that certain of the Curragh shepherds, not occupying any lands, have constantly taken in foreign sheep and depastured them on the Curragh.

39. The origin of this trespass cannot be readily traced. It was attributed by several of the commoners to the abolition of the office of inspector of the Curragh in the year 1835, and to the want of proper supervision subsequently; but several of the farmers proved that numerous foreign sheep were sent to the Curragh at least 40 years since, and that their numbers have continued to increase gradually down to the present time.

40. It was also conclusively shown by letters produced to us on behalf of the Ranger that foreign sheep were sent to the Curragh upwards of 40 years since.

41. With regard to the effect of the encampment on the rights of common of pasture, a few complaints were made that sheep had been occasionally shot or injured near the rifle ranges, and that they had been driven from their accustomed pasturage by the military when on duty; but no other damage to the rights of pasturage was proved beyond that which is incident to the user of a portion of the Curragh for the purposes of the camp, and the displacement pro tanto of the herbage growing there.

Proposal of Commissioners of Woods.

42. In connection with the rights of common of pasture which are claimed over the Curragh, we may here state to your lordships that a proposal was made on behalf of the Commissioners of Woods that the Curragh should, for the purposes of its future user, be divided into three portions. That as regards one of these portions, numbered 1, and coloured brown on the copy of the Ordnance map herewith sent, the Crown should have the exclusive control of it, and that all rights of common of pasture (and other rights, except certain public rights of way), should be extinguished.

43. That as to the portion numbered 2 on the Ordnance map, and coloured blue, the Crown should have the paramount right of using it for rifle practice, and also for the drilling, exercise, and recreation of the troops, and for the purpose of temporary encampment when required; and that, subject to such user, the rights of common to which it may be found legally subject should continue over it.

44. And that as to the remainder of the Curragh, numbered 3, and coloured green on the Ordnance map, the Crown should retain the right which it has hitherto enjoyed of exercising and instructing the troops over it, and of using the

the same for their recreation, and also for the purpose of temporary encampment when required, and that all rights of common of pasture to which it is now legally subject should remain undisturbed.

45. That a Commission should be appointed to ascertain and permanently settle the rights of common claimed over the Curragh, and that in case any injury should accrue to the common-right owners in carrying out the proposal of the Crown, compensation should be made to them; but that in the event of the Curragh being more than sufficient to satisfy all the common rights which may be found to exist legally over it, then that the surplus pasturage should be made available for the benefit of the public.

46. Upon the statements made before us concerning the rights of common of pasture over the Curragh, we are of opinion that various questions of importance and difficulty have been raised in regard to the identity of the lands in respect of which the rights were granted by the Crown under the deeds produced to us, and also as to the legal extent of those rights; that the lands adjoining to and in the vicinity of the Curragh to which rights of common are claimed to be appurtenant, and the nature and extent of those rights, are not clearly ascertained and defined; that rights of common are exercised in respect of a large portion of those lands to an extent and upon grounds not recognised by law, and that the parties who are rightfully entitled to the herbage have been, and are still, deprived of a considerable portion of it by the trespasses of foreign cattle; and that it would conduce to the benefit of the parties rightfully entitled, if all legal rights of common were ascertained and permanently settled. And our consideration of this question has been much simplified by the proposal of the Commissioners of Woods. This proposal has been accepted by the public as a fair and proper mode of settling the question, and we therefore think that it is desirable on all grounds that it should be adopted.

47. In regard to the public roads over the Curragh, it was shown that they Public roads. comprise—roads which have been presented by the grand jury, and are now repaired at the expense of the county; roads which have been presented by the grand jury, but which have ceased to be repaired by the county; and also roads, formerly green tracks, which have never been presented or repaired by the county, and which have been now metalled by the War Department; also green tracks still remaining unmade roads.

48. The committee of the grand jury of the county of Kildare submitted to us the following resolutions in regard to the public roads over the Curragh:—

49. “The committee of the grand jury of the county Kildare will be satisfied if the following arrangements are carried out by the Government:—

50. “1. That the public rights of way through or upon the Curragh be entirely preserved to the county.

51. “2. That in the event of the road leading from Ballysax, under the butts, to Athgarvan being found inconvenient for military purposes, the Government do at their own expense make another road as near the original line as possible, but same to be subject to the approval of the county surveyor.

52. “3. That as the present roads through the Curragh are all kept in repair at the expense of the county, the contractor for same should have liberty to obtain gravel for the repair of such roads off the Curragh as the Grand Jury Act provides. Sed vide paragraph 47 of our Report.

53. “4. That as the barony of East Offaly bears the entire expense for the repair of such roads through the Curragh, the Curragh should be liable to its share of the grand jury cess and taxes of said barony.

54. “5. That in the event of any income being derived by the grazing of the Curragh, or otherwise, the said income should be spent in the maintenance of said roads.”

55. On behalf of the Commissioners of Woods it was proposed that, subject to the power of diverting two of the public roads, viz., the road which passes from east to west through the encampment, and the road which leads from Ballysax to Athgarvan, all the public roads which now pass through the Curragh should be preserved to the public, including the road which runs through the encampment from north to south, and is marked X Y on the Ordnance map herewith sent; and that as to the said road which passes through the encampment from east to west, it should be lawful for the Crown to stop up the same upon substituting another road in lieu of it to the north of the camp; and that as to the road from Ballysax to Athgarvan, it should also be lawful for the Crown to make a new road in lieu of it, subject, as to the formation of the road, to the approval of the county surveyor.

56. It was shown by the military officers who attended the meeting, including the Commander of the Forces in Ireland, that it is necessary for the War Department to have the absolute control of the road which runs from east to west through the encampment, in order to prevent robberies in the camp, and to exclude prostitutes and other improper persons. The other road from Ballysax to Athgarvan passes directly across some of the rifle ranges.

57. For these reasons we are clearly of opinion that the road passing through the camp from east to west, and which was originally a green track, and rarely used until it was metalled by the War Department, ought to be stopped as a public way, and placed under the control of the military; but we are not prepared to recommend the substitution of a new road for it to the north of the portion numbered 1, as we have no evidence of its necessity.

58. We consider that a power should be given to the War Department to divert the public road from Ballysax to Athgarvan; for it was shown that a road with easy gradients, as laid down on the Ordnance map, can be made to the west of the present line of road passing to the rear of the ranges, whereby much inconvenience now resulting to the military and the public will be avoided.

59. We consider that this new road should be made at the expense of the War Department.

60. We also recommend that all public roads which traverse the Curragh should be ascertained by the Commission which is proposed to be appointed.

Private ways.

61. No claim was made before us for any private way; the parties living on the edge of the Curragh expressed themselves satisfied with the rights of way by which they obtain access from their inclosed lands across the Curragh into public roads.

62. On reference to the Ordnance map, it will be seen that a public carriage-road has been made around the circumference of a considerable portion of the Curragh. This affords direct access from the Curragh, and from the roads which traverse it, to the adjoining frontage lands; but in that part of the Curragh to which the public carriage-road above mentioned does not extend, the frontage owners are compelled to travel across the turf of the Curragh, except where a private road has been made by them to the nearest public roads; and it was suggested on behalf of the Commissioners of Woods that a power should be given, in the event of any legislation taking place, to stop all unnecessary private roads and to set out convenient private roads to the adjoining lands; and we entirely concur in the expediency of this arrangement.

The encampment.

63. In regard to the encampment which was established on the Curragh in the year 1855, we found that accommodation was then provided in the barrack-huts erected there for 10,000 men.

64. It was proposed to us by the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Woods that, for its future management and user, the Curragh should be divided into three portions, as we have already pointed out.

65. With regard to the portion numbered 1, we are of opinion that, for the discipline of the camp, it is necessary that the site of the present hut encampment, and the ground immediately surrounding it, should be placed under the absolute control of the Government, and discharged of all rights of commonage and public and private rights of way, except over the road marked X Y, which passes through the camp from north to south. The exact extent of the portion necessary for the requirements of the camp, especially on the north side, may be open to doubt. It is to be observed that the land falls from the site of the present encampment to the north, and a large portion of the ground adjoining the camp on its north side lies low, and is unsuitable for the purposes of an encampment in case the Government should require an extension of the existing one. The ridge on which the encampment stands extends towards the west, and affords an advantageous and healthy site for new buildings.

66. But we have accepted the proposal of the Commissioners of Woods for the appropriation of the entire portion numbered 1 (which we find to contain about 600 acres), for the purposes of the camp, subject to the approval of the Secretary of State for War in regard to its precise boundaries.

67. We recommend that, in the event of an extension of the encampment being required, the Government should, for this purpose, have power to purchase the rights over a further portion of the Curragh, not exceeding 100 acres.

68. We further recommend that, inasmuch as the road marked X Y passes directly across the centre of the camp, it should be subject to a right on the part of the Crown to stop the traffic over it on the requirement of a magistrate in times of riot or alarm.

69. In regard to the portion numbered 2, as the boundaries were suggested by the Commissioners of Woods, we find that certain parts which lie on the east and south sides of the Curragh are not required for rifle practice. We therefore recommend that the area of the portion numbered 2 should be confined to the reduced quantity as now laid down and coloured blue on the Ordnance map herewith sent, and that within the limits of this portion the Crown should have the power of erecting butts and other necessary works for carrying on rifle practice, with such fences as may be necessary for their protection.

70. We also propose that the War Department should have the right of digging gravel on the Curragh for the repair of their roads and other purposes of the camp.

71. And that they should likewise have power to carry drains through the Curragh, as they may find necessary for the draining of the camp.

72. The meeting was attended by Mr. Hunter, the Secretary of the Irish Turf Curragh races Club, who manages the races on the Curragh.

73. There is no doubt that horse races on the Curragh have existed for centuries. At present the races are held four times in every year.

74. Mr. Hunter informed the Commission that Her Majesty has been accustomed to give the annual sum of 100 guineas for a plate to be run for at one of the meetings; that the Lord Lieutenant also gives 100 guineas for another plate; and that 11 other sums of 100 guineas each, for plates to be run for on the Curragh, are provided by Parliament.

75. According to the statements of Mr. Robert J. Browne, as representative of Mr. Robert Browne, the ranger of the Curragh, and of Mr. Hunter, the following fees, derived from racing and training horses on the Curragh, are primarily payable to the ranger as part of the emoluments of his office:—

1. Entrance fee for Royal or Vice-Regal plates - - -	1	1	0
2. Fees for every horse being the winner of the Royal or Vice-Regal plate - - -	5	5	0
3. Fee for every horse trained on the Curragh - - -	1	1	0
4. Fee for every horse winning stakes above 50 l. - - -	4	4	0
5. Fee for every horse winning stakes under 50 l. - - -	2	2	0
6. Fees for every horse winning Royal or Vice-Regal plates	2	2	0

76. The ranger receives and appropriates for his own use the fees numbered 1 and 2 in the preceding schedule, and these fees amount on the average to about 200 l. per annum.

77. The remainder of the fees, both for racing and training, are received by the stewards of the Turf Club, under an arrangement with the ranger, and are expended expended by them in the preservation of the courses and gallops, and in other ways for the encouragement of racing. These latter fees amount on the average to about 360*l.* per annum.

78. Mr. Michael Clancy informed us that he now keeps the courses and gallops in repair; that he ploughs, harrows, and rolls the gallops when necessary; that he repairs the damage done to the ground by the military, and lays down, under instructions from the ranger, new gallops whenever required, for which duties he receives 80*l.* per annum from the Turf Club.

79. Mr. Hunter informed us that the Turf Club receives annually from the War Department a sum of 50*l.* for the repair of the damage done to the courses and gallops by the military, and that he considers this sum sufficient for the purpose.

80. Lord Charlemont, one of the present stewards of the Irish Turf Club, forwarded to us a letter dated 18th September 1866, containing a request that we should define and secure the rights and privileges of the Turf Club in connection with the training and racing of horses, and the improvement of the breed of horses in Ireland. He objected to the indiscriminate cutting-up of the turf by cavalry and artillery frequently in wet and unseasonable weather. And he suggested that the cavalry and artillery, when at exercise, should be prevented passing to the north side of the Limerick-road, as the portion to the north of the camp, i. e., the portion lying between the camp and the Limerick-road is, as he alleges, amply sufficient for the purpose of exercise.

81. He further suggested that, on the days of reviews, the entire Curragh might be used, but that assistance should be given by the military to repair the damage done by the passage of guns and waggons over the gallops.

82. That the fees paid for training horses on the Curragh, and the fees now payable in respect of the races, should be paid to the Turf Club.

83. Lord Charlemont, and Lord Howth, who is another of the Stewards of the Irish Turf Club, have since suggested to us that the four-mile course should be changed, and placed wholly on the north side of the Limerick-road, and that a new course should be made for that purpose, and that the labour and cost of the work should be borne by the military.

84. On considering the proposals of the Turf Club, we are of opinion that the privileges which the club has hitherto enjoyed over the Curragh, with permission of the Crown, should be continued to them.

85. We are also of opinion, that the total amount of fees payable to the ranger, under the present regulations, is unnecessarily high. We allude more particularly to the fees payable for horses entered for and winning the Queen's plates; and we think that a revision of these fees, with a view to their reduction, is desirable.

86. We also recommend that the fees which, by the permission of the ranger, have hitherto been received by the Turf Club, at whose expense the courses and gallops are kept in repair, should be henceforth ensured to the club. We, however, call attention to the fact that payment of the training fees is frequently evaded.

87. We do not recommend the adoption of the proposal of the Turf Club, that the cavalry and artillery, when at exercise, should be prevented passing to the north side of the Limerick road, as we do not think it advisable that the exercise of the troops should be confined to any particular portion of the ground. Such a measure would cause the destruction of the turf on the parts to which they were so restricted; it is, therefore, necessary that the drill ground should be continually varied.

88. We now beg to call your Lordship's attention to the management of the Curragh.

89. The management of the Curragh is vested in the ranger, who is appointed by the Crown "to do, perform, and execute all things belonging or incident to the said office; to enter upon and inspect every part of the Curragh at his free will will and pleasure; to view, search, and see the state and condition thereof, and to preserve and maintain the metes and bounds; to prevent encroachment, trespass, and intrusion thereon; to preserve the game, destroying all dogs, nets, and guns used by any person for killing the said game; to manage, superintend, and do any act for improving and bettering the said tract as he shall in his discretion and judgment think proper; and all powers and authorities, and all manner of fees, profits, perquisites and emoluments, and advantages belonging to the said office," are granted to him, and he is empowered to appoint any deputy or deputies.

90. Mr. Robert John Browne, son of the present Ranger, Mr. Robert Browne, informed us that his father receives the following remuneration for his services:—

91. First, an annual sum of 350 l., paid by the Commissioners of Woods.

92. Secondly, a sum of 17 s. 6 d. per day (equal to 319 l. 7 s. 6 d. per annum), which has been paid to him by the War Department since the formation of the camp, in consideration of the extra duties thereby imposed upon him.

93. Thirdly, fees paid for training horses, and for racing on the Curragh.

94. It has already been shown that the fees which the Ranger appropriates to his own use, viz., the entrance fees for the royal and viceregal plates, and the fees for every horse winning the royal and viceregal plates at the Curragh, amount to about 200 l. per annum. The remainder of the fees, which are stated to belong to the Ranger, but which he permits the Irish Turf Club to receive, amount to about 360 l. per annum.

95. Fourthly, fees payable for the erection of tents during the races. The Ranger usually leases the right to license the erection of tents, and receives from this source an annual sum of 10 l.

96. The amount, therefore, of the Ranger's remuneration is—

	£.	s.	d.
Annual sum paid by Commissioners of Woods - - -	350	-	-
Annual sum paid by the War Department - - -	319	7	6
Fees arising from training and racing, about - - -	200	-	-
For licenses to erect tents at races - - -	10	-	-
TOTAL - - - £.	879	7	6

97. It was also shown by Mr. R. J. Browne that, previously to the formation of the camp (in the year 1855), the Ranger appointed and paid three or four persons as caretakers over the Curragh, who acted under his instructions. After the formation of the camp, and in consequence of their supervision being insufficient, additional caretakers were appointed by the Ranger, and paid by the War Department.

98. Our attention was specially directed by Mr. Hallowes to the great inconvenience which has been experienced in prosecuting persons who committed minor offences on the Curragh, e.g., turning out pigs unrun, removing droppings of sheep, depositing manure-heaps on the surface, and injuring the turf by driving over it.

99. It was shown, that under the Act 36 Geo. III., c. 50, which authorised grand jurors to appoint inspectors, and to levy a cess upon commons, the grand jury of the county of Kildare appointed an inspector of the Curragh with a salary, and for several years levied a cess on its frontage lands. The right of the grand jury to make the appointment and levy being challenged, it was held by the Judges of the Queen's Bench, that the Curragh was not a common within the meaning of the Act; and, in the year 1835, the presentment of the inspector's salary was quashed. The Act of 36 Geo. III., c. 50, was shortly afterwards repealed.

100. Subsequently to that period, various trespasses, which from time to time took place on the Curragh, were dealt with by the magistrates; and numerous convictions ensued, with the infliction of fine or imprisonment. This state of things continued till the institution of petty sessions, at Newbridge, in the year 1860. From that period the magistrates refused to adjudicate on these trespasses whenever the defendant raised a question of right, which frequently occurred.

101. The Commissioners of Woods were thenceforth constrained to have recourse to petitions in suits in Chancery for punishment of offenders, and this mode of punishment is still pursued, entailing trouble and expense wholly disproportioned to the amount of damage which occasioned the proceedings.

102. A further inconvenience in the prosecution of offenders was complained of. It was shown, by Mr. Browne, that when a nuisance is committed on the Curragh, the caretaker reports it to the Ranger, who then transmits the report to the Commissioners of Woods in London, through the Quit Rent Office in Dublin, and they, after considering or taking advice as to the proper remedy to be resorted to, transmit their answer to the Ranger through the same Quit Rent Office.

103. But it appears further, that proceedings for punishment of an offender are not prosecuted until it has been previously ascertained that he is of sufficient substance to pay the fine, if inflicted, and costs.

104. One of the principal injuries complained of is the intrusion of foreign sheep, which are proved to have been pastured on the Curragh for at least 40 years. Letters were produced to show that, upon a requisition being made to the Ranger by several of the landowners to prevent the trespass of foreign sheep, the Ranger (in the year 1821), applied to the legal adviser of the Crown in Dublin, and was informed "that it was his (the Ranger's) duty to preserve the rights of the Crown, but that as the application appeared to relate to the interests of individuals, by whom those interests ought to be maintained, it was a matter in which the Crown could not interfere."

105. The landowners refrained from incurring the heavy expense of prosecuting the owners of the foreign sheep, and a most serious injury remains unchecked at the present day.

106. We may also observe that complaints were made of the want of sufficient power in the police to prevent the immorality which takes place in and around the Curragh, and it was suggested by the commander of the forces in Ireland that increased powers should be given for the purpose of checking it.

107. In connection with this matter application was made to us on behalf of the Board of Superintendence of Naas Gaol, and on behalf of the Board of Guardians of Naas Union, that we should recommend to your Lordships that pecuniary assistance should be afforded by Government by way of compensation for the increased expense entailed upon the gaol and union by reason, as alleged, of the Curragh camp in the neighbourhood.

108. A paper was produced to us purporting to show that the number of prisoners committed from the Curragh camp to Naas Gaol in the year ending 31st of December 1865, was 599, viz., 58 males, and 541 females; that the costs charged to the county rates as incident to, or resulting from, these committals was 410 l. 12 s. 2 d.

109. And it was further stated that out of 65 committals from the Curragh camp to the gaol in the month of August last (1866) 60 of them were those of camp followers, i. e., persons attracted to the Curragh and Newbridge by the presence of the military.

110. A paper was also produced to us purporting to be an estimate of the expenses for the year ending 25 August 1866, of the auxiliary building in Naas Union, solely appropriated to unfortunate women, in which it was represented that a sum of 488 l. had during that year been expended on their account, and that the larger portion of these women came from the Curragh camp.

111. In contradiction of the statement in regard to the committals to Naas Gaol from the Curragh, the Crown Solicitor for the county of Kildare put in a return which represents that in the month of August referred to, the committals to the county gaol were as follows: "From the Curragh 39, and from all the other districts of the county 68." He also informed us that out of the 39 committals from the Curragh, one only was that of a soldier.

112. It was shown to us that the annual sum of 100 £. is already granted by Government in aid of the expenses of the Naas Union, in consequence of the presence of the camp.

113. We beg to lay the request for pecuniary assistance before your Lordships, and to call your Lordships' attention to the apparent discrepancy between the two statements, and to add that we do not consider it within our province to make any recommendation as to the point.

114. Proposals were made to us on the part of the Commissioners of Woods that the future management of the Curragh should be transferred to the control of the Commissioners of Public Works in Dublin; that the Commissioners should have power to appoint bailiffs or other officers, with adequate salaries, for the protection of the Curragh, and that the office of Ranger should be abolished.

115. The statements made before us show that great inconvenience, delay, and expense, result from the present mode of dealing with trivial offences affecting the soil of the Curragh. We consider that those offences ought to be summarily dealt with by magistrates in petty sessions. And we beg to point out that, although a claim of right when raised at petty sessions has been permitted of late years to oust the jurisdiction of the magistrates, such claim has not prevailed in the superior courts of law in Ireland.

116. We consider that the machinery at present in existence for managing the Curragh has not sufficed for the prompt suppression of nuisances and trespasses, especially the trespasses of foreign sheep, and we recommend that power should be given to the department to which the future management is transferred to remedy these defects.

117. We have considered the proposal for the transfer of the management of the Curragh to the Commissioners of Public Works in Ireland: and we think that the transfer, accompanied with the powers which we have recommended to be given, is desirable, and that it will remedy the inconvenient and expensive delays in the administration of justice which have been brought before us.

118. Referring to the proposal that the office of Ranger should be abolished, we are of opinion that it will not be possible to enforce the new regulations proposed to be established without the presence in the neighbourhood of some person with independent authority to supervise the Curragh.

119. We also propose that a power should be given to the surveyor of the county to take gravel without payment from the Curragh for the repair of the presented roads which pass through it, subject to such regulations for its use as may be imposed by the Board of Works.

120. And that proper officers should be appointed for regulating the number of sheep or other stock which should be depastured on the Curragh.

121. We have omitted to state that a claim was made before us to a right of holding a cattle and sheep fair on the Curragh at the French Furze, with liberty to the parties attending the fair to depasture their stock on the Curragh without payment during their attendance at the fair. Claim to right of holding fair.

122. In conclusion, we have the honour to report to your Lordships that, in our opinion, legislation is necessary for carrying out the several recommendations and suggestions which we have made, and we now shortly recapitulate the matters to which it appears to us that such legislation should extend, viz.:— Conclusion.

123. To enable the Crown to acquire the entire interest in and absolute control over the portion of the Curragh numbered 1, discharged of all public and private rights except the public right of way over the road marked x x on the Ordnance map, subject to the power which we have pointed out of stopping up that road in time of riot.

124. To enable the Crown to enjoy the paramount right of rifle practice over the the the portion of the Curragh numbered 2, with the power of erecting butts and other necessary works for that purpose, and with power also to divert the public road leading from Ballysax to Athgarvan.

125. To enable the Crown to enjoy the paramount right of using the whole of the Curragh numbered 1, 2, and 3, for the drills, exercise, instruction, recreation, and temporary encampment of the troops, with power to dig gravel on the Curragh and to drain it.

126. For the transfer of the management of the Curragh to the Commissioners of public works in Ireland, with power to them to appoint bailiffs, and to make bye-laws for the user of the Curragh.

127. For insuring a more speedy and inexpensive mode of dealing with offences affecting the soil of the Curragh.

128. To give power, if necessary, to the Department to which the management of the Curragh may be transferred, by such regulations as it may think fit, to preserve the use of the Curragh for the purpose of horse-racing and the training of race horses.

129. For the appointment of a Commission for ascertaining and settling the rights of common of pasture and other rights which legally exist over the Curragh, the persons to whom they belong, and the estates in respect to which they are exercised. We also propose that the value of such rights should be ascertained.

130. For determining the amount of compensation, if any, which should be paid to the parties interested in the herbage of the Curragh for the loss or damage sustained in carrying out the preceding arrangements.

131. For ascertaining all public rights of way.

132. For stopping up all unnecessary private rights of way over the Curragh, and setting out such private rights of way as shall be necessary.

We have, &c.

CURRAGH OF KILDARE.

LETTER from the Audit Office to the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury.

Audit Office, Somerset House, London, W.C.,
8 February 1867.

My Lords,

Mr. HUNT having, in his letter of the 26th ultimo, requested us to furnish in separate reports, for your Lordships' consideration, explanatory statements of the authorities and checks under which the moneys included in the accounts, a statement of which was transmitted by us on the 20th of November last, are received and paid, and of the legal or other authorities applicable to the rendering and examination of such accounts; we beg leave to submit the following information, with reference to the accounts of the district lunatic asylums for the poor in Ireland.

The establishment and maintenance of district lunatic asylums for the poor in Ireland are provided for by the 1 & 2 Geo. 4, c. 33. The second section empowers the Lord Lieutenant in Council to order the erection and establishment of any number of asylums, and in such districts as may be deemed expedient; and the third section enacts, that the expenses of the erection, establishment, and maintenance thereof, shall be provided for by the counties within the several districts. The fourth section provides for the advance, out of the Consolidated Fund, of such moneys as may be required for erection and establishment of lunatic asylums, and for repayment of the advances made for the erection or establishment of any asylum by the county or counties within the district thereof, when such asylum shall be fit for the reception of the lunatic poor. By the 6 Geo. 4, c. 54, the system of advances from the Consolidated Fund, and repayment by the counties, is extended to the maintenance and support of the asylums, from time to time.

The advances for maintenance and for ordinary repairs are made directly from the Paymaster General; and, for new buildings or structural additions, through the medium of the Commissioners for the control of lunatic asylums in Ireland, under whose superintendence the works are executed.

It will thus be seen that the whole of the expenses of the asylums in question are to be ultimately provided for by the counties in their several districts; and, so far as we are aware, no public money is involved beyond the loans and the repayment thereof; of these, however, no accounts have been hitherto rendered to this office.

The 14th section of the above-mentioned Act of 1 & 2 Geo. 4 provides, that the accounts of the several asylums shall be rendered, in the manner therein prescribed, to the Commissioners of Audit in Ireland, to be by them examined and audited under the powers vested in them by the 52 Geo. 3, c. 52.

Upon the abolition of the Irish Board of Audit, the accounts were transferred to this office, under the provisions of the 2 & 3 Will. 4, c. 99; and they are here examined and audited, with reference to the rules and regulations promulgated by the Lord Lieutenant in Council, under the powers vested in him by the fourth section of the before-mentioned Act of 1 & 2 Geo. 4.

The above-mentioned Act, transferring the duty of examining these accounts from the Irish to the English Board of Audit, has been repealed by the schedule of the Exchequer and Audit Act; and, as it would appear to us that the audit of these accounts is effected not on behalf of the Government, but on behalf of the counties by which the expenses of the asylums are ultimately borne, we submit that it is a matter for your Lordships' consideration whether provision should be any longer made from the funds voted by Parliament for the examination, at the public expense, of the accounts of local expenditure in a particular portion of the United Kingdom.

The Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury,
&c. &c. &c.

We have, &c.

— No. 2. —

LETTER from the Public Accounts Commission to the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury.

My Lords,

Public Accounts Commission,
17 February 1868.

WE have had under our consideration the accounts of the lunatic asylums in Ireland, and the letter of the Commissioners of Audit, dated 8th February 1867, referred to us by your Lordships, and have been in communication with officers of the Irish Government upon the subject.

The cost incurred for the erection and maintenance of these lunatic asylums in Ireland is, in the first instance, met by advances out of the Consolidated Fund, but the whole of the expenditure is recovered from, and ultimately falls upon, the several counties concerned in these establishments.

It appears to us, therefore, that this expenditure can most properly and most efficiently be audited under the control of the persons charged with the financial interests of the several counties.

The duty which should devolve upon the Government is, to ascertain that the total amount of advances is ultimately recovered.

With regard to the cost of erection of lunatic asylums there can be no difficulty, as the exact sum advanced is presented for, and recovered from the counties.

In the case of maintenance, however, a difficulty has been pointed out; it has been stated to us that it is not for repayment of the sums advanced from the Consolidated Fund that presentments are made, but only for the amount expended out of these advances, on account of the several counties; that there never is a repayment of the advances.

We think that this difficulty may easily be met. The difference between the actual repayment and the advance, must consist either of expenditure not presented for, or of a balance in the hands of the local accountant, for both of which the several counties would remain liable; and a certificate showing the amount of such expenditure or balance, signed by some authorised county officer, would satisfy the Government auditors of the correctness of the account.

We would, however, point out that the arrangement under which the counties are called upon to repay, not the advances, but the amount of actual expenditure only, seems scarcely in accordance with the provisions of the Act 6 Geo. 4, c. 54. This Act, which authorizes advances from the Consolidated Fund for the maintenance of the asylums, in the second section directs that the counties shall present for such sums as shall be necessary for the repayment of any such sums so advanced.

The difficulty which has been raised, and the complication which has arisen, by demanding repayment of the amount expended in place of the amount advanced, would, therefore, be entirely obviated by a strict adherence to the Act of Parliament.

Another objection which has been suggested is that, in many cases, a lunatic asylum district comprises several counties or cities, and that it would be difficult to provide for an audit satisfactory to all these; we cannot think there would be much objection on the part of the several grand juries or municipal councils, who have a voice in the management of the asylum, to agree among themselves to appoint a joint auditor.

Under such an arrangement the rules now in force need not be interfered with. The issues for the asylums would continue to be made upon estimates furnished as now, and the presentments would be made upon the counties for the advances, as prescribed by the Act, or upon the returns of the expenditure certified by the governors as they are at present, without reference to the Government audit, which does nothing more than check the correctness of the vouchers for the expenditure.

This seems to be a matter in which the counties and cities which provide the money are most interested, and they are best able to examine and control the expenditure.

The appointment of local auditors would necessitate the provision of money to pay their salaries, and it is averred that the Lord Lieutenant has not the power to present for such charges. This question involves a point touching the legal construction of the provisions of an Act regarding which we hesitate to give an opinion; should the fact be as stated, it would be necessary to apply to Parliament for the requisite power to charge the cost of audit upon the counties, but we would point out that the Act 1 & 2 Geo. 4. c. 33, establishing these asylums, in section 5 gives power to the Lord Lieutenant to make rules and regulations for the management of the asylums, which would seem to include the establishment of a proper staff of officers for the conduct of the affairs of the asylum; and section 7 provides for the payment by the counties of any expenditure for maintaining the asylum or the officers thereof.

The Act 6 Geo. 4, c. 54, in authorising advances for the maintenance of these asylums, enacts that they shall be made upon such estimates, and under such rules, regulations, terms, and conditions, as to the Lord Lieutenant seem best suited for promoting the beneficial purposes of such asylum. The Government audit having been withdrawn, under the provisions of the Act 29 & 30 Vict. c. 39, we cannot but think that this enactment empowers the Lord Lieutenant to insist upon a proper local audit being provided by the counties.

We would suggest that a copy of our report be submitted to the Irish Government for any observations they may desire to make upon the subject.

LETTER from the Treasury to Sir T. Larcom, K.C.B.

Sir,

Treasury Chambers, 29 February 1868.

I AM commanded by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to transmit to you, for the information of the Secretary of State for Ireland, a copy of the report, dated 17th instant, of the Public Accounts Commissioners, relative to the examination of the accounts of lunatic asylums in Ireland, and I am to request that their Lordships may be furnished with any observations which the Earl of Mayo may have to offer upon the subject.

Sir T. Larcom, K.C.B.,
&c. &c. &c.

I am, &c.
(signed) William Law.

— No. 4. —

LETTER from Lord Mayo to the Secretary to the Treasury.

Sir,

Irish Office, 13 March 1868.

I AM directed by the Lord Lieutenant to state, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, that his Excellency has duly considered the Report of the Public Accounts Commissioners relative to the examination of the accounts of lunatic asylums in Ireland, transmitted with Mr. Law's letter of the 29th ultimo, and, in reply, desires me to submit the following plan as the best solution of the difficulty.

In consequence of the passing of the Act 30 & 31 Vict., c. 118, his Excellency has caused the rules and regulations for the good conduct and management of the several district lunatic asylums in Ireland to be carefully revised, and the revised rules are now under the consideration of a Committee of the Privy Council.

The cost of erecting and enlarging district lunatic asylums is levied by 28 half-yearly instalments off the counties forming the district in proportion to their respective population; and complaints having been made that the outlying counties whose representative governors, owing to the distance of their residences from the asylum, do not regularly attend the Board, did not receive their just quota of accommodation, the following rules were framed to remedy this injustice.

XIII. In the case of every district asylum of which the district shall consist of more than one county, county of a city or town, the Board of General Control and Correspondence shall forthwith ascertain the proper number of patients that can be safely and conveniently accommodated in such asylum, and also the quota of accommodation to which each county, county of a city, or town forming the district of such asylum, is entitled, such accommodation to be in proportion to the amount charged to such county, county of a city, or town, towards the erection or enlargement of such asylum, and shall furnish a statement containing the particulars aforesaid to the Clerk of the Council; and it shall be lawful for the Lord Lieutenant in Council, from time to time, to alter or amend the said statement, or to approve or disapprove of the same, and the final approval of such statement shall be communicated by the Clerk of the Council to the resident medical superintendent.

XIV. The resident medical superintendent shall submit to the Board at each meeting a return in the form hereunto annexed, marked D; and when considering the applications for admissions, the Board shall, except in cases of extreme urgency, allocate the vacancies among the counties, counties of cities, or towns forming the district of the asylum, so that, as far as possible, each such county, county of a city, or town, shall receive its full quota of accommodation. Provided, however, that whenever the full number of patients allocated to any county, county of a city, or town, shall be accommodated in the asylum, no further patients from such county, county of a city, or town, subject, nevertheless, to the exception hereinbefore mentioned, shall be admitted so long as there shall be unsatisfied claims for the admission of patients from other counties, counties of cities, or towns of said district, which shall not have received their quota of accommodation.

new system of audit, to estimate the sum to be advanced on account of each county forming the district of their asylum for the maintenance of its full quota of patients, and of such other additional number of patients in excess of the quota in the case of any particular county, as may be reasonably expected; and that in framing all subsequent estimates any excess, in the case of any county, of expenditure over the sum so advanced, should be charged against, and any diminution of the expenditure under the sum so advanced should be credited to that county, and added or deducted as the case may be, in its estimate.

By this means the Privy Council will be enabled to order every half-year that the sums advanced on account of each county shall be repaid by that county; the difficulty now arising from the difference between the amount advanced and the amount expended will be obviated, and, as observed by the Public Accounts Commissioners, this course will be a more strict adherence to the Act of Parliament, 6 Geo. 4, c. 54, sect. 2, than the present system.

As regards the audit of the accounts, his Excellency suggests as the most convenient, and, at the same time, economical course, that the accounts of the lunatic asylums should be audited in the same manner as the union workhouses accounts, viz., by an auditor appointed by Government, with the same statutory powers as Poor Law auditors, his salary to be chargeable on, and payable out of the funds standing to the credit of each asylum, in such proportions as shall be fixed by the Lord Lieutenant in Council.

His Excellency is of opinion that this could not be done properly without an Act of Parliament, for two reasons.

1st. It is quite true, as observed by the Commissioners, that under the Act 1 & 2 Geo. 4, c. 33, the Lord Lieutenant in Council has power to make rules and regulations for the management of the asylums, but the right therein implied by the Commissioners to fix the establishment of the officers was so doubtful as to necessitate the passing of a subsequent Act (30 & 31 Vict. c. 118) expressly conferring that power; and on reference to the Interpretation Clause, it will be perceived that no special provision is made for the appointment of an auditor, and it may be questionable whether such an officer would come under the general definition of "any person discharging any duties in any asylum," whom the Lord Lieutenant by Order in Council shall designate as an officer of that asylum.

2ndly. An auditor, to make an efficient audit, must have certain statutory powers to disallow and strike out illegal charges and payments, to require if necessary the verification of accounts by oath before him, to recover by process sums found due against parties liable, as well as to recover sums disallowed from the governors or officer chargeable, if not authorised by them, as the case may be.

His Excellency desires me, in conclusion, to state that he will postpone the consideration of the new draft rules till their Lordships' final decision; and I shall be prepared to introduce a Bill into Parliament on the subject should their Lordships concur with the Commissioners on Public Accounts, that the audit of these accounts by the Exchequer and Audit Department should be discontinued.

The Secretary to the Treasury.

I am, &c.

COPY of TREASURY MINUTE, dated 8th April 1868.

STATE in reply that my Lords are of opinion that it would be desirable to amend the rules and regulations for the good conduct and management of the district lunatic asylums in Ireland, in the manner proposed by his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant.

Add that, as my Lords concur in the recommendation of the Commissioners of Public Accounts, that the audit of the accounts of those asylums by the Exchequer and Audit Department should be discontinued, they request the Chief Secretary to take the necessary steps for the introduction of a Bill into Parliament to provide for the audit of these accounts under the system indicated by his Excellency.

Write to the Comptroller and Auditor General, and inform him that the Irish Government have been requested to introduce a Bill into Parliament for the purpose of providing a local audit of the accounts of the district lunatic asylums in Ireland, but that, as it will take some time to pass the measure, my Lords are of opinion that the accounts of these asylums for the past year should be examined by the Exchequer and Audit Department, and request the Comptroller and Auditor General to take the necessary steps for this purpose.

 The Registration Counties consist of groups of Superintendent Registrars' Districts, or Poor Law Unions. Whenever a district or union extends into more than one county, it is assigned wholly to that county in which the greater portion of the population is located; hence all the Registration Counties differ more or less from the Counties Proper.
